

IRISH NOTES.

Mr. W. Redmond and Mr. J. J. O'Kelly, who have been acting on behalf of Mr. Parnell in America, arrived at Queenstown on July 18 in the Guion steamer "Arizona." They represented that their mission had been successful. They had held meetings in the United States and Canada, while not a single meeting has been held in opposition to Mr. Parnell. Mr. O'Kelly, however, stated there was a large body in the States who were opposed to both parties.

The strike of the dockworkers which has been agitating Dublin for the past fortnight has collapsed, the men having been compelled to return to work on the merchants' terms. These latter applied to the Ship Owners Federation Society across the channel, who quickly supplied them with hands to keep the work going, and so the strikers had to cave in. In Ireland, certainly, the Labor Associations seem to be a complete failure—perhaps from the plethora of workers—and in almost every case employers have won, the chief result of the ineffectual efforts being much suffering to the women and children.

Fighlin House, near Athlone, the residence of Mr. Joseph Keogh, J. P., was attacked by armed men at a very early hour on the morning of July 29. The noise of firearms awakened Mr. Keogh and his daughter, and on going to the window they saw two men armed with guns. One of the men immediately fired, but the shot missed. The men then decamped. Mr. Keogh and his daughter identified the men as the sons of farmers. It was found afterwards that two valuable dogs belonging to Mr. Keogh had been shot dead in their kennels. A relative of the men had been prosecuted some time ago by Mr. Keogh for poaching, but the defendant fled the country before the case came on. It is alleged that both men threatened Mr. Keogh.

The Irish Times' London correspondent says: "Notwithstanding statements from Gladstonian sources to the contrary, there are letters in existence written by Mr. Gladstone to Mrs. O'Shea. I have this on the authority of a person who has seen the letters. They are in Mr. Gladstone's own handwriting, and they are addressed to Mrs. O'Shea. When they are required, and at the proper time, they will be produced. When the letters are published I believe it will be found that the Kilmainham negotiations and other intrigues with the Parnellites were conducted between this lady and Mr. Gladstone. One reason for the intense bitterness of the Parnellites against Mr. Gladstone and his party in 1885 was the feeling, based on the secret correspondence, that they had been betrayed.

It was rumored during the week that Mr. Justin McCarthy, M. P., was about to resign the leadership of the Irish party, all health being advanced as the reason. He has, however, withdrawn his intention, and will retain it for some time longer. It is not improbable that that event that Mr. John P. Kelly will take up the reins, and his election would probably culminate in uniting the two parties. With the defeat of Mr. Parnell at Carlow, much of the white heat and rancour of political parties here has disappeared. It was vigorously and bitterly fought, that contest, and just as the winning side take their victory with thanks, the defeated accept their beating if not in sorrow, at any rate in silence. But it is pretty generally understood that the cause of the late leader is irretrievably lost.

The various banks have been presenting their reports to their shareholders, and their returns would go a good way to show just the disturbed political condition of things, that the country generally is pretty prosperous. The net profits of the Bank of Ireland for the last year come to £166,000; those of the National Bank for the same period to £284,499, and the others in similar proportions. All anticipate with the prospects of an abundant harvest, a renewal of prosperity. The harvest has been somewhat delayed by the wet weather of the past three weeks, but the hot sun has again set in and the country looks everywhere extremely well. The crops are in fine condition, and if the weather continues as it is at present we may expect a better season than we have had for years. Therefore the Bank directors are jubilant.

It is not in those days of quick telegraphy, swift steamers, telegraphs, and all the rest that one would expect to find smuggling going on, especially around the British Islands. Yet it seems it is. For some time the revenue authorities have had their suspicions aroused by certain proceedings on the west and south coasts of Ireland and the number of Dutch vessels that were hovering around the water ways. On Thursday a revenue cutter arrived off the coast of Skibbereen in the county of Cork, and disembarked a number of revenue officers. In Baltimore they raided several shops and licensed premises and made large seizures of tobacco, cigars, rum and brandy, which, it appears, had never paid duty or passed Her Majesty's custom house. In Cape Clear and Sherkin Island their searches proved equally successful, and a diligent search is being instituted in all the coves and inlets of the coast and in the islands lying further out. A great deal of valuable material was lost to novel-writers with the extinction of smuggling, and who knows but it may be brought to hand again.

