ADDRESS DELIVERED BY MR. C. C.

The number of farmers who can afford to attend the Provincial Exhibitions at Halifax, Truro or Kentville is advantage derivable from such exhibi-

county exhibition each farmer sees what has been accomplished by his neighbors, who have the same climate and the same advantages and difficul-ties as himself, and he is more likely te make an effort to excel them

Were county exhibitions held annually by each county, and only one general exhibition for the Maritime Provinces held annually, by turns, in each of the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, and arrangements made for the forwarding, at the public expense, the prize exhibits from each county show to the general exhibition at Halifax, St. John or Charlottetown, or wherever held, a great saving in money would be made, both to the public

To the farmer every occasion which brings him into communication with his fellow farmer is of value and should be fostered and encouraged. His occupation is one that does not naturally lead to much intercourse, but is for the most part solitary. The effect of this isolation is seen in the small amount of influence wielded by the agricultural class as compared to its numbers. Every other profession, trade or calling has its societies or

It is not a trade that has been growing and to engage in the trade. And what the trade is applies in this respect to the Maritime I provinces generally, applies more estable in the sciently high standard of quality.

The people of this county have only to seize their present and future opportunities, as they and their fathers are provinced in the scient of the mem without expense for land carriage. This county is destined to take an active part in this trade. It is for us to decide whether it will be twenty new trade and market—the export of cattle and sheep to Great Britain.
