Press and Pulpit

Discussion of Their Relations at the Alumni Conference at Queen's University, Kingston.

the Alumni of Queen's, Kingston, an halo over evil doings. But incidental address was given by Mr. John Cameron, of The London Advertiser, on "The relation of the pulpit to political and social life, and to the press as the principal exponent of modern life."

Rev. Mr. Hossack, of Toronto, dealt mainly with the first part of the sub-Ject. At the conclusion of both addresses a stirring discussion followed, which was participated in by Principal Grant, Prof. Short and others, and also by Rev. Dr. Milligan, of Toronto, from the chair. Mr. Cameron spoke as fol-

The section of this large subject that most naturally appeals to me is the relation of the pulpit to the press. I may say at the start that the relation of the two powers should be that of FRIENDLINESS AND CO-OPERA-TION.

I am sorry, however, to say this is not always the case; and in my opinion the fault lies more often with pulpit than press. Personally, I am the more free to "speak out in meeting" because, on the average, during a somewhat lengthened career in journalism, I have been more often in accord than out of accord with the pulpit. If, therefore, for the puposes of this discussion, I speak without reserve of the attitude often asumed by the pulpit towards the press it is from no feeling of hostility, but rither in the hope that plain speaking my help to better understanding.

The preacher and journalist have much in common. The preacher, if a true shepherd, and not an hireling, is anxious to pamote in individual hearts the reign of the higher law, and in the state ne righteousness that exalteth a nation The journalist who takes the right vew desires the same things. I have eard an occasional 10urnalist speak of the function of publisher or editr as simply that of purveyor, with noption but to serve up whatever a najority might be likely to relish, respective of moral quality; and this n the ground that if he did not do so, someone else would. Such doctrine is the doctrine of a man with but lile principle. Even the making of a air of boots cannot be divorced from noral obligation.

The pulpit is a august institution. Previous to the itroduction of printing it did much othe thinking for the people. It does sestill. I cannot say whether the golde age of the pulpit is past, or whethr its influence and glory are to find leir climax in some day yet distant. Io not say the influence of the pulpit as declined. I only say the influence of the newspaper, whether for good r for evil, has advanced, and is aduncing. The newspaper is read everwhere. It reaches those who listen to preachers; reaches also thosewho do not. The pulpit finds its speal opportunity one day in the week; e daily newspaper six days out of sen. It has been estimated that th annual issue of pers and publicions, other than books, would be ecal to over

1,000 SQUARE MES OF WHITE

PAPER URFACE year. But, ou inquire, 1,000 miles of what sort matter? I reply, unhesitatingly, thearger portion of the matter printed wholesome. Take an ordinary issue othe average news-Great litain, the United States or Canada: udge for yourself how much is who ome; how much stimulative in rig directions; how much restful at recreative; how little really objectiable. No doubt, were a destructi critic to go over the six ise of the best daily newspaper ev issued, he could cut out this bit anchat as something which "never wild be missed." But let the destructe critic apply the same process to t preacher's two sermons every wee Would there be no diminution in bk in that quarter

From the pulpitne hears talk of newspaper sensatiolism. There may be such a thing. here are, indeed, those who consider contagious, and that it may have en caught from some of the pulpits the day! after all, is meanby "sensational-Some preaers and some newspapers are spok of as sensational, when they are imply not dull. There will be without setting it as a cardinal virtue. It ought to bossible, alike in pulpit and press, t be interesting without being irrevent or monotonous. There is, I muadmit, a kind of sensationalism obseable in journals of the lars United States cities, and still too mmon in Great Britain, consisting, fexample, of detailed reports of dive cases, and the like. Such reports ; a disgrace to journalism, and serve good purpose. Happily, on that se, there is not much, though perhs somewhat, to complain of in the ess of Canada. It may be well to beatchful.