The naval manœuvres have commenced, and the Irish harbors from Bantry Bay to Kingstown are filled with torpedo boats. An attack is to be made by the enemy on the Irish coasts preparatory to landing an invading army, and it is the province of the channel fleet aided by these powerful little vessels to prevent it. Dublin is in especial menace, it being the intention of the foe, if they can creep past the vigilant cruisers, to destroy the newly made Loop Line Railway, the bridge of which crosses the Liffey above the Custom House. Should they succeed in doing so and get their guns trained on the city, a heavy requisition in money will be levied off the capital. Belfast, too, is being made the objective point of attack, and a flotilla of torpedoes passed up the channel northwards yesterday, steaming in all haste to the protection of the Ulster city. Should the enemy be able to get past the forts a heavy tribute will be levied off the city fathers there also and the foreign foe will steer off to sea laden with spoils (in imagination) from this already "distressed country." Much interest attaches to the manœuvres this year, as the torpedoes play by far the most important part in them. The iron-clad "Bellesisle," at Kingstown, is busy with its electric search lights each night, sweeping the sea for miles around to prevent any of these dangerous little machines creeping on her unawares, and the effect is very pretty and is watched by crowds of spectators.

A MYSTERY.

Suspicious Death of a Young Woman of Toronto.

QUEENSTOWN, Ont., Aug. 7.—The body of a young lady was found at seven o'clock this morning in the Niagara river, about 200 feet below the Lewiston wharf. She appeared to be about 20 years of age, about five feet four inches tall, light brown hair and was neatly dressed, wearing dark waist trimmed with plaid facings, and black silk skirt, buttoned kid shoes and black hose. A black silk parasol, brown straw hat trimmed with artificial red roses and a black jacket were found on the bank near the body. Foul play is suspected as the body was standing slightly bent in about three feet of water with the skirt thrown over the head and tightly twisted under the throat, while signs of a struggle are visible on the shore about half way to the top of the bank. Two men about twenty-five years of age, five feet five inches tall and rather stout, are under arrest at Lewiston. They were found on the shore about fifty feet from where the body was first seen. Two young ladies from Lewiston say they saw these two men and the deceased girl in company late yesterday afternoon. One man gave his name as Henry Daly and both say they belonged formerly to Toronto, which they left about six months ago. The deceased is said to be Miss Delia Larkin of Toronto.

OBITUARY.

Dr. Thomas A. Rodger, whose death took place on Thursday, was one of Montreal's most popular physicians, and his early taking off will be felt as a personal loss by very many who hold him in regard both as a skilful medical man and a big-hearted, generous-minded friend. Dr. Rodger, whose family came from Bethel, Scotland, was born on the 29th November, 1847. He was educated at McGill, and twenty-one years ago began practice at Point St. Charles. Latterly, he has filled the important post of chief medical officer of the Grand Trunk railway. He was also an attending surgeon of the Montreal General Hospital and a representative fellow of the faculty of medicine of McGill college. His illness, which began in April last, it was at one time thought would be overcome; but fate willed it otherwise. He married Miss Grace Dow, and has one son, aged 15 years. His father died only a year ago, at the ripe age of 90. He has two sisters, Mrs. Gilmour, who lives in the city, and Mrs. Mackenzie, who lives in Maine City, Mich., and one brother, William, who lives in Toronto.

Rev. Abbe Joseph Quevillon, one of the pioneer missionaries at Pittsfield, Mass., died here on Wednesday last. The funeral took place at St. Vincent de Paul.

On the 25th of July, Durland's oldest, but one inhabitant passed over to the great majority, James Currie, aged 92. He was born in Spain while his father was on military service there under Sir Arthur Wellesley. His father, Major Currie, at the close of the Peninsular war came to Durban, and settled on lot 10 in the 5th range at the same time as Colonel Harriot settled in Drummondville. He joined the latter in forming a military station at the latter place and throughout their lives the two were fast friends. The Major fought at Corunna, under John Moore who was buried at dead of night. With his martial oak around him. He took part immediately after his arrival in Canada in the war of 1812.

Le Col. Antoine-Charlier de Lotbiniere Harwood, late Deputy Adjutant-General No. 5 district, died on Thursday night at Notre Dame Hospital. He was born in Montreal on St. George's day in the year 1825. His father was the late Hon. Robert Unwin Harwood, seigneur of Vaudreuil, who represented that county in the Legislative Assembly. His mother was Dame Louise-Charlier de Lotbiniere, herself the daughter of the Marquis de Lotbiniere. Young Harwood studied in the Montreal College, and was admitted to the Bar in 1848. He subsequently made a voyage to Europe. Upon his return he practised law for some years, and in 1857 was elected to represent Vaudreuil in the Quebec Assembly. Many citizens will remember his famous speech in favor of confederation which caused Sir George Etienne Cartier to cross the room to come and shake hands with him. In 1859 Mr. Harwood resigned his seat to become the first Adjutant-General of the 5th Military District, a position which he held until 1888, when he retired retaining rank. In 1851 he married Miss Angélique Lefebvre de Bellefeuille, daughter of the late Mr. de Bellefeuille, seigneur of Mille Isles, who was Adjutant-General for Lower Canada, in 1830. Deceased was the brother of Mr. H. S. Harwood, M.P. for Vaudreuil, and of Mr. R. W. Harwood, ex-M.P. He was first cousin to the Hon. Mr. Joly de Lotbiniere, and brother-in-law to Judge Taschereau, of the Supreme Court, Col. Paton, Deputy Minister of Militia, and Mr. de Bellefeuille-Macdonald. Dropsy was the immediate cause of the Colonel's death, and it was brought on by an attack of grippe. His wife survives him, but he leaves no issue. The funeral, which was of a military character, took place on Saturday at Vaudreuil.

