Nothwithstanding assurances to the contrary of the Armenian committee this city, the belief prevails in official circles here that the rioting at Constantinople was a deliberately planned up rising brought about by Armenian agitators, who were desirous of forcing the hands of the Powers, in order to bring about direct interference upon the part of Great Britain, France and Russia in the administration of Armenia. The introduction of the religious element into the disturbances makes the situation more grave than it otherwise would have been, although the primary cause of the Armenian outbreak is said to be the long delays in the negotiations between the Powers and the Porte in which delays have increased the despair of the Armenians. Prominent Turkish officials, however, claim that the present trouble is the outcome of the agitation which prevails in Europe, and especially Owing to the critical situation here the envoys of the Powers met at the Austrian embassy to-day and the German Armenians were killed, after they were the first shots were fired, and Serivet Armenians did not use their revolvers

Defence Toward Rev. Mr. Gibson.

San Francisco, Oct. 3.—The building of Durrant's alibi in contradiction of the charges made by Pawnbroker Oppeaheim was begun with the testimony of Dr. A. W. Haihalt, a lecturer at the Cooper Medical College. Asked if Durrant was present at the lecture given on the morning of April 4, the doctor referred to the roll book and said defendant was recorded present. On crossexamination the doctor said he had no personal knowledge of Durrant's absence or presence. The defense tried to offset this by asking if he could give the name of any one of the 51 students in the class who attended the lecture on the morning in question. The doctor recalled the names of a dozen students, and said he believed he could remember more if he were given time to think the matter over. The prosecution next attacked the reliability of the roll call. The district attorney had hardly reached the point of the subject, however, when Judge Murphy took a hand in the examination. He asked the witness whether in his experience as an instructor of the college he had known of instances where students had answered at roll call for other students who were not present. The defense at once interposed objection, and the court was placed in the predicament of having to rule on its own question. The judge said that while he might permit the question to be answered if it should come from a proper source, he would sustain the objection for the present. Then District Attorney Barnes asked the same question, and the defense interposed another objection. Attorney Dickinson argued that, while it was possible to call into court every student who attended the lecture and ask each one if he answered a roll call for Durrant, it would be unfair to cast suspicion on the particular roll call in question by any practice or custom that might have obtained at another time. The court said that it believed the question proper and the evidence sought competent, but for the sake of safety sustained the objection.

While the damage done by the great gale adds six step taken to-day by the defense in callto the number known to have been ing Durrant's classmates generally is regarded as a bold move, it cannot be said that it resulted to the material advantage of either side. The testimony of 50 witnesses who were placed on the stand was important so far as it went to refute the contention of the prosecution that somebody else answered to Durrant's name on the day of the murder. One of the attorneys for the Durrant defense, A. W. Thompson, has consented to outline the facts and theories which caused Deuprey in his opening statement to throw suspicion upon the pastor of Emanuel church and to intimate to the jury the reasonable doubt which the defense wished to show will point toward the same gentleman. The theory of Mr. Gibson's guilt comes entirely from the rant's attorneys that that was slow

Later Dr. Gibson modified his state ment, stating that he arrived at Vogel's a reasonable time after 7:30. But, according to Mrs. McVey, they point out, Miss Williams, if she went directly to the church, must have arrived there at about the same time. Their conclusion is obvious. The two were there alone for an hour and a half, and their theory Joneas is Out of It-Sir Julian is that, the murder committed, the perpetrator went to the Vogel social and enjoyed himself. Another point dwelt upon by the defense is the fact that the lock of the library door was pried off, and by the pastor's chisel. The forcing they like to talk about. Both Durrant and King had keys to the lock, therefore, the former would not have forced it. The lic business, although he may talk on person who forced the lock did not have key, they argue. One of the dramatic points is that Gibson, by his own admission, was the last person known to have been in the church on Friday night and the first on Saturday morning.

In the Lamont case they have a new ground for suspicion, which has never been made public and which did not appear in the preliminary examination. This is the fact, hitherto unknown, by which the defense expects to prove by one or more competent, unimpeachable witnesses, that Blanche Lamont had in action on the school question. Mr. Peltended to address the prayer meeting on the evening of April 3. It seems that mar from Quebec should take the place on the Sunday evening preceding Blanche Lamont's disappearance she remarked at the meeting of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, which met before evening service, and at which Miss Lamont was a faithful attendant, that she was going to speak at the prayer meeting on April 3, on the chance. subject of "My Dual Life," and wished to consult her nastor on the subject. In 1875 and 1876 she moored nearer to the North Pole than any other vessel has ever been. She was the flacship of the Nares Arctic expedition, and was commanded by Captain, now Admiral Markham. She spent a winter at Floeberg Beach in 82 degrees 14 minutes north latitude, and for 142 days her officers and crew never saw the sun. Tacoma, Oct. 3.—Brayton Ives, president of the Northern Pacific, will spend a day or two here. In an interview rethe recent proceedings he said: "Judge Hanford's action marks the termination of the receivership, which in many respects was unique in the history of Anierican railroads; formed as it was to perpetuate the influence of the wreckers. Without intending to speak disrespectfully of Judge Jenkins, I must say that whenever we appeared in his court as netitioners for relief, we seemed to find ourselves at the outset in the position of wrongdoers instead of sufferers of wrong. It would not be proper for me could not have taken a more effective course. I believe, however, Judge Hanford's action wil result in the near futvarious interests.
