NO MORE KIDNEY TROUBLE

Since He Commenced to Take "Fruit-a-tives"

78 LESS AVENUE, OTTAWA, ONT.
"Three years ago, I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of 'Fruit-a-tives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising."

I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-tives', and I know now what I have not known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain."

War Savings and Thrift Stamps Beat the Money Box

The children's money box on the mantel shelf has, in the past, done good work, having gathered in tens of thousands of dollars, which had not been there, would never have been saved. To many generations it has been one of the best possible object lessons, of the value of saving. It has taught the lesson of thrift better than almost any teacher could have done. But the money box, though it has rendered splendid service, has its limitations. All that it does is to take care of the pennies, the dimes, or the 25 cent pieces, preventing them, for a time being squandered. But, in comparison with later saving devices, its chief defect is that while it holds money, it does not enable the money to earn anything. This is where War Savings Stamps have a decided advantage over the money box. As soon as $4 is put into one of these it begins to earn at the rate of 4½ per cent compounded half-yearly. This means that if allowed to remain in Stamps, it would double itself within less than 15 years. Money put into a box and allowed to remain there would not be spent, but it would earn nothing. The moral is—buy War Savings and Thrift Stamps and let your savings work.

Celery Culture

Celery is a moisture-loving plant and does well especially in muck soils, although excellent celery can be grown on ordinary garden loam of a lighter character more especially if moist. The plants are slow to develop in their early stages. For a late crop the seed should be sown from the middle to the latter part of April. The old plan of digging a trench is not now practised by commercial celery growers. It is considered better to grow the crop on the level and mould up the soil, or to blanch the crop by means of boards or pliable blanching material resembling "ready roofing" which may be used to keep the plants together and exclude the light. This subject, as well as onion culture and asparagus culture, is quite fully covered in Pamphlet No. 24 of the Central Experimental Farms, available at the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

Woman Cause of the War

The New York War Camp Community Service sent out the following with the note: "This may add to the gayety of nations!"

It was a woman who caused the great war, and the secret was disclosed last night at the New York War Camp Community Service, when two members of the "Old Fiftieth," (colored regiment), got into an argument about the causes of the conflict.

"Don't you know who started this yere war?" one asked.

"Shuah! I reckon the Kaiser did," answered the other.

"Kaiser?" retorted the first in scorn. "I done got inside information about dat and I found out de war started about a woman, just like all de other wars."

Yassah, my Captain says so dis morning. He says: 'Dis yere war was started all on account of Alice Lorraine!'

Corse, I dono who Miss Lorraine is, but I know she's de lady what made all the trouble."

Appeal to Zoology

A woman recently selecting a hat at a milliner's asked, cautiously:—

"Is there anything about these feathers that might bring me into trouble with the Bird Protection Society?"

"Oh, no, madam," said the milliner.

"But did they not belong to some bird?" persisted the lady.

"Well, madam," returned the milliner, pleasantly, "these feathers are the feathers of a howl, and the howl, you know, madam, seen' as 'ow fond he is of mice, is more of a cat than a bird."

Cure That Cold Don't Get Grippe

You know how quickly Zutoo tablets cure headache and break up colds—how soon they allay the fever. Take them at once when you feel the first pain or shiver—the first symptom of a cold.

Taken then, they will prevent the Grippe. Taken after it has developed, there is nothing better for the pain and fever.

LANARK

from the Era.
Mr. Albert Warren of Brightside has purchased the property at the old toll gate, owned by Mrs. Harry Buffam.

Corp. Arthur Somerville arrived in the village this morning on his way home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Somerville, Middleville.

Sergt. Peter McLaren, who has been awaiting his discharge in Montreal, returned to his home in Drummond last Saturday. Sergt. McLaren is a son of Mr. David McLaren and enlisted in Grand Prairie, Man. In 1916 he went overseas with the 66th Edmonton Battalion. It is twenty-nine years since he left his home in Drummond and during that time, with the exception of the last three years, he has lived in the West.

On Friday last, March 21st, Mrs. James Wark closed her eyes in death after having suffered for about a year from the disabilities of increasing years. She lived with her daughter, Mrs. John Sweeney, Marble Bluff. Mrs. Wark was a native of Darling, born there 84 years ago; her maiden name was Agnes Pretty. Mr. Wark predeceased her a number of years ago. Two brothers and one sister survive—George at Darling, Daniel at Ashton and Mrs. Olden Bradford at Calabogie. Mrs. Wark has resided in Darling to the end. A splendid neighbor, with the kindness and generosity characteristic of her race, she was the mother of a family of nine—eight girls and one boy.

Mr. and Mrs. John McLean, Strathmore, Inverness, N.S., celebrated the sixty-third anniversary of their wedding on March 6th. Both have reached the age of 88 years and are residing on the place settled by Mr. McLean's grandfather, over one hundred years ago. Mr. John McLean of Lanark is a nephew. Rev. Morris McLean, formerly of Blakeney and Clayton, lives on the farm with his parents, and has charge of a church at Mulgrave, N.S.