DULLNESS ENGH IN THE WOFD

I do not know wher objectors in-clude as "sensationaly" ordinary reports of criminal tria But, as Judge Armour recently rerked, there is much to be said invor of their being moderately anodately reported. If it be true, as sometimes alleged, that a few enyo rascals are thus made acquainterith the methods of clever criminal, also are the public, who hencefor know what must be done in the + of watchfulness and prevention. 1 one way or another, either throt preliminary incarceration in jail, through publicity, the criminal dom escapes punishment; so that teffect of making public the facts haually deter-Trials should br be reported

At the recent Annual Conference of | in such fashion as to make the criminal revelations of evils from which parents must guard those under their charge, as these revelations grow naturally out of the news of the day, are often a needed warning. Take, for instance, in the community. Nothing unites a assaults on children, confidence games, and the like. The Bible keeps nothing

He would have some millionaire rise up and give a million dollars to found would get the best and brightest news-Sheldon's ideal is that its outlines are whether or not it is to be distributed gratuitously; nor does he indicate any if gratuitously distributed. If his view to be paid to guarantee unanimity of is so it owes to the modern newspaview among the editors? If he were editor-in-chief, in what respect would he differ from other editors-in-chief who have the final say? If edited by committee, we will suppose the question of smoking comes up, or of inserting advertisements relating to tobacco. Sub-editor A proposes a sweeping censure, whereupon sub-editor B reminds him that the Bishop of Toronto is a smoker, who does not propose to give it up, and who even quotes Spurgeon in corroboration. That is merely one illustration. Another might be, if some "Constant Reader" raised the question of the righteousness of economic conditions that rendered it possible for any man under the sun to amass or possess $200,000,000. Would the millionaire-owner veto all discussion of such dangerous questions? Mr. Sheldon's idea appears to be that some Rockefeller-endowed, supernaturally-edited newspaper should pound away brilliantly every day throughout the year, except Sundays, at a certain moral programme. But, after all, the of this programme would simply be the opinions entertained on various subjects by Mr. Sheldon, or whoever else was editor; and probably no one of these opinions is without newspaper advocacy already. I am afraid Mr. Sheldon is of that class who think the world can be quickly revolu-tionized if you adopt this or that new specific-start a Salvation Army, get a millionaire to start a brand-new style of daily paper, or what not. There is doubtless a good fight constantly in progress throughout the world and throughout the ages, but there can be no uniformity of battle-method. "God fulfills himself in many ways." I would not like anyone to think I am in oppo- mental necessity of society and of hu- during peace, and the cheerful and willestimated that the annual issue of aire-endowed, ideal daily newspaper. about misreporting political opponing these trying circumstances is de-United States and Canadian newspa- My query is this: If no one expects ents. There are newspapers and newsan immediately ideal earth-and if no one expects an immediately ideal pulpit-why should any one expect an immediately ideal press? One of Mr. Sheldon's favorite inquiries is, What would Christ do were he on earth? What sort of a daliy newspaper would Christ issue? The question is sugges-> answered. A newspaper is supposed to DAILY HISTORICAL MIRROR OF

THE TIMES, and presumably the first merit to be demanded would be that it be a correct mirror. What style of newspaper would Christ publish or edit? is an inquiry not more easily answered than the query, Which of the various denominations into which Christendom is divided would Christ consider most to his mind? Mr. Sheldon is quite within his rights in longing publicly for the time when a daily newspaper would be issued, every line of which would have a distinctly moral purpose-a sort of daily tract, so to speak. Well, there is no law, other than the law of finance, to prevent my eminent clerical friedd from establishing just such a daily newspaper; but there would be the same need and the same demand as ever for the ordinary newspaper. Our eminent friend seems to newspaper are neither moral, nor immoral, but non-moral. Another thing, I am sure that publishers generally do not desire to make money in any but honest fashion. It is a fact, perhaps, not so widely known as in justice to newspapers it ought to be, namely, that there are few publishers in Canada who do not every year refuse advertisements which they consider objectionable to the extent of hundreds and thousands of dollars per annum. Can it be said, when we consider the nature of many of the methods employed to raise money for churches, that the business managers of churches are more careful as to the sources of their revenues? The press has reason to complain

FREQUENTLY RECEIVES SCANT

JUSTICE from the pulpit-I would not say intentionally. For example, I have known ministers, when objecting to something in one newspaper, to reflect without discrimination on the press as a whole, which is manifestly unfair. Then I once heard a minister from the pulpit assail newspapers for sometimes omitting the names of drunks from police reports. That same minister-a worthy man, too-a fortnight after, with amusing incorsistency, came in to beg omission of a drunk's name, in order, as he said, to give the poor fellow another chance.

