KNIGHTS OF MALTA HOLD ANNIVERSARY

Forty-Ninth Year of Order Celebrated at Banquet at Walker House.

"The devil of strife was never more present than he is now," declared Colonel A. T. Hunter, in responding to the toast "The Veterans of the Great War," at the forty-ninth anniversary dinner of the Knights of Malta, held in the Walker House on Saturday night last.

The people of this country, said Colonel Hunter, made a blunder when they began to differentiate veterans from citizens at the time of their return. The average soldier did not want to see a uniform again and they should have been repatriated while they were in that mood. Instead they had been promised many things which had never materialized. "You have not gone one-third the length of equalizing the conditions of the veterans to those of the men who stayed at home."

This apparent neglect has set the veterans brooding, with the result that they were being forced into a class, and at the same time being forced into the most powerful political body that any nation ever created. Colonel Hunter praised the valor of the Canadian corps. "What are we going to do with this magnificent body of men?" he questioned. He advocated the fostering of the military spirit of the Canadians, and also it could be perverted, yet he knew that the innate good sense of the people would prevent it. "We have sense enough not to take on that international insouciance which marks the beginning of downfall."

Namby-Pamby Pacifists. Colonel Hunter said we were still being troubled by namby-pamby pacifists. "There will be no peace till the world is fought out," he said, and, although the British Empire and Europe in general were fought out, yet here on this very continent the Spanish-Americans were not fought out nor were our neighbors to the south, who were still full of boiling bluster and mad with their own self-esteem. Asia, too, was getting ready, and he emphasized the dangers lying in that quarter. Conflict between Mexico and the United States was as sure as the Franco-German clash had been.

He advised that the presence of every man who had served in the great Canadian unit should be kept on record and advised that Canada should take as her motto: "Don't step on me." These men were the men who were thinking of the wars to come, and it was they who were asking what use was to be made of Canada's military spirit.

The first toast, "The Chapter General of Canada," was proposed by R. E. A. Land, who reviewed the history of the order in its early days and the new regime which had just been entered on by the lodge, A. G. Horwood, in replying to the toast, paid a graceful compliment to the presiding officer, "Grand Master Aid, John A. Cowan, to whose efforts he laid much of the present prosperity of the order. He told of the customs and legends of the order, which, he said, had descended, by rightful ownership, from as far back as 1071. Mr. Horwood said that the lodge was at present in a good financial position, having paid all its claims, with a goodly surplus, and he had no doubt as to the future.

"The Day We Celebrate," was proposed by Mark J. Patterson and responded to by T. G. Jenkins, both old members of the order, who indulged in reminiscences of the first foundation of the order in Canada. The toast to "The Ladies" was proposed by District Deputy Grand Master W. R. Gloeckling and responded to by District Deputy Grand Master T. G. Waters.

Among those at the head table were Grand Master John A. Cowan, who presided; Past Grand Master T. G. Jenkins, Past Grand Master A. S. Horwood, Past Grand Master R. E. A. Land, Past Grand Master H. Morom, J. C. Beckett, A. J. Bentley, Mark J. Patterson, C. B. Wright and the District Grand Masters W. R. Gloeckling and T. G. Waters, and other members of the Chapter, General of Canada.

HUSBAND FOLLOWS WIFE'S EXAMPLE

Shoots Himself at Grenadier Pond After Mrs. Woods' Suicide.

Stricken with grief over the loss of his wife, who committed suicide last Thursday by drowning in Grenadier Pond, James Woods, age 26, of 112 Gilmour Avenue, returned from his wife's funeral Saturday afternoon and walking to the spot where his wife's body had been laid to rest, he shot and killed himself. The funeral was held from the home at 1.30 in the afternoon to Park Lawn Cemetery. Motoring home, Woods went to his room and at five o'clock left the house with a shotgun. He walked down Ellis Avenue, to the Swansea bank of Grenadier Pond, and lying down on his back at the water's edge placed a piece of brown paper over his face and putting the muzzle of the rifle against his heart pulled the trigger. The bullet lodged in the heart, killing him instantly.

On leaving the house at 5 o'clock Woods wrapped the gun in brown paper. He left two letters on the table, one addressed to his mother in England and the other was likely intended to explain his death.

Woods was seen to leave the house. On entering Woods' room, other occupants of the Gilmour Avenue house found the letters. The letter stated that he was going to the bank of the pond where his wife's body had been recovered to and his life. The police of Keele street station were notified and Detectives Hazelwood and Courtney hurried to Grenadier Pond and found the dead body. The detectives were about ten minutes too late in their effort to prevent the despondent man from taking his life.

