The Weekly Monitor.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 10th, 1886.

—The remarks that appear in another column, credited to Mr. John Lowe, of London, in reference to badly packed apples, we regret to say, have too much truth in them. It was our impression, up to a short time ago, that owing to the ventilation given to this matter in the press, the improvement in packing had been so great as to leave small room for remark. But such is not the case, unfortunately. Only a few weeks ago, one of our local speculators called our attention to a barrel of apples, that were marked No. 1's of a certain kind. Upon inspecting them, we found them to be mis-shapen, windfalls, bruised, of different kinds, and actually only fit for the cider mill. Now, in the name of all that is honest, what is to be thought of a man who would put up such a barrel of apples, and receive pay for them as No. 1's? Is he not as much guilty of fraud and robbery as if he went into a neighbor's yard and stole his wood or anything else he longing to him? What is the difference between receiving $2.50 for a barrel of apples represented to be worth that amount, but which upon inspection, cannot be sold in any market for 50 cents, and deliberately picking the buyer's pocket of $2.00? The difference would be only in the way it is done—the guilt is the same with a lie in the bargain.

There are some causes for poorly put up apples, that are not traceable to dishonest motives—the chief of which is ignorance as to to the proper methods of packing. As a matter of course, some packers have much better judgment, and more experience than others; but there is no excuse whatever, for a man to put two or three different kinds of inferior apples in a barrel, and label them No. 1 Baldwins, Greenings, or any other standard kind.

If the mischief of dishonestly packed apples could only be confined to the perpetrators, it would not be very great, as they would soon become marked men, and avoided; but the innocent suffer with the guilty. The whole valley suffers. Hundreds of farmers in this fertile region put up their apples in a manner that they have reason to be proud of. Their names on the head of a barrel are a guarantee that the contents will be true to name and number. If they make any errors, they are the natural ones of judgment, or done in ignorance of the requirements of the market, for which they cannot be justly blamed.

The remedy for the evil of dishonest packing is only to be reached by some sort of a stringent law. The resolution passed by the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association if it becomes law will help, undoubtedly. It is as follows:—

The committee appointed to report on the question of the inspection, packing and exportation of apples, reported an amendment to the Dominion act of 1885 on weights and measures, requiring that all apples for sale shall have the name of the packer and the quality of the fruit stencilled on the barrel head, with a penalty for breach of the statute from 25 cents to $5 in the discretion of the justice.

The apples grown in the Annapolis Valley are acknowledged to be the finest, best flavored, and longest keepers of any in the world, and it only needs that they should be properly handled after the Creator gives them to us to ensure us a good market for them always.

It is a very unpleasant duty for us to have again to refer to this matter editorially, as the prosperity and good name of our valley are very dear to us, and it is much against our inclinations to thus acknowledge that we have enough unprincipled farmers among us to make it a matter of comment. We do not know whose corns we may be treading on, except in a few solitary instances, as, for some reason or other, speculators when they get bitten in this way, generally keep the names of the delinquents to themselves, and the latter usually have shame enough left to keep their names off the heads of barrels. We hope, however, that some of these wrong doers will be induced to reflect upon the injury they are doing themselves, their neighbors and their County, and do better in the future.

—It certainly looks doubtful now if the fishery clauses of the Washington treaty are going to be renewed. The United States fishermen are bitterly opposed to it, and they have also, apparently, influenced a large body of people outside of themselves. There is evidently a strong under current of opposition to the renewal of the treaty in Congress. It will be a fact very much to be regretted, if we have to return to the old condition of affairs, with its headland question, the expense of keeping up armed vessels, the constant watchfulness that will be necessary, and above all, the ever present fear that some collision may take place between the fishermen of each country, or the cruisers and the fishermen of the United States, that may lead to serious international difficulties. The article in another column from "Bradstreet's," is right to the point, and gives a fair view of the matter.

Even now it is illegal for the United States fisherman to fish within the three mile limit, but the government have wisely decided not to enforce the restrictions, until the action to be taken by Congress is made known.