Then I have heard ministers bandy thoughtlessly from the pulpit such jocularities as that you cannot believe everything you read in the newspapers. In like manner, one might bandy the locularity that one cannot believe everything one hears from the pulpit, or that other jocularity that nothing cures a minister's deafness like a call to a higher salary, illustrated by the story of the clergyman who was offered a better position, and whose young daughter, being asked what the decision would be, replied, "Well, I don't know. All I can say is that papa is in the study praying for guidance and mamma is upstairs packing the trunks." In either case, it is a class of jocularity that might well be relegated to oblivion. When one considers the pressure under which the daily newspaper is recessarily produced, it is surprising how few the mistakes of with that which is accurate, would be enough of clerical caste, exclusiveness, small indeed. I must admit that reporters are not always fortunate in condensation of sermons. Many of the phrases employed are theologically phrases employed are theologically technical; in some cases outworn. St. Augustine him.self might find his work cut out for him in presenting in two or three inches of space a discourse which, if reported verbatim (the least difficult sort of reporting, by the way), would cover a barn door. If I were a prescher, I would always he glad to preacher, I would always be glad to furnish the reporter, when requested, with a suitable brief condensation of my sermon.

The newspaper is important as the PRINCIPAL BOND OF DEMOCRAT-IC UNITY community like a common public opin-ion, a common fund of information. The newspaper is read in common by The other day a distinguished and deservedly esteemed clergyman, visiting Toronto, the Rev. Chas. M. Sheldon author of "In His Store" more importance of the street. The ing Toronto, the Rev. Chas. M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps," spoke of his dream that some day there might be

AN IDEAL DAILY NEWSPAPER.

He would have some millionaire rise. It is rather important to have it suited It is rather important to have it suited with what is right and what is wise. a great Christian daily newspaper. He would get the best and brightest newswould get the best and brightest newspaper men in the whole country to paper men in the whole country to price and run it. The defect in Mr. be brought into recognizable comparison with the democracies of the modtoo vague. He does not condescend to particulars. He does not tell us among whom he expects his publication to circulate. He does not indicate the does not condition along the line of the does not not indicate the does not condition along the does not not condescend to particulars. condition along the line of social equality, i. e., a fairer distribution of method of compelling its perusal, even necessaries and leisure. And modern is to have his ideal paper edited by a on throughout the world, and that this committee, what premium would have is so it owes to the modern powspa-

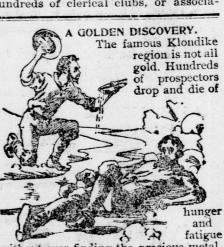

The pulpit often brings charges against the press of political partisanship, with laments over the difficulty, amid the strife of contending voices, of arriving at the truth. Well, the activity of the Atlantic is better than the peace of the stagnant pond. Active-minded people need an occasional outlet for their feelings, and these outlets are afforded by election contests and political discussions. Journalists espouse the side to which they lean, but they do not divide any more than the people as a whole. Matters can sometimes be honestly looked at from different points of view. I am not aware that it would be best for the body politic were there only one political party. The body religious is divided up into religious partyism— Protestantism and Roman Catholicism, and Judaism, and Greek-Churchism, with Protestantism subdivided again into various sections. Whatever differences there are politically or religiously whatever there may be that prevents opposite party quite as complacently as at his own—appear to be difficulties that are universal in application and fundamental in human nature. Look Great Britain, with strongly-contending historical parties, and look at the magnificent statesmen produced. Surely Calvinists should be able to see that this has been, not of chance, but of Providence! The common pul-pit explanation, that the divisions of the body politic grow out of "PURE CUSSEDNESS,"

does not go deeply enough. I prefer to believe that they grow out of some deeply philosophical law, some fundapapers. would now-a-days think of misreportthough it might, and usually does, give the chief prominence to its own ness.' speakers and its own meetings. Nor does any respectable journal hesitate to make a correction when it has fallen tive and stimulating, but not so easily

If I sometimes criticise the pulpit, I am no unfriendly critic. Deeply important and worthy to be upheld must be the work of those who have to do with character-building and its consequences. Without the Scriptures, the Sabbath and the pulpit, society would soon sink into license, recklessness, and insecurity, as is shown by the practical heathenism into which new mining and other settlements fall when without these influences.

