

That "Kruschen" Feeling

Here's the dear old boy again—just brimming over with high spirits and sheer joy of living.

He gets up every morning feeling that he could do the staffcase in one. He greets the day with a smile, and his friends with the hearty hand-clasp of real good-fellowship.

He is welcome wherever he goes—no one can resist his cheery way of always looking on the bright side of things.

Do you feel like this? If not, there's something wrong. You think it's your nature. It isn't—it's your health.

Just consider. You are probably getting too little fresh air and exercise—perhaps you spend too much time sitting over your daily tasks, and, as a result, you get run down with worry, overwork or errors of diet. Consequently, you need a corrective. You need Kruschen Salts.

Kruschen contains just the six salts, blended in just the right proportion, that are essential to keep you in continual good health. Under their tonic influence the liver and kidneys eliminate all waste matter. Your whole body is braced and revived.

The dose is only "as much as will lie on a 10 cent piece," and you can't taste it in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea. A 75c bottle contains 160 morning "pinches"—good health and youthful spirits for less than half a cent a day.

Tasteless in Coffee or Tea
Put as much in your breakfast cup as will lie on a 10 cent piece. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Kruschen Salts

Good Health for Half a Cent a Day

The ingredients of Kruschen Salts are necessary for healthy life. Your body must, of necessity, obtain these ingredients from somewhere, or you could not live. Normally, your system should extract these vital salts from your food—meat, bread, fruit, vegetables, milk, eggs, and so on; but when, owing to impaired digestion, errors of diet, overwork and worry, anxiety, sedentary occupation and many other causes, your system does not extract from your food the correct proportions of these essential life-giving salts, from depression, headaches, constipation or disordered liver.

Kruschen Salts should be your safeguard. Besides cleansing the body of impurities, gently, surely and painlessly, they possess a wonderful power of giving new life and vitality to the countless millions of cells of which every body is composed.

New Stories By O. HENRY

A GUESSPROOF MYSTERY STORY

The most popular recent advertising dodge in literature is the Grand Guess Contest. Mystery Story. Everybody is invited to guess how the story will end at any time before the last chapter is published, and incidentally to buy a paper or subscribe. It is the easiest thing in the world to write a story of mystery that will defy the most ingenious guessers in the country.

To prove it, here is one that we offer $10,000 to any man and $15,000 to any woman who guesses the mystery before the last chapter.

CHAPTER I.
Judge Smith, a highly esteemed citizen of Plunkville, is found murdered in his bed at his home. He has been stabbed with a pair of sissors, poisoned with "Rough on Rats," his throat has been cut with an ivory-handled razor, an artery in his arm has been opened, and he has been filled full of buckshot from a double-barreled gun.

The coroner is summoned and the room examined. On the ceiling is a bloody footprint, and on the floor was found a lady's face, handkerchief, embroidered with the initials "J. B.," a package of cigarettes and a ham sandwich. The coroner, renders a verdict of work up the case.

CHAPTER II.
The judge leaves a daughter, Mabel, aged 18, and ravishingly lovely. The night before the murder she exhibited a revolver and an axe in the principal saloon in town and declared her intention of "doing up" the old man. This judge has his life insured for $100,000 in her favor. Nobody suspects her of the crime. Mabel is engaged to a young man named Charlie, who is seen on the night of the murder by several citizens climbing out the judge's window with a bloody razor and a shotgun in his hand. Society gives Charlie the cold shoulder.

A tramp is run over by a street car and before dying confesses to having committed the murder, and at the judge's funeral his brother, Colonel Smith, broke down and acknowledged having killed the judge in order to get his watch. Mabel sends to Chicago and employs a skilled detective to work up the case.

CHAPTER III.
A beautiful strange lady, dressed in mourning, comes to Plunkville and registers at the hotel as Jane Bumgartner (the initials on the handkerchief).

The next day a Chinaman is found who denies having killed the judge, and is arrested by the detective. The strange lady meets Charlie on the street and, on smelling the smoke from his cigarette, faints. Mabel discards him and engages herself to the Chinaman.

CHAPTER IV.
While the Chinaman is being tried for murder, Jane Bumgartner testifies that she saw the detective murder Judge Smith at the instance of the minister who conducted the funeral, and that Mabel is Charlie's stepmother. The Chinaman is about to confess when footsteps are heard approaching.

The next chapter will be the last, and it is safe to say that no one will find it easy to guess the ending of the story. To show how difficult this feat is, the last chapter is now given.

CHAPTER V.
The footsteps prove to be those of Thomas R. Heffebomer of Washington Territory, who introduces positive proof of having murdered the judge during a fit of mental aberration, and Mabel marries a man named Tompkins, whom she met two years later at Hot Springs.
