PROVINCIAL BASEBALL LEAGUE

Moncton, May 19.—At a meeting of the local baseball promoters Messrs. Wm. McMillen, G. Triss, R. Jarvis and others, at which Joe Page was present, it was decided to enter a team in the provincial league in conjunction with St. John. Woodstock is holding a meeting of their baseball enthusiasts tonight and it will be definitely known Thursday whether they will also enter a team in the proposed league. If they do in all likelihood they will be the second attraction at St. John the following Saturday and King's birthday Moncton will be the attraction at St. John on Saturday, May 23 and Victoria Day, May 25th, morning and afternoon, the F. M. A. team going to Woodstock and St. John Athletic Club playing in St. John.

K. OF C. MEN WILL PLAY BASEBALL

At a meeting held last evening in Columbia Hall, Coburg street, considerable enthusiasm was evinced in the formation of a baseball league from amongst the members of St. John Council, 327, Knights of Columbus. Officers of an executive to make arrangements were elected, and committees appointed to proceed with the organization of a three or four team league with games to be played one or two evenings each week. The league is not expected to prove a world-beater in any way, except so far as providing a little fun and recreation for the members, and in order to have it conducted on an equitable basis the salary limit was fixed at $2,000 for the season.

THE EAST END BALL LEAGUE

Another large crowd of fans were present at the East End grounds last evening to witness the second game of the season when the Alerts made nine runs and shut out the Commercial. It is given out that owing to the change in the management of the Commercial that team was not able to give a good account of themselves, they were not as strong as was expected but nevertheless the game was an interesting one.

THIS DATE IN RING ANNALS

1823—Tom Spring defeated Bill Neat in eight rounds at Andover, England. Spring, whose real name was Thomas Winter, had claimed the championship of England after the retirement of Tom Cribb, and challenged all comers. Neat, who attempted to wrest Spring's "new honor" from him, was a giant and a man of tremendous strength, but Spring's coolness, science, courage and generalship won the day. The next good man to challenge Spring was Jack Langan, an Irishman. Hibernian sports were confident of Langan's ability to whip the Englishman, and backed him with vast sums, but after a ferocious battle lasting about two hours and a half Spring was declared the victor. Spring resigned his title in 1825.

1858—Kid McCoy defeated Gus Spruce in twenty rounds at Syracuse, N. Y.

1901—Jack O'Brien knocked out George Crisp in eleventh round at Newcastle, Eng.

1913—Gunboat Smith defeated Jess Willard in twenty rounds at San Francisco.

1913—Bud Anderson knocked out Joe Manderson in twelfth round at Los Angeles.

SPORTOGRAPHY "GRAVY"

Fifty-seven years ago today, May 20, 1857, the third battle for the pugilist's championship of America was fought at Long Point, in Canada, with the game and hard-hitting John Morrissey pitted against John C. Heenan. Both were Irish-Americans, and both had commenced their fighting careers in Troy, N. H.—a city which turned out three of the greatest champions in American ring history—Morrissey, Heenan and Paddy Ryan. Morrissey began fighting as a lad when he was a deck hand on a Troy steamboat. In those days deckhands spent all their spare time in fighting, and Morrissey soon became the recognized champion of the Hudson river. His success induced him to enter the ring as a professional, and in 1855 he became the second champion of America by whipping Yankee Sullivan in a battle for the title and $2,000. In 1857 he was challenged by Heenan, the "Benedict Boy" who had been a machinist in Troy before entering the ring. The battle was staged on Canadian soil, and Morrissey demonstrated his superiority in eleven rounds, lasting twenty-one minutes. Morrissey then quit the ring, and Heenan challenged Tom Sayers, the English champion, to fight for the world's title. Heenan had the best of the bout with the Britisher, but the referee called it a draw after the police interfered. A little later Heenan was defeated by Tom King, who had succeeded Sayers as English champion, but the Irish-American insisted that he was drugged. After quitting the ring Morrissey became a gambler and died in 1892. Heenan, who had been elected to the United States Congress, being the first ex-pugilist to receive such an honor, with the exception of John Gully, who was champion of England in 1808 and was later elected to Parliament. Heenan quit the ring after his defeat by King, but remained in the limelight until his death. His first wife was Adah Isaacs Menken, one of the most popular actresses of her day in England, and also a poet and writer. She soon divorced the fighter, and he married another popular actress, Sara Stevens. Morrissey was sixty-eight when he died and his remains are buried in a Troy cemetery, while Heenan sleeps the long sleep in another graveyard not far distant. America has had few braver and better boxers than those two mighty Trojans, Morrissey and Heenan.

BRITISH AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPS

Sandwich, England, May 19.—Fraser Hale of Chicago was the only American to suffer defeat in the second round of the play for the British amateur golf championships today. Charles W. Evans, Jr., of Chicago, the ex-open western champion; Harold Weber of Toledo, and Arthur C. Lockwood, Belmont Springs, Mass., defeated their opponents.

As Francis Outmet, open American champion, and Frederick Herrechoff, New York, did not compete today, there still remain five of the ten American entrants to continue the struggle.

Hale was put out by Ivo Whitton, the Australian champion, by four up and three to play.

Outmet and Herrechoff will play in the second round tomorrow, and if they win they will also play in the third round tomorrow. Evans will meet Scott of Park Langley; Weber will play Carlisle of Sunningdale, and Lockwood will meet Hayling of Balming Outmet and Herrechoff will have as their opponents Tubbs of Little Devon, respectively.

One of the most interesting matches tomorrow will be that between Harold H. Hilton, the British amateur champion, and Robert Harris, Acton, England, who was runner-up to Hilton for the championship last year.
