

CONTENTS.

vii

PAGE		PAGE
original	XXXIV, XXXV.
61	It is probable that in his letter to the Canons of Lyons, the Saint spoke of the active and not of the passive conception,	85
	XXXVI—XXXVIII.
either	St. Thomas is exonerated from the charge of denying the Immaculate Conception of Mary—Passages from his works which are favorable to it,	88
68	XXXIX.
	The writings of the holy Doctor have been altered in some places,	91
sors in	XI—XLII.
68	Examples of these interpolations,	93
	XLIII.
of the	Doctrines of the Theologians on this subject,	98
concep-	XLIV.
65	St. Dominick a defender of our doctrine,	98
	XLV.
66	St. Vincent Ferrer defends our doctrine,	101
	XLVI.
68	It was also the opinion of Albert the Great,	103
	XLVII.
69	John of Viterbo, an adversary of the pious opinion, became its defender—Reasons of this change,	104
n that	XLVIII.
70	Consequences which proceed from this document,	106
	XLIX.
71	Opinion of Thaulere, Melchior Cano, and Noel Alexander,	106
	L.
73	Opinion of Vincent Justinian,	108
	LI.
able to	Favorable testimony of St. Bernardine of Sienna, St. Bruno, St. Lawrence Justinian, St. Thomas of Villanova, St. Alphonso de Liguori,	109
74	LII—LIV.
trans-	The Theologians of the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, with few exceptions, strenuously defend our doctrine,	112
76	LV.
	Authority of Suarez,	114
ge, . . 77	LVI.
oncep-	Authority of Petau,	116
81		