No. 8.—When may you be said to have put your foot in it? No. 9.—Take four grains of corn and place them so that they may be all equally distant from one another. No. 10. - Why is a widower like a house in a state of dilapidation? No. 11.- Which are the two hottest letters in the alphabet? No. 12.-A man went into a shoemaker's and bought a pair of bo ts forsix een shillings. He put down a pound note (20 shillings) and, the shoemaker having no change, sent to a neighbor and g tit and gave it to him. Later in the day his neighbor sent in to say that the pound note was a bad one, and insisted upon the shoether.

m ker making it right, which he accordin ly did. Now, how much did the shoemaker lose by the whole transaction?

HIDDEN CITIES.

For the benefit of those I tile ones who do not understand this game we give this explana tion. In the sentence which is given the name of some city occurs with the letters in regular order, although they may be in different ways, as in the sentence: "He has had many a fall on Donkeys." You notice the hidden city is London. Find the answers to the following the sentence of the sentence o

13. I am going to take on trial you sailor

14. He is the best boy in the world. 15. Eve salut d Adam as customary in Eden.
16. You cannot pull the wool on his head

17. Most fickle you but constant I
Not lebian shall our fate decry.
18. We will have nice times in Jerusalem.

In this last there are four cities. It is fine fun to set around the fire on winter evenings and give these puzzles, as they are much more difficult to make out when you do not have them written before you. We are indebted to them written before you. We are indebted to s me of our young friends for the above hidden
