Why Do They Dawdle ?

Chairman Graham called his Legislation and Reception Committee together yet once again yesterday afternoon, and by the way, was flattered by the appearance of a quorum. It had been called for the specific purpose of approving or condemning bills before the Legislature, which, though brought up by outside parties, affected Toronto. Outside matters, costing about $550, were allowed to squeeze in at the start.

Another Mayor's Pet Wounded.

One of the principal things done was to place the ban on the Mayor's St. James' Cemetery deal. Mr. B. Jackson has a bill before the House which forbids the extension of cemetery propenty in a city or town. It was aimed point blank at the attempted swap by which the city was to get a hill said dale park for allowing the cemetery trust to extend into the city. The aforesaid deal is another which the Mayor seems to have forgotten in his value glorious efforts to shine at a swell city Hall opening, blast. It is another of those little things which were used to give an air of activity immediately before the last election. The committee did not waste much breath. Ald. Dunn sounded the watchword and the others re-echoed commendation of the bill.

An Incentive to Perjury.

An Incentive to Perjury.

Next was the bill re addermanic qualification. To-day the aldermanic qualification. To-day the aldermanic qualification. To-day the alderman qualify on $1000 freehold or $2000 leasehold, encumbered or not. The bill is to fix it at $1000 over all encumbrance. Here again the committee, minus the chairman who was not exstatic, sounded approval. "Why!" remarked Ald. Dunn with a new kind of cloquence, "at present it is an incentive to perjury. A man comes down and swears before God and John Blevins that he is worth $1000, when he knows he is not." This unusual speach had a convincing effect.

Caswell Savs It's Dead. An Incentive to Perjury.

Caswell Says It's Dead. Oity Solicitor Caswell vouchsafed the opinion that Mr. Orawford's bill relating to street car half-fares was killed anyway. The committee seemed glad to hear it and will remain neutral.

Open Votes in Council. Open Votes in Council.

The committee committed the city also to favoring open votes in Council. If Ald. Dunn thought the use of the badlot prevented bribery he would have gone otherwise, he said, but aldermen did not seem to be able to trust one another.

Ald, Hanlan: Then how is it the people trust as? trust us?