May Last for Years.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 7.—An officer of the United States ship Pensacola, which arrived yesterday from Chili, stated to an Associated Press correspondent that the progress made so far by either party in Chili is small. The Congressional party has plenty of money, while Balmaine is flooding the country with paper money. At Valparaiso the English sovereign is worth $15. Should Balmaine's new cruisers arrive from Europe in good shape to enter engagements the insurgents will be defeated, but if anything happens to the new ships it is impossible to predict the outcome and the war may continue for years. Both parties are well supplied with arms and ammunition. So far only three engagements have been fought. None of them have been serious, and the insurgents have been victorious each time. In regard to the reported sinking of the Pensacola's launch, Captain Kautz said it was entirely erroneous. The blowing up of an insurgent launch by a torpedo was probably the foundation for the story.

A Costly Enquiry.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—As the privileges and Elections committee draws to the end of its labors it is possible to make some computation of what it will cost the country. Those best qualified to speak state that between $65,000 and $75,000 will have to be expended to meet the cost of the enquiry. The expert accountants and engineers alone have been paid close upon $3,000, if not more than that, but the principal charge will be that for printing, which will be enormous. The work at the printing bureau is seriously impeded by the vast amount of material thrown upon it by the investigation in progress and this promises to be increased by the Senate enquiry, and at present over four and a half tons of type are standing in the Government printing office.

The Toronto Mystery.

TORONTO, Aug. 7.—At the request of Handcock's counsel the investigation of the murder case has been adjourned for a week. Mr. Murlock wanted the body examined that a more thorough examination might be made of the fractured skull, and he was highly indignant when he was told that the skull was now in the possession of the coroner. Several witnesses were examined without adding anything new when the magistrate stopped further proceedings, saying that he heard enough to warrant him in committing the prisoner for trial. He said the fact appears to be simply that this girl was murdered. "I am satisfied," he said, "that she has been murdered. She must have either been murdered by the prisoner or somebody going along the road who entered and struck her down. It is extraordinary that any stranger could so suddenly commit the deed and get away without being noticed. This is one point I must remember. He consented to the adjournment, however, and a further medical examination will be made.

A Terrible Attack.

WINNIPEG, Man., August 7.—A despatch from Morden to-day says: Yesterday was very warm and clear until about 10.30, when it began to cloud over and shortly afterwards a terrific storm of thunder and lightning, accompanied by winds and rain, broke over the district and raged furiously until 4.30 this morning. The lightning struck the dwelling of a farmer named David Martens, setting fire to the house, instantly killing Mrs. Martens and stunning Mr. Martens and six children. The eldest boy, a lad of 15 years, was the first to regain consciousness and at once set to work to remove the bodies from the burning building, which he accomplished in time to save the lives of his father and little brothers and sisters, who soon afterwards regained consciousness.

Manitoba Politics.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 9.—In the election yesterday at North Brandon Attorney-General Sifton was successful, defeating Cliff (Opposition) by 137. The majority was much larger than anticipated.