It cannot be unimportant to consider in what ways pulpit and press may best co-operate to advance the interests of society during the coming 20th century. A beginning of co-operation might be found in recognition by each of what is best in the other. A good deal might be done incidentally by the formation of small discussion-clubs, membership partly clerical and partly lay. In private discussionclubs laymen find ministers among the most clubable of men. There are forget that much of the contents of a hundreds of clerical clubs, or associawithout ever finding the precious metal. Often the most precious things of life are found only after infinite exertion and discouraging search. Many a man and woman looking vainly for health almost drops by the wayside before the golden means of relief is at last discovered.

"About twelve years ago." says O. S. Copenhaver. Esq., of Mount Union, Huntington Co., Pa., "I was suddenly taken with a pain in the pit of my stomach which was so violent I could not walk straight. It would grow more severe until it caused waterbrash and vomiting of a slimy yellow matter. I consulted a physician slimy yellow matter. I consulted a physician and he told me I had a form of dyspepsia, and treated me for about six months with but little benefit. I still kept getting so weak I could searcely welk scarcely walk.

"I then tried another physician and he told "I then tried another physician and he told me my liver was out of order and that I had indigestion. He gave me a treatment and I got some better but only for a short time. I then tried another one who said I had chronic indigestion, ulceration of the lining of the stomach, torpid liver and kiduey affection. He treated me for more than a year and I felt much better but it did not last.

"I then took to using several widely advertised patent medicines, but received no more than

"Then took to using several wheely advertised patent medicines, but received no more than temporary relief while using. I then tried Dr. Pierce's medicines, using his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and the 'Pleasaut Pellets,' and in two months' time I was feeling better than I had for years before. I can truthfully say Dr. Pierce's medicines did me more good than any I had ever telen."

If you are one of those discouraged ones in the long and weary search for health, write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. He will send you friendly advice that will not cost you one cent. For constipation, nothing is equal to fact, how great the average of ac- | Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

curacy. I venture this assertion, that itions, throughout the country; but in every well-conducted newspaper the average inaccuracies, as compared than good; seeing there is already quite ever the best method, there is need that the two powers, the pulpit and the press, should come into closer sympathetic and personal touch. Let them get together!

MAN'S BURDEN

How the British Have Had to Bear It in Uganda.

Desperate Fighting for Months-Terri ble Hardships.

A British parliamentary paper has been issued, bringing the official account of recent events in the Uganda Protectorate up to September last. A detailed report from Major Macdonald, R.E., forwarded by Mr. Berkeley from Kampala on May 30, 1898, gives the history of the campaign during the preceding seven months, and shows only too clearly how severe was the struggle and how heavy were the losses incurred for the maintenance of imperial authority. Major Macdonald states: "These operations have involved five engagements, in which we lost over 10 per cent of the number engaged, seven minor engagements, and 35 skirmishes, in which loss of life occurred, and until almost the close of the operations the odds were on the side of the enemy. Fortunately our enemies were widely separated, and did not all rise together or combine their efforts, and an opportunity was thus afforded for beating them in detail. But the work and strain on both men and officers was necessarily exceptionally severe, more especially as the latter could realize that if certain not improbable combinations amongst the enemy were effected our position would be practically hopeless during the earlier half of the struggle.

"The operations themselves covered a great extent of country; from the ravine to the borders of Toru was a stretch of 350 miles of longitude, while from the south of Buddu to Shull was 230 miles of latitude. The total area of the country actually operated in amounted to close on 40,000 square miles. Considering that at the commencement of the operations under my command the forces at my disposal consisted of 17 regulars and some 340 Swahilis, and that even at the close of the operations the total only amounted to 2,000, including all classes, it will be evident that the work was exceptionally heavy one from looking at the doings of the and involved much arduous marching.

"Another feature of these operations is the great distance which the reinforcements had to march to get to the seat of war, and their very creditable rate of march, considering the difficulties of the road and of the extemporized transport service.

