

FOOTWEAR.
BELIEF AND DOUBT.

BY GEORGE MASON.

"They strayed in faith," and not "they wrought in doubt."

Is the great and awful inscription above
Our gloomy dead who in their quondam life,
Or went with the garment of eternity.
They lived great lives & did their deathless deeds,
Who had the strength of angels, and their arm,
With the grey hairs of kings, and their crowns;
Who had their heads upon the mighty rock
For their last pillow; who amid the flames,
Bore witness still, and with their unerring hands
Sawed every wind with sparks of dry thought.
Pity, that we, who knew them well,
Whose manly and angelic spirits of fire,
Peculiar we did not see, should now be lost.
For that new world, his innermost soul cast,
He sought no Earth. His new world ye shall find,
While Doubt shuns its wide head and stays.

Newton believed for many a year before
The Hand in Heaven shook the apple down.
Because we have believed, our knowledge comes;
But, as doubt, will touch the secret spring.
Doubt is that soul attribute which sees
What others do not, and infuses
Religious fire into the ground of our belief.
And, like the flood, comes up into the rose bloom
As Doubt knows more of the light than only sees
The shadow that it casts, and follows it;
For Doubt is over its own theory.
The world's last judgment on discerning eyes,
And longings as the avaricious come down.

MATTHEW TOOK UP.—The number of lungs affected is 100,000, and the number of cases reported each number of women. The average age of human life is 35 years. One quarter die before the age of 7. Every 1,000 persons, one only reaches 100 years. To every 100, only six reach 75 years; and not more than one reaches 90.

There are over 1,000,000 of inhabitants. Of these, 33,000,000 die every year; 93,820 die every day; 7,780 every hour; 60 every minute; or one in each second. These losses are about balanced by an equal number of births — the world is no longer given to a single; and there are all those who live a sober and industrious conduct.