Even if the United States refuses to renew the treaty, matters may not be so bad for us after all, in losing that market. There are other markets, which only need developing, to prove good ones, and when the United States fishermen are deprived of their participation in our valuable fishing grounds, and cannot procure bait from us, and cannot cure their catch upon our shores, they will find a vast difference. We should not be surprised if the extra trouble and expense they will be put to, and the decreased catch, resulted in obliging them to ask such high prices for their fish, that our fishermen can sell in their own market, at an equal profit, and pay the duty. The United States is not all the world by any means, and if they refuse to be neighbourly and slight our friendly offers, we must simply show them we can exist without their trade—and we can, too.

—An Annapolis correspondent says:

In your last issue, I notice an item referring to the energy of two Yankee women, who have been making apple jelly, and you thought it might prove a useful hint to some of our own women. It may be of benefit to the Bridgetown ladies; but this branch of industry is piper's news to the people of Annapolis Royal, for Mrs. Edward Ryerson, of this town, has been in the habit of making, for the past eight or nine years, from thirty to one hundred dozens of tumblers full a year, and these are not like the small tumblers that are put up across the border. They have been purchased to go to England, Government House, Ottawa, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Boston, Portland, Eastport, St. John, Halifax, Shelburne, Yarmouth, and nearly all the towns and villages in this province. The trees and vines on which the fruits are grown, were planted by themselves, from eight to twelve years ago, and the jellies consist of green and ripe grapes, strawberries, raspberries, rhubarb, quince, pear, red, white and black currants, cherries and plums in variety, and eight varieties of crab apple. Besides crab apples used in making jelly, about 10 barrels were sent to St. John and Halifax this year. And now Mr. Editor, should you or any of the numerous readers of your paper visit the old capital, Mrs. Ryerson will only be too happy to show you, or them, about eighty dozens of jelly made this season, and she would like to send samples of jelly, spiced fruits, etc., to the Colonial Exhibition in England.

We are glad to hear that the experiment of putting up jelly has been so successfully tried by Mrs. Ryerson. The field however, is large, and her success should also prompt someone to engage in the business upon an even more extensive scale. Of course, it would require some time and patience to get firmly established; but we think it would not take long to create a demand for jellies, tastefully put up from the delicious fruits grown in this valley. Buyers would soon detect the difference between the pure article and the so-called fruit jellies usually offered for sale.—[Ed. Mon.

Lawrencetown Items.

Lawrencetown is certainly becoming a prominent place in our county, and should stand out more prominently on the time-tables of the W. & A. Railway. A general horse trot took place on the river on Saturday last. No time was taken, but from my knowledge of the horses, think any of them could make a mile in six minutes, under favorable circumstances. The coldness of the day did not prevent a fair attendance of those interested in fast horses, from Bridgetown and elsewhere.

As I am giving general news, I should refer to some very interesting meetings, recently held in our Lawrencetown lecture room, by Rev. Messrs. Johnson and Batty, and should not omit a description of spreading the Gospel under difficulties, on Saturday last, occasioned by an upsetting sleigh spilling one of our clergymen on the street, the horse dragging him some distance, without injuring him. I have not learned that any benefit has been derived from this method of spreading the Gospel, but Lawrencetown has long been considered a hard place, spiritually, and extreme measures may be resorted to, in order to effect a change.

Last, but not least, is the pleasant entertainment, given by the Lawrencetown Mutual Improvement Society in the lecture room, on Monday evening last. The room was crowded with an appreciative audience while the somewhat lengthy programme of the evening's entertainment was being carried out, consisting of music, vocal and instrumental. Some recitations were well rendered. We were also favored with some readings and speeches by the young members of the society. Our young folks certainly deserve credit for taking steps in the right direction, for their social and moral improvement, which is the object of the society, which meets on Monday evening, and should meet with more encouragement from the well-thinking public.

Local and Other Matters.

