

On this note, I should like to join with men of goodwill everywhere in welcoming the New Year. Let us pledge ourselves in 1965 to meet the great challenges that lie before us and to contribute, each within the measure of our capacity, to the consolidation of world peace and world prosperity. Let us make 1965, in spirit as in name, a Year of International Co-operation.