"It must be remembered that the military operations frequently required prolonged movements in very unhealthy country, and that the operations extended till nearly the end of the rainy season. The work of active service necessarily made it impossible for the officers and men to take all the pre-cautions which they might have done sition to the experiment of a million- man nature. Then I have heard talk ling spirit displayed by all ranks dur-But no reputable newspaper verse climatic conditions, with unaccustomed, monotonous diet, and with ing a religious or political gathering the water generally indifferent, often with which it was not in accord; positively bad, the work was carried out with unflagging zeal and thorough-

> Major Macdonald, after commending warmly the efficiency of the transport, commissariat, and medical depart-ments, in spite of the exceptional difficulties with which they had to contend, pays a warm tribute to the laymen and missionaries who "rendered very great service by accompanying the columns as interpreters and undoubtedly contributed to the successful work of our allies." One of the missionaries, Mr. Pilkington, was killed in the fighting line, and Major Macdonald describes his death as "a terrible loss for Uganda, where his many admirable qualities had greatly endeared him to all, and given him an influence with the natives second to that of no other missionary. Of the loyal Waganda and Wasoga, Major Macdonald expresses a high opinion. The report closes with a heavy list of casualties—viz., 280 killed and 555 wounded—during the seven months' fighting, the losses in action of regular troops and Europeans amounting to 31 killed and 53 wounded. The losses of the Soudanese mutineers and their allies are estimated at altogether 1,300. Dispatches from Major Martyr and Lieut.-Col. Broome describe the further fighting at Jeruba, near Mruli, on Aug. 4 last, and in the subsequent pursuit of the mutineers on the right bank of the Nile to Foweira. The correspondence closes with dispatches calling special attention to the conspicuous gallantry displayed by Lieut. Wake, East Africa Rifles, under great physical disabilities.

A TIP FOR CHOATE

Why Shouldn't His Salary Be Increased in Token of Anglo-American Friendship?

[From the London Chronicle.] The appointment of Mr. Joseph H. Choate as United States ambassador to the court of St. James' is now definitely announced. He is not so well known on this side of the Atlantic as some of his predecessors who bore the names of Lowell, Lincoln, Bayard, and Hay. On the other hand, he has a great lawyer's record in his own country, and he combines political integrity and personal distinction as notably as any former ambassador of the great republic. It is accepted doctrine in the States that the minister to Great Britain shall be a man of some private means, since the remuneration but $17,500, whereas our ambassador at Washington has nearly double that amount, or £6,500 a year. Even this sum is small in comparison with posts of infinitely less importance. Sir H. Drummond Wolff gets £5,500 even at Madrid; Rome is £7,000, or less by a thousand for Sir Philip Currie than his former post at Constantinople, which is worth £8,000. That sum again is, absurdly enough, £200 a year more than our ambassador gets at St. Petersburg. The ambassadors in Berlin and Vienna have £8,000 a year, and the prize of the diplomatic profession is Paris, which is now paid £9,000.

It must strike anybody that, considering our American trade, and, above all, the imperial responsibility specialattaching to our representative at Washington, the United States should not be ranked in the matter of pay be-

NO PLACE FOR LOVE

Many authorities maintain that consumption is not an hereditary disease but it is universally admitted that the tendency to consumption is inherited Weak lungs, narrow chests and low vitality are in many cases family characteristics, and sooner or later the dread destroyer usually appears. Marriage among such people should not be permitted. The tendency toward consumption may be overcome in youth or early manhood and womanhood. Proper care, proper diet and proper exercise, together with Shiloh's Consumption Cure, will conquer the handicaps of heredity, and make anybody equal to the responsibilities and joys of life.

Nelson Gough, of Strathroy, Ont., sent the following letter to Druggist Stephler, of Strathroy, and that gentleman has kindly forwarded it to the S. C. Wells Co., of Le Roy, N. Y .: "I want to tell you what the medicine, Shiloh's Cure, which I bought at your drug store, has done in three cases here. You know that I was long ill with lung trouble. The doctor thought I would not get well. I went out to your store and got a bottle of Shiloh's Consumption Cure. I never had anything to do me so much good. My lungs had been so weak that singing was impossible, and my head was so bad as to affect my memory. Shiloh's Consumption Cure cured me, and to-day I am a well man." Shiloh's Consumption Cure is sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee that the purchase money will be refunded in case the medicine does not accomplish all that is claimed for it. 25c., 50c. and $1 a bottle throughout the United States and Canada. In England 1s. 2d., 2s. 3d. and 4s. 6d.

A Money Saver

The Mechanics' Time Book and Note Book is sent free by addressing Adams & Sons Co., 11 & 13 Jarvis Street, Toronto, Ont., and sending one wrapper from Adams' Tutti Frutti Gum.

