

CHARGED WITH SMUGGLING

C. P. R. Conductor Arrested

Peter Le Fevre Taken Into Custody and Afterwards Released on Bail

AGUSTA, Me., March 28.—United States Deputy Marshal Charles B. Hadden brought to this city Saturday morning a Canadian passenger conductor running between St. John across Maine to Moncton, Quebec, charged with smuggling and concealing and transporting goods. Le Fevre was arrested before United States Commissioner Lewis A. Buisson, pleaded not guilty and the hearing was continued to Friday, April 3, on the request of United States District Attorney Robert T. Whitehouse of Portland, to allow the securing of more witnesses. Le Fevre was arrested at Mattawamkeag Friday afternoon by Deputy Marshal Hadden. The complaint alleges that Le Fevre was smuggling clothing across the line at Vanceboro and there shipping it by express to Boston and other places from Maine. The complaint contains seven or eight separate counts of alleged violations of the law on different dates.

Le Fevre denies that he has ever been engaged in this business and states that on some of the dates mentioned he was not even in the places alleged. He was furnished by one of Maine's wealthiest lumbermen and Le Fevre returned home on the Sunday morning Pullman. It is understood that the additional witnesses are from Boston and it is said that they include parties to whom goods are alleged to have been shipped.

It is rumored around the streets that some prominent St. John merchants were interested with Mr. Le Fevre in smuggling operations. On the other hand Mr. Le Fevre's friends in St. John, who are legion, emphatically deny that there has been any wrong doing and stoutly maintain that he will have no difficulty in proving his innocence.

HELEN E. KENNY A TOTAL WRECK

Was Three-Masted Schooner and Owned by Peter McIntyre

The three-masted schooner Helen E. Kenny is a total wreck. She went ashore on Saturday at Wilmett, in the island of Curacao, which is situated one hundred miles from the southern coast of South America.

The news of the wreck came to Peter McIntyre, who owned the vessel, in a cablegram which reached him yesterday afternoon.

The schooner was bound from Moss Point on the Mississippi River to Porto Chabon, Venezuela, with a cargo of hard pine.

