P rformers Critically Ill and Canvasmen Collapse While at Work.

Somerville, N. J., May 17 .- Leon Washburn's circus was sidetracked here Thursday with most of the fifty performers and a number of canvasmen ill from some kind of poison. The circus train arrived here in the morning from Easton, Pa. Most of the canasmen were foun din a stupor in their bunks and it was with difficulty that enough of them were aroused to pitch

The street parade this morning was abandoned as the Italian band and many of the performers were unable to leave the train. The afternoon performance was also given up. Several of the canvasmen who had collapsed while at work were lying about the grounds. The faces of two of the men were covered with an eruption. A report was started that they had smallpox and the crowd fled. The local board of health found that the men were poisoned. The physicians of the board also visited the circus train and gave medical aid to the performers, some of whom were critically ill with symptoms of arsenical poisoning. Proprietor Washburn believed his people were poisoned by drinking water at Morristown, N. J., which was carried to the circus by boys who dipped it from a stream said to contain dye from a woolen mill. The manager of the circus sent for new hands and performers. REGISTRARS ARE VERY BUSY MEN

Booths Throughout the City Were Crowded Yesterday.

There was a tremendous rush to the registration booths last night. The work progressed rather slowly during the day, but in the evening the booths and the registrars had difficulty in registering all who desired it. The total number of registrations was 658. The work continued this morning, and the booths will be open again tonight. Every Liberal who has not yet made sure of his vote should see that his name is down. No one should let the fact that he voted at the municipal election keep him from making sure. That is no guarantee that it is on this list. Every man who has the right to vote should call at 238 Dundas street, or telephone No. 14, and learn if it is necessary to register.