Avoid those dealers who try to palm off imitations and substitutes in order to make a great enna, and-Constantinople! It would be an open sign and seal of the virtual alliance of the Anglo-Saxon race if, when Sir Julian Pauncefote retires in April, the embassy at Washington should be raised to the first rank, and put on a par with that of Paris, or at the very least of Berlin and Vienna. The compliment would be felt from Maine to California, and from Lake Superior to the Mexican border. And the compliment would represent a fact -a serious fact-that in the future we must look for the closest sympathy not in Europe, but in America, and that no one less than our very best man (not that Sir Julian Pauncefote is less than our best) should speak for us in the mighty state which Washington founded and Lincoln ruled.

THE RESERVE OF THE PROPERTY OF

Stubborn Coughs.

Some Coughs seem hard to shake of -stick right to you in spite of all you do to get rid of them.

Those are the kind of Coughs that are dangerous-that weaken the lungs so that the germs of Consumption find & ready foothold.

Now, there's no remedy will cure stubborn Coughs-Coughs that won't let go-like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It allays the inflammation, soothes the irritation, heals the diseased mucous lining of the Lungs and Bronchial Tubes, and rids the system completely of all the bad effects of lingering Coughs and Colds.

Br. Wood's Morway Fine

And teach the Children to do so by using CALVERT'S

Carbolic Tooth Powder 6d, 1s, 1s 6d and one pound, 5s Tins, or Carbolic Tooth Paste. 6d, 1s and 1s 6d Pots.

They have the largest sale of any dentifrice. Avoid imitations, which are numerous and F. C. CALVERT & CO., Manchester.

Neaves Food

INFANTS AND INVALIDS.

"An excellent Food, admirably adapted to the wants of Infants and Young Persons, and being rich in Phosphates and Potash is of the greatest utility in supplying the bone-forming and other indispensable elements of food."

SIR CHAS. A. CAMERON, M.D.

CHIRT COLLARS IRONED STRAIGHT Set so as not to hurt the neck. Stand up collars ironed without being broken in the wing. Ties done to look like new. Give me a call. If you are not suited no pay. Washing returned in 24 hours. All hand work. Best in the city. Parcels called for and delivered.

Lee Hing Laundry 467 Richmond Street.

DUSINESS DIRECTORY

Ready Reference Guide of London-Banks, Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers.

Auction Mart, Storage and Moving. PORTER & CO., 'phone 1,162. MILLER'S ELECTRIC PARCEL EX-

PRESS, 223 Dundas, 'phone 836.

Artists. J. P. HUNT. 423 Dundas street Banks.

DOMINION SAVINGS AND INVEST-MENT SOCIETY. CANADIAN SAVINGS AND LOAN.

Brushes. THOMAS BRYAN, 61 Dundas street. Building and Loan Companies. BIRKBECK LOAN CO., 169 Dundas.

Organs, Pipe. SCRIBNER ORGAN AND MFG. CO. Dyers and Cleaners.

STOCKWELL'S, 259 Dundas street. Drygoods.

ROBINSON, LITTLE & CO., 343 Rich. Hats and Caps. FRASER, McMILLAN & CO., Rich'd.

Fancy Drygoods and Millinery. JOHN C. GREEN & CO., 122 Ridout.

Hardware. HOBBS HARDWARE CO., 339 Rich. JOHN BOWMAN HARDWARE COM-PANY, York street.

Iron, Brass and Wire Works. DENNIS WIRE & IRON CO., King.

Insurance. NORTHERN LIFE, Masonic Temple. Lumber Boxes.

LONDON BOX MFG. & LUMBER CO (Limited). Monument Manufacturers.

LETHBRIDGE BROS., Talbot & Carl

Pork Packers. JOHN PARK, Market House.

Plumbing Supplies.

W. H. HEARD & CO., 357 Richmond. Leather and Shoe Findings. R. F. LACEY & CO., 398 Clarence St.

Tea Importers. MARSHALL BROS. & CO., 67 Dundas.

Wholesale Druggists. JAS. A. KENNEDY & CO., 342 Rich.

Wholesale Grocers.

A. M. SMITH & CO., 176 York street,

ELLIOTT, MARR & CO., 823 Rich.