That Woods intended committing suicide, after he had learned of his wife's death was clearly shown in letters left. The letter started off stating that he did not think he would be able to attend his wife's funeral Saturday. He was anxious, however, to see her laid to rest, and that he would follow her. When making the funeral arrangements, continued the letter, Woods said he purchased a family plot so that he could be buried alongside of his wife.

Leaves Estate to Mother.

The letter to his mother in Bolton, Lancashire, contained his will, bequeathing his estate, consisting of cash on hand, stocks and Victory bonds, to her. The letter also stated that he intended joining his wife, who he said had taken her life Thursday.

Mrs. Amelia Woods had been in ill-health for sometime and Thursday afternoon she placed a brick in her pocket and drowned herself in Grenadier Pond. When she did not return home in the evening Woods went to Keele street station and reported her missing to the police. The same evening her body was recovered in the pond.

County Constable Dennis had the body of Woods removed to Norman Craig's undertaking parlors, 1255 West Queen Street, where Coroner Curson of New Toronto held a preliminary hearing of the inquest Saturday night. The letters are in the hands of Detective Hazelwood, who will hand them over to the coroner.

Mr. and Mrs. Woods lived with friends in the Gilmour Avenue home. They have no relatives in Canada.

One of Twenty Suggestions Thrown Out at Open Forum Yesterday.

Open Forum suggestions to the new provincial government at Queen's Park, by W. D. Gregory, one of the original founders of the Open Forum, who addressed 160 people at the regular Sunday afternoon meeting at Foresters' Hall, College Street, included altogether nineteen different bits of advice, given in two sections—one upon administration, the other upon legislation—in the course of which Premier Drury was advised to consider the advisability of doing away with the Rosedale Government House as such, and get an architect to investigate its possibilities as a soldiers' home or an asylum. Mr. Gregory believed altogether too much money was being spent upon the office of lieutenant-governor. This criticism was quite impersonal. Other bits of advice tendered by the speaker were: (1) Show combinations and profiteers generally that criminal law could be made to apply to their business activities; (2) all the different departments of Queen's Park should be reorganized on a business basis; (3) the government should appoint a purchasing commission, whose duty it would be to purchase supplies for jails, hospitals and other provincial institutions, irrespective of party affiliations; (4) the government should be chary of appointing commissions of investigation—it was an impossible situation where a high court was thus enabled to draw, as in some cases, extraordinary allowances totaling more than $20,000 for work which should be considered merely as part of the usual routine of the judge's work; (5) the government should continue to foster the ideal of community centres so ably inaugurated by Hon. Dr. Cody; (6) abolition should be encouraged; (7) abolition of a plain, common-sense footing in dress and administration, putting all trills and foldovers into the waste paper basket; (8) so fashion the system of election that all sections of the community may have equal share in the administration of the vote.

Conservatives in Majority.

Despite the often reiterated assertion of Sir Robert Borden, that election officials were to be appointed entirely without respect to their political affiliations, experience in some cases had proven that Conservatives had largely figured as deputy returning officers, one district for example, showing that out of a total of 42 deputies 44 were Conservatives, and that in another district, where 35 out of 38 deputies of that party had bewailed the fact that the government had been so derelict in their duties as to allow the vote to run: Conservatives 2, Liberals 11, U. F. O. 176.

(9) Abolish the clause calling for property qualifications in municipal elections; (10) consolidate the offices of county judge, sheriff and jailer making one of each do for two counties, and, last but not least, (11) consolidate the system of recording real estate transfers, so that a man owning many lots on one sector of land will be able to obtain a title deed from the registry office for the whole sector, instead of paying a lawyer fees on every little lot transferred, as at present.

Discussion which followed was harmonious, despite the fact that several who spoke delivered criticisms of the government without offering any constructive suggestions.

ADVANCE IN MILK TO BEGIN MONDAY

Producers Make Price Three Dollars and Thirty-Five Cents Per Can.

Commencing on Monday, December 1, the price of milk will be raised from $3.10 to $3.35 per eight-gallon can, delivered to the dairy. This decision was unanimously arrived at a meeting of the producers, represented by 800 members of the Toronto Milk and Cream Producers' Association at Foresters' Hall, on Saturday afternoon. It was also decided to set the price of butter fat at 80 cents per pound.

E. H. Stonehouse, president of the association, stated to The World that none of the farmers were able to realize a fair profit at the former prices. He said that the distributors were totally opposed to the increase. He added that no communication has been received from the board of commerce. The executive conferred with the distributors at the close of the meeting, but so far have been unable to reach an agreement.

This increase on the part of the producers means that the price for consumers may be raised from one to two cents per quart within a few days, when the price of milk will be 17 cents per quart or twelve tickets for a dollar. It now sells for 16 cents a quart or 13 tickets for a dollar. The wholesale price of milk during the summer was $2.40 per can. This was raised in the fall to $3.10.