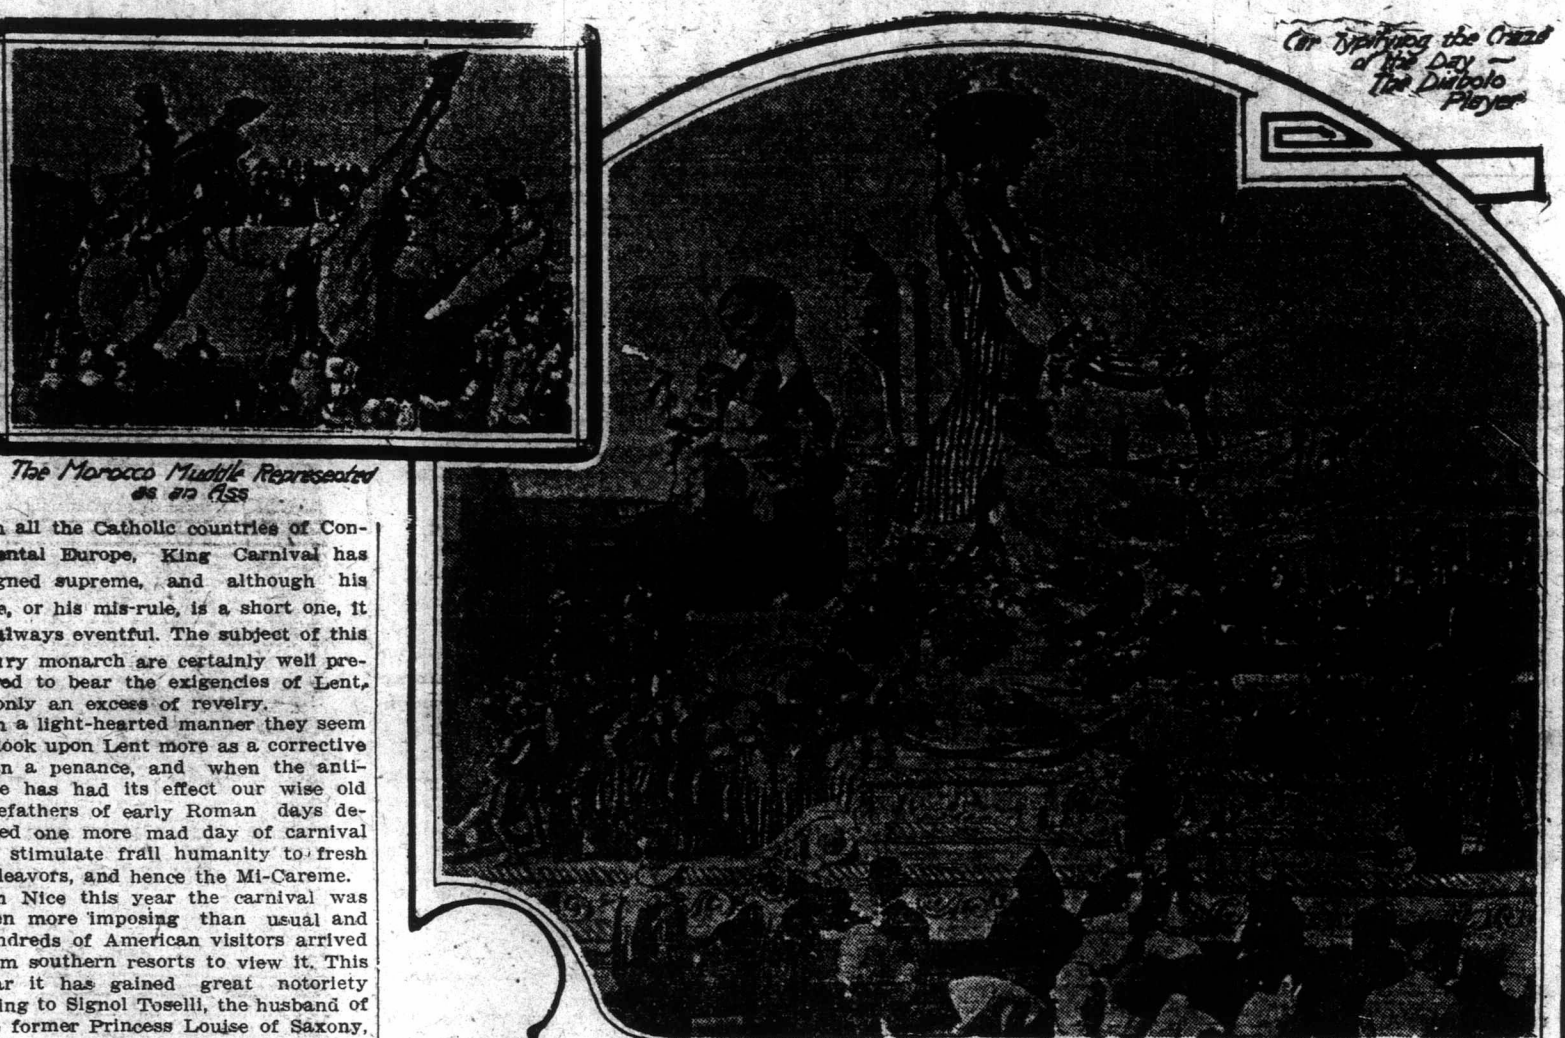

She was commanded by Captain Hinton of Annapolis, N. S. The cablegram was signed by Captain Hinton and as no mention is made of any loss of life it is presumed that the crew was saved.

The wrecked schooner was partially missing.

The Helen E. Kenny was of 264 tons burden. She was built at Black River by John McLeod for Troop & Son in 1895, and was registered at this port.

ANARCHY IN NEW YORK IS SHOWING ITS TEETH

Bomb Hurled at Police from Under the Red Flag.

Premature Explosion Killed One Assassin and Desperately Wounded Another, Saving the Lives of 20 Policemen—Outrage Followed Dispersal of Socialist Meeting.

NEW YORK, Mar. 28.—A red flag fluttered in Union Square today; a bomb fell; two men lay dying in the people's playground and New York awoke to the fact that it harbored those prepared for armed resistance to constituted authority.

