MAKE PLANS TO HANDLE APPLE CROP

(Halifax Herald

Arrangements are being made to carry this year's Nova Scotia apple crop to Great Britain under better conditions than ever before, so that the fruit will reach the Old Country market in the best of shape. The Furness Withy Company, which has during the past years carried most of the apple cargoes across the Atlantic and which, towards the close of last season, had some oil-burning ships in the apple-carrying trade, is this year having oil-burning and other up-to-date equipment installed in the ships so that they will be ready at the start of the season.

Reports from the Annapolis Valley so far indicate that there will be another bumper crop of apples grown there this season and that next fall there will probably be more than a million barrels for the export trade. The Furness line have specialized in this trade for many years, carrying 5.000,000 barrels out of a total of 7,000,000 during the past 13 years, and their present endeavor is to specjalize still further in this direction by fitting their vessels particularly