I suffered from temporary sleeplessness from overwork for two years, for which I used Pastor Köenig's Nerve Tonic, and can recommend same as the best medicine for similar troubles. F. BOHNHORST. CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 1, 1887. I can most truthfully testify to the fact that here in Cleveland, several cases of epilepsy, which were cured by the medicine of Rev. Father Köenig, of St. Wayne, Ind., have come under my personal observation. In other similar cases great relief was given even if up to this time they have not been entirely cured. WHITECHAPEL HORROR. Fleddish Attack Upon a Woman of Seventy. LONDON, August 7.—Much excitement was occasioned in the Whitechapel district this morning from a rumor that "Jack the Ripper" had again appeared and committed another atrocity. At an early hour this morning a one of the inhabitants of Whitechapel, an old woman named White, was passing through one of the numerous dark alleys with which the region abounds, she was set upon by an unknown man, armed with a sharp knife. The place where the assault was made was dark and dismal. The man grasped the woman by the hair and leaving her backward he, with one hand across her mouth, silenced the cries she would naturally have tried to make, while with the other hand he drew the long blade knife across her tightly drawn throat, inflicting a terrible wound. Then, using the knife as a dagger, he plunged it into her body again and again. There is a deep wound on the woman's arm, which it is believed was received while she was attempting to ward off the ferocious blows aimed at her body. When released from the grasp of her assailant the woman dropped to the ground with the blood pouring from her wounds, and when shortly afterwards she was discovered by a passing policeman she was unconscious and in a dying condition. She is 70 years old. The police are hunting for the assassin. He has disappeared leaving no trace save his mutilated victim. The woman was taken to the hospital, and after a time she recovered sufficiently to tell of the attack made upon her. She is a German, and unlike the other women murdered and mutilated in Whitechapel, she was not in company of the man who attacked her, but was passing along the street, when, without warning, the assassin sprang upon her.

A British Naval Officer's Suicide. Six Prisoners of Aug. 7.—Several British prisoners were taken on board the steamer "Siesta" on July 11, shortly after leaving Sydney, and was drowned. Hodges had been suspended from duty for one year on account of a breach of discipline and was on his way to England.

Not Fishermen Arrested. WASHINGTON, N.Y., August 10.—A bill was made on the 8th August in the St. Lawrence river, near Cape Vincent, New York, resulting in the capture of thirteen large nets which had been in illegal use in catching the game fish of the river. Two of the net fishermen, Fred and Edward Barber, were arrested after a chase and struggle, the others making a desperate resistance, even striking at the officers with hatchets when the latter boarded their boats. In one of the nets five hundred black bass were found. Mr. W. H. Warner's steam yacht "Siesta" was used in the chase and conveyed the prisoners to Cape Vincent, where they were arraigned and gave bail to appear for trial on August 10. The nets were taken to Alexandria Bay and burned.

A Strange Story. WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The Secretary of the Treasury has been advised that a bold attempt will be made during the present month to rob the Treasury by a strong and well-armed band of men organized for that purpose. The plan is to start fires in various parts of the city for the purpose of diverting the attention of the police and then to overpower the Treasury watchmen and loot the money vaults. The information was given in a letter signed by the "King of the Tramps," who explained that he was the leader of the band. The letter was referred to the captain of the watch with instructions to give the visitors a proper reception. Wisemann's Expedition. GENOA, August 6.—Baron von Wisemann, the German explorer, has sailed from this city for Aden, where he will engage a number of Somalis, who will proceed with him to Zanzibar and Dar. Es-Salaam. The main body of Baron von Wisemann's present expeditionary forces, which is concentrated at Sardinia, will set out not later than September, thus avoiding the rainy season in the low lands. The shipment to Aden of a portable railway, the first of its kind to be sent to Africa, preceded the departure of the Baron.

Live Stock. The receipts of Live Stock at these yards for week ending Aug. 1st were as follows: Cattle, Sheep, Lambs, Hogs. 275 289 791 639. Total for week 316 257 79 639. Large receipts but little change of value in export cattle; values a shade below the decline seeming likely to continue with present cable from English market. A fair market for butchers' stock, however, supply and demand, no change in values. Sheep market dull, large receipts of previous week, maintained strong. We quote the following as being fair values: Cattle export, 3 1/2 to 5; cattle butchers' good, 4 1/2 to 4 3/4; cattle butchers' med., 3 1/2 to 4; cattle butchers' cull, 3; sheep, 3 1/2; Hogs 7 1/2; calves, 2 to 2 1/2.

Orleanist Discontent. LONDON, July 8.—A meeting of prominent members of the Orleanist party has been held at the residence of the residence of the Count of Paris. The plans of the party were thoroughly discussed. There is increasing discontent among the Count's adherents due to the Count's refusal to adopt a policy of greater activity. His adherents believe the movement of which Cardinal Laviegerie is the leader looking to an alliance between the republic of France and the Vatican is threatening the success of the Orleanist's plans. One of the influential supporters of the monarchist movement, M. de Bourdon, a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, attended the conference and urged the Count to visit Rome and appeal to the Pope in support of his claim to the throne of France, or at least secure from His Holiness a promise that he would withdraw his consent to the policy advocated by Laviegerie. The Count of Paris declined to accept de Bourdon's proposal. de Bourdon also urged the Count to issue a manifesto calling upon the clergy to rally around the standard of the Orleanists, but the Count also declined to entertain this proposition, declaring he would leave that to an Orleanist bishop.
