LONDON
B.M.E. Church Notes

The services on Mother's Day in the Church were all that could be desired. The Brotherhood met at 10.00 a.m. in their usual way and after a lively devotional period a helpful discussion ensued. The topic discussed was "The Test of Brotherly Love." A splendid service was held in the auditorium of the Church at 11.00 a.m. The pastor chose for his text the words of St. Matthew's Gospel, 20th chapter and 20th verse. Subject, "An Anxious Mother." All mothers should be greatly concerned about the future of their children, but should be careful in the way their requests are made, said the speaker. 3 p.m. was observed as "Go To Sunday School Day." A very large audience attended this service and listened to a very interesting program. Mrs. F. Stewart read a paper on "Our Mothers and What We Owe Them." Miss G. Stafford also gave a reading. Miss H. Carter delivered a very fine oration on "Mother the Greatest of All." Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Brown gave a duet, and Mr. J. Brooks, a solo. A number of choruses were given by the school. At 7 p.m. the feature of the service was the large number of women who attended. About fifty were seated in the center of the church and made a very beautiful scene. Two special speakers, Mrs. A. Lucas, of Broughdale and Mrs. J. Jones of Colborne Street gave very timely and interesting messages concerning a mother's love, devotion and duty to her child. The choir added considerable interest to the day's services, by their beautiful selections rendered in praise of "Mother."