—Mrs. Wm. Hume Blake, the mother of Hon Edward Blake, died on the 3rd inst.

Political Meeting.—The Liberals of Wards Nos. 4 and 11, are requested to meet in Tupper's Hall, on Monday evening next at 7.30 o'clock. 11

—At a recent marine examination at Yarmouth, Geo. W. Johnson, of Annapolis was passed as mate.

—The Aldershot camp ground, Aylesford, is wholly covered with ice and is now used as a trotting park.

—Mrs. McLean, has just received a fine assortment of Valentines of all descriptions. Low prices. Call and inspect before going elsewhere. 11.

—Last week we had several very cold days, but the thermometer during the day did not register lower at any time than the cypher, and was generally three or four above. In Montreal, on Friday evening last, the mercury fell to 22 degrees below.

A Sad Coasting Accident in St. John.—Harry, youngest son of Mr. Ernest Hutchison, mill owner of Douglastown, Miramichi, and two little children named Annie and Robert Bennie, sister and brother, were drowned at Douglastown, while coasting on the 1st inst. Their bodies were recovered.

—Mr. John Holdsworth, has been appointed judge of probate and Mr. Francis Hutchinson, registrar of probate in Digby County. These offices were made vacant by the decease of the incumbents as before reported.

Sad and Fatal Accident.—Mr. Lemuel Chute, a son of Mr. Burton Chute's, of Clarence, was accidently killed by a heavy log rolling on him, on Thursday of last week. The particulars of the sad affair are about as follows: The deceased, in company with a hired man, was getting out logs on the North Mountain. The former was coming around a short turn with his team of bob-sleds, on which were two logs, when suddenly the sleds slewed, upset and threw off the logs, which rolled a short distance and stopped, parallel with the brow of a steep bluff. Just then, Mr. Chute's wife signalled him to come to his dinner, and he started back and called his help; but before going down they thought it would be as well to take the smaller of the two logs down to the house at the same time. To get this log in position where it could be most conveniently put on the sleds, both men stood astride of the larger log, and got the other lying crosswise of its mate, when suddenly the latter commenced to roll down hill. The help saw it first, jumped and called out a warning to Mr. Chute; but it was too late, the log caught him in some part of his clothing, dashed him to the ground, and the log and man went rolling down the steep bluff together, a distance of some rods. The log struck Mr. C. first in the head, and fractured the skull so badly, that he must have been killed almost instantly. Thursday, as will be remembered, was intensely cold, but the wife of the deceased, as soon as she heard of her husband's awful fate, ran the whole distance of three-quarters of a mile, in slippers, and without any wraps what ever, and when the neighbors arrived on the scene, she was already there, sitting in the snow, and holding her husband's head in her lap. It was a supremely sad and affecting scene. The deceased was a man much respected and liked in his neighborhood, and was the only son of his aged parents. The widow is left with one child. The funeral took place on Sunday, and was one of the largest ever held in the locality. We tender our sincere sympathy to the stricken family.

—The wonderful electrician, Edison, has succeeded in perfecting a discovery by which he can transmit and receive telegraph messages on a moving train. The conducting medium is the ordinary telegraph wire, and the current passes from the roof of the car to the wire.

True Greatness.—This is the subject of the third lecture of the course, to be delivered (D. V.) by the Rev. J. A. Kegers, of Windsor, in the Methodist Church, next Tuesday, the 16th inst. Mr. Rogers has the reputation of being among the first pulpit orators of the Maritime Provinces, and as this is his first visit to Bridgetown, we hope he may meet a full house. See handbills.

—We have received the first number of a new amateur publication called the Loyalist, started by two enterprising youths in Annapolis, named Messrs. J. H. Runciman and R. A. Robinson. They are editors and proprietors. The matter contained in its pages is all original, and really creditable to the young journalists. "Great oaks from small acorns grow," and the day may come when these boys who prefer to employ their spare time in this profitable manner, may date great success in life from this small beginning. We wish them good fortune.