The passing away of Mr. Benjamin Cameron has removed an old land mark of more than the ordinary type of man. He and Mrs. Cameron had gone for a short visit to their son Robert at Hall's Mills, where he was taken ill and in less than a week the busy life had closed death coming on Saturday, March 15th. Deceased was born on Feb. 23, 1838, on the old Cameron homestead now owned by Mr. Albert Closs. When a young man he went with his parents and their family into the pathless highlands of Lavan and settled in one of Nature's beauty spots on the shores of Round Lake, the head waters of the North branch of the Clyde. There began the strenuous life of transforming the heavily wooded hills and valleys into agricultural lands and hewing homes out of the unbroken forests. He served many years in the Township Council where his opinions were always a big factor in the discharge of public affairs. Besides his widow, two brothers and three sisters survive.

GEN. FUKUSHIMA.

Famous Japanese Military Leader Is Dead.

Gen. Baron Yasunaga Fukushima died in Tokio on Feb. 19th, as the result of an attack of apoplexy.

Gen. Fukushima, who was regarded as one of the ablest, best-equipped men who had ever been at the head of the military affairs of Japan, was born at Matsumoto in 1853, in the Shinano Province, his family being very poor Samurai. He began life for himself as a drummer boy in a regiment of his prince's clan, having learned to drum in a modernized military school established by the Shogun. To qualify himself for a post in the newly organized Judicial Department of the re-established Central Government of the Emperor, young Fukushima studied modern languages assiduously. He was employed in that department only one year, 1874, as the next year he was transferred to the General Staff office. While a clerk there he added a proficiency in geography to his other attainments. In 1876 he was despatched to the United States for inspection of military affairs, and in 1887 became Military Attache to the Japanese Legation in Berlin.

In the Chino-Japanese war Fukushima was chief of staff of the 5th Division, and then of the First Army under Gen. Yamagata. During the Boxer trouble in 1900 he gained international fame as commander of the Japanese contingent and staff officer of the allied troops in Peking.

In the Russo-Japanese war Fukushima was on the staff of the Manchurian army under Marshal Prince Oyama. At the conclusion of this war he was made a vice chief of the General Staff, occupying this post until 1912, when he was appointed Governor-General of Kwangtung. He was promoted to a full generalship in 1914, and later was placed on the reserve list. Gen. Fukushima was created a baron in 1906, in recognition of his meritorious service to the state during the Russo-Japanese war.

Gen. Fukushima in 1892-93 made a perilous ride across Siberia. Accompanied only by an orderly, he made a trip on horseback across Siberia from Moscow to Vladivostok, traversing the almost untrodden wilderness when very little was then known about the region. During the trip the then Major Fukushima succeeded in climbing the highest peak of the Altai Mountains, in Mongolia. Arriving at the summit, he addressed the mountain as follows:

"I, Yasunaga Fukushima, major of the Imperial Japanese army, now stand on your summit. Lo and behold, I have now conquered you, and stand even higher than you."

It was as a result of this trip that Fukushima, then virtually unknown, became famous. Songs eulogizing his exploit were composed by Japanese musicians, and were long used in barracks and schools. The Emperor promoted him to the rank of colonel before he reached home. Gen. Fukushima spoke English, French, German, Russian, and Chinese, with equal facility.

Americans Should Eat Fish. Americans are deficient as fish eaters, compared with inhabitants of foreign countries. Less than two pounds per head is the yearly consumption of salt and smoked fish in this country. For the winter's supply, salt fish can be laid in and, pound for pound, furnish much more nutriment than fresh fish. This is because curing extracts a large part of the water, and what is left is nearly all solid food.—People's Home Journal.

How He Got Back
Sid, the barber, has a new one. A Boston lady, anxious to help entertain the returning Doughboys, telephoned to headquarters to send up three or four of the privates to dine. "But," she added, "please do not send any Jews."

Next day when the maid answered the door bell three strapping colored men in uniform confronted her and asked for the lady of the house.

"There are three soldiers at the door," she told her mistress.

"Show them into the parlor," she was instructed.

When the mistress came down and saw the soldiers she was somewhat taken back.

"You are the soldiers who have been sent up here, are you. Who sent you?"

"Headquarters, ma'am," was the reply.

"Yes, I know," she continued, "but what was the name of the officer?"

"Lieut. Louis Cohen," was the reply.

NEWSBOYS ON BATTLE FRONT

Belgian and French Youngsters Take Great Risks While Distributing Papers to the Soldiers.

During the first days of the war British soldiers going up to Mons from Boulogne were hailed by an ancient French dame with her only British phrase, "Da-e-ly Ma-i-l." She did her best. Since those far-off days "Da-e-ly Ma-i-l" has been called by the little Belgian and French boys and girls all along the line from Dunkirk to Belfort. Many a risk has been run to buy and sell the news of yesterday. One great load of copies of the London Daily Mail arrived at a distributing center by train just as the advancing wave of Germans threatened to pour over the line.

Prompt to the occasion the parcels were seized by the soldiers and thrown into the gap. Surely no news-paper parcels ever had a stranger fate than to be used, fresh from the press and unread, as sandbags for trenches and a shelter against a whining scurry of machine-gun bullets. Back in Paris an anxious publisher and thoughtful cashier wondered in what category of "unsold copies" the wagon load should be put.

Three times the Daily Mail has heard through advanced line distributing agents of paper sellers shot by snipers' bullets while making their way along the trenches.