The bomb was intended for the police who with rough firmness had broken a meeting of 10,000 unemployed. It exploded prematurely in the hands of the assassin, Selig Silverstein, horribly wounding him, killing his companion, Irwin Raskin, injuring slightly four policemen, and throwing to the ground a score of those who were massed in the vicinity.

Tonight, Union Square park, where the public demonstration was made, is roped off from pedestrians, a hundred police patrol the boundary strictly, and at the station house 1,000 reserves armed with revolvers and night sticks, and in readiness to hasten to any scene of rioting. No further disorder had developed at a late hour.

Bomb throwing in the foreign settlements of the East Side is a rather common occurrence, but today was the first time here, an engine of destruction openly and deliberately directed at police officers. It was meant for Captain Raskin's squad of twenty men and had the fuse burned longer or slower, would have made a perfect instrument of death to probably every man of the squad.

Police Broke Up Meeting

A labor, or more exactly, a laborless meeting without police sanction had been advertised for the park this afternoon. In the thousands that gathered were many of a riotous disposition and a large number wore red hats, while here and there a red flag was displayed. Suddenly an order to clear the park was given and the 150 police, half of them mounted, charged the jeering, howling crowds and drove them back to the streets of the square circling the park.

In the wide streets the crowds, fast assuming the characteristics of a mob, were suddenly ordered to clear the park and to an indifferent formation and marched about the square. Having cleared the park of all but a few apparently harmless men on the park benches, the police constabulary moved themselves in keeping the parade moving. Encouraged the procession grew; shouts of derision and oaths directed at the police filled the air and then, as though by pre-arrangement, the strains of The Marseillaise rose from 10,000 throats. The police, hastily reinforced, held themselves in restraint. Captain Raskin's squad, which had been stationed at the east side of the park, started at a double quick to the scene, abreast, across the park. As they neared the fountain that marks the center of the recreation grounds a slightly built man darted out from the shadow of a statue of George Washington and ran toward the officers, whose backs were now turned. A large man twenty paces off the moving squad the two men halted and the smaller raised his hand, in which was a smoking bomb. Just as he held his arm aloft, the bomb exploded and the smaller man was hurled into the air.

The shock that shook the sky-scrapers of the square threw a score of people to the ground. The would-be assassin and his companion fell, the latter lifeless with his breast torn open. The bomb thrower still lived, but his hand had been blown off, both of his eyes were gouged out and his skull and shoulder were fractured. The four policemen who brought up the rear were injured, but not seriously, one of them being hit in the foot by a piece of the bomb.

Panic Followed Explosion
A panic followed the explosion and the thousands who surrounded the park were jostled together as perhaps half the number rushed toward the scene of death and many more turned in flight from the square. Many were injured as the mounted police surrounded the injured and again drove back the mob. A half dozen arrests were made off-hand of those nearest the bomb-thrower, but no particular importance is attached to these arrests.

Robert Hunter Talks
NEW YORK, N. Y., March 28.—Robert Hunter, the Socialist, declared tonight that he was not only at yesterday's demonstration, but was employed in Union Square, which ended in a bomb explosion, but that had opportunity offered he would have addressed the crowd in defiance of police prohibition and so brought about a test in the courts of the right of free speech.

Woman whom he is trying to charm. The local papers jokingly explained that this was an allusion to the musician and the Princess, which was a pure assumption. Signor Toselli, however, has taken it in earnest.

ANARCHIST LEADER ARRESTED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 30.—Alexander Barkman, the anarchist leader, who served a long time in prison for an attempt to assassinate Henry C. Fryck, was taken into custody by the police here today. He will be taken to Bellevue Hospital this afternoon and confronted with Seeling Silverstein, the man who is charged with having thrown the bomb at the Union Square meeting last Saturday. The police say that the two men will be questioned closely to learn whether they have anything in common. The detention of Barkman was brought about through the finding of a card bearing his signature in Silverstein's rooms in Brooklyn. The card certified Silverstein's membership in the "Anarchist Federation."

DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO MURDER GENERAL BUCKLEY WELLS

TELLURIDE, Colo., March 28.—Studying the night guard stationed at the Smuggler Union mine at Pandora, two miles south of here and the rays of the searchlight which is constantly thrown about the premises during the night from the high tower of the mill as a precautionary measure, an unknown person gained access to the residence of General Buckley Wells, general manager of the Smuggler Union Mining Company, last night and planted dynamite under his bed. The dynamite was exploded by igniting a fuse on the outside of the building about two o'clock this morning, when the intended victim was asleep. He was hurled against the ceiling and alighted under a mass of debris, but escaped with a few bruises and scratches and impaired hearing.

Although a systematic search has been made by Sheriff Fitzpatrick and deputies, added by hundreds of citizens, no clue has been found to the perpetrators of the act. One man who is charged with having said that Wells should be killed is being held on suspicion.

In the same building where the attempt to kill General Wells was made Arthur L. Collins, predecessor of General Wells as general manager, was murdered six years ago while playing a game of cards with a number of friends at night. The man who killed Collins fired a heavy load of buckshot through the window into his back. Steve Adams, Harry Orchard's alleged accomplice in the murder of ex-Governor Stearns of Idaho, now in jail in Telluride, will soon be placed on trial on the charge of murdering Collins.

"The explosion wrecked the bed, tore the mattress and bed clothing to shreds and hurled me fully thirty feet across the sleeping porch, rendering me temporarily unconscious and dead for well as lacerating my face and head." The charge also tore a hole three feet in diameter through the floor of the sleeping porch and the ceiling of the dining room beneath.

"As soon as I recovered consciousness I hurried to the telephone in the main office on the first floor of the building and notified Sheriff Fitzpatrick at Telluride of what had occurred. 'I spent the early part of the evening in Telluride and returned at 12 o'clock, retiring about 30 minutes later. I went to bed immediately and remember nothing more until the explosion occurred.'"

MURDERED GIRL FOUND IN PIT

Boston Woman's Mysterious Death

The Police Strongly Believe She Was Victim of Foul Play

ARLINGTON, Mass., March 28.—The body of Miss Annie Mullen, a South Boston young woman, but employed as a domestic in a Cambridge family, was found in a vacant lot off Teal street in this town today with the head nearly severed from her body by two deep gashes, and while the medical examination was unable after the autopsy to establish the motive of the crime, the local police, in the absence of any weapon, believe that the woman was murdered. The medical examiner in his statement after the autopsy late today admitted that the wounds might have been self-inflicted.

Miss Mullen left the house of her employer early last evening to visit a friend. So far as the police were able to ascertain today no one saw her after that. This forenoon two boys crossing the field found her body lying on the edge of a gravel pit, and within half an hour the police were on the scene and the work of gathering up clues was begun. There was evidence of a struggle in the vicinity, for the ground was somewhat torn and the hands were clutched as if grasping at something. Not far off on a ploughed field were found tracks of a man's boots leading away from the scene. These tracks were carefully measured. A description of the body and the clothing was furnished to the press, and from the name of the woman's shoes a Cambridge shoe dealer was able to make a partial identification, and later Captain Murray of the Cambridge police cleared up this part of the mystery by definitely stating that the victim was Miss Mullen.

Meantime the body was removed to a local undertaker's rooms, where Medical Examiner Swan with his assistant, Dr. Durell, performed an autopsy into this afternoon. At its conclusion Dr. Swan said that there was nothing in the nature or location of the two wounds on the neck that would show whether the case was one of suicide or of murder. There was no other wound on the body, which was free from any signs of disease or disease.

The two gashes on the neck were very deep, all the veins in front being severed. The two gashes had evident ly been made from the front. They extended from under each ear nearly to a point under the chin, where they did not quite meet.

The clothing had not been disarranged, but the hands showed that some effort had been made to grasp some object.

THE COUNT AND BRIDE ARE TREATED AS CURIOSITIES

VIENNA, Mar. 20.—Count Szechenyi and the Countess arrived in this city this morning. It is their intention to remain in Vienna for some time. They reached Budapest yesterday from Fiume. A large and curious crowd had gathered at the railroad station to greet the couple, but the friends of the count, in order to evade this, had made arrangements for them to leave the train before it put into the depot.