—At the Fredericton Infantry School of Military Instruction, on the 3rd inst., Lieut. E. F. McNeil, of the 72nd regiment, Annapolis County, N. S., passed his preparatory examination, receiving high marks. By permission he will take a short course instead of a special.

—The ladies of the Methodist congregation, at Granville, intend holding a Social in Upper Granville Hall, on the 15th inst.

A Bean Social is also to be held on the same day at Mr. B. R. Balcom's Paradise, by the ladies of the Baptist Church.

—Gillis, the Charlottetown murderer is to hang on the 11th inst. When asked what he had to say why sentence should not be passed against him, the prisoner said: "I have a good deal to say, but don't suppose it will do me any good now. I know I am innocent; God knows I am innocent. That's all I have to say. I thank my attorney, Mr. Peters, for his kindness. That's all I have to say."

Fire at Inglisville.—The house owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Boyd was totally consumed by fire on the night of the 2nd inst. As the fire broke out near midnight the inmates were sound asleep, and escaped with only their clothes. The night was cold and their sufferings were intense. Before help could be summoned their effects were all burned, and they were left in their old age homeless and destitute. Efforts are being made to help them, and any gifts from the charitable will be thankfully received.

—The government of Nova Scotia has made arrangements for an Educational Exhibit, at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition London, for 1886. Drawing and writing and some miscellaneous specimens from our public schools of this province have been solicited by the Superintendent of Education. The following specimens have been prepared by the pupils of the Bridgetown school: Copy books by Hanaford Longmire and Reggie Miller; parsing and analysis by Maggie Leitch and a map by Ethel Davies. We have had the privilege of inspecting the samples, and must heartily congratulate our young friends upon the excellence of their work. The map of England, by Miss Davies, deserves special mention. It is truthfully and well drawn, and must have caused considerable labor to the young lady who is but fifteen years old.

—The first skating contest between the rival skaters in the County, Mr. Percy Burns of this town, and Mr. Arthur Miller of Annapolis, came off in the Bridgetown Rink on Saturday night last. Only one heat, however, was skated which was won by Miller by two laps. Burns was taken with a severe pain in the stomach during the second mile and was thus at a serious disadvantage. He pluckily says, however, that he is not going to give the contest up yet, but he will skate his opponent in Annapolis, on Friday night. Miller's time in the race was 8 minutes. He is a game one and skated a three mile race last week against Jas. E. Craft, of St. John, the winner of a first prize in the Victoria Rink of that city. Craft only won by about ten feet, but would have done better had he not fallen when near the close of the race.

—At the annual meeting of the Nova Scotia Sugar Refining Co., a discouraging statement of the affairs of the corporation was shown. In order to go ahead with the business, about $300.000 more capital will be required. A committee was appointed to confer with the directors to see whether it was best to continue operations, or close up.

—On the 8th inst., London, Eng., was under mob rule for nearly the whole day. The mob was composed of starving mechanics, and socialists. A mass meeting was held in Trafalgar Square, around the Nelson monument, and resulted in a riot. The meeting was addressed by a socialist named Burns and others. Burns waved a red flag while he was speaking. The speeches made were most inflammatory and excited the crowd to frenzy. The police attempted to remove Burns but were only successful in doing so for a short time. The mob came to his assistance and he was brought back again amid cheers and threats against the police. The demonstrations, however, at last became so violent, that the whole body of police massed together, and finally succeeded in removing Burns from his stand around the monument. He made no attempt to go back, but addressed the mob elsewhere. At last after some hours of this sort of thing, the mob became separated by being forced down different streets by the great crowds of people pressing upon them in the rear. Everywhere they went they took possession of the streets smashing windows and invading houses and shops and appropriating their contents. Although they maltreated several people, no one was killed or seriously injured so far as can be learned by the despatches and the whole crowd finally dispersed and went to bed at the usual hour. The police estimate that 50,000 people were engaged in the riot, and said that never before in the present generation has such a tremendous demonstration resulted in so small a loss of blood.
