The Secretary of State for External Affairs, Don Jamieson, will visit Barbados, St. Lucia and Jamaica from January 16 to 21. He will be accompanied by three Members of Parliament and a group of seven Canadian businessmen.

Mr. Jamieson will hold bilateral discussions in Barbados and St. Lucia on Canada's relations with these states, Commonwealth matters of mutual interest, and on other current international issues, including developments generally in the Caribbean region. Mr. Jamieson will sign the Agreement in Kingston, Jamaica on January 20, together with Ministers of the twelve Commonwealth Caribbean governments belonging to CARICOM.

While in Barbados, Mr. Jamieson will hold talks with Prime Minister Adams and Foreign Minister Forde. The Minister and his group will have discussions with senior officials of the Caribbean Development Bank, of which Canada is a member. They will also visit the site of the uplands sugar cane separator, a project which is being undertaken with assistance from the Canadian International Development Agency.

In St. Lucia, Mr. Jamieson will hold discussions with Governor Lewis and Premier John Compton, and visit the new Comprehensive School built under CIDA's auspices near Castries, St. Lucia.
