TWELVE BELOW IN CITY TODAY

The Coldest Morning in More Than a Year.

Fredericton Had It 27 Last Night, Grand Falls 38 and at Blackville the Mercury Went Down to 40.

The below-zero condition which set in on the city early on Monday morning survived the onslaught of a bright blizzard day yesterday, went through the night and faced another sunrise this morning without the silver threads having melted past the cipher. In fact two below was the highest point reached within the last thirty-six hours.

Yesterday's blizzard was beaten this morning, the official temperature being between seven and nine o'clock the mercury was below zero. The absence of the high wind which yesterday whipped the exposed portions of houses compelled to face it, however, made traveling this morning much more pleasant in spite of the lower thermometer.

From yesterday's low point of eight below at 7 a. m., the thermometer slowly rose until late in the afternoon it was two below. Towards nightfall the mercury began to fall again and it dropped continually during the night until the minimum point was reached early this morning—twelve below. This is seven degrees lower than the coldest registered last year, on January 19. At ten o'clock this morning it was still hovering around a dozen degrees below the dipping.

At Fredericton 27.

Fredericton, N. B., Jan. 24.—Not since the winter of 1915 has there been such a night, when the official temperature was twenty-seven below. Many private thermometers showed thirty and thirty-two degrees early this morning, and throughout New Brunswick the cold is the most severe experienced in years.

Blackville, on the Miramichi, reported forty below zero, while on the upper St. John River, Grand Falls, reported thirty-eight degrees below.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 24.—Halifax backed today in a flood of bright sunlight, with the temperature reaching the season's low record of seven below zero at eight o'clock this morning. Cold prevails over the entire province.

Ice-Encrusted Vessel

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 24.—Like a diamond ship flashing myriads of colors in the sun, the beam trawler Lemberg steamed into port this morning from the Banks, a veritable iceberg. Old-time waterfront observers declare that in all their days they "never saw the like."

Tons of frozen storm spray had to be cut off the steamer before her 120,000 pounds of fresh fish could be landed. In a day of running during the offshore gale of last week-end, the Lemberg made only eighty miles.

Moncton, N. B., Jan. 24.—The thermometer registered 19½ degrees below zero in Moncton last night, the coldest of the season.

POLICE COURT

One man, charged with being drunk, pleaded guilty and was remanded.

George Galbraith pleaded not guilty to a charge of having liquor in his possession other than in his private residence. Inspector Henderson told of going to the Empress Hotel with Inspector Killeen and seeing Ernest Friars and the accused at the head of the stairs. While waiting for priors to open the door, he said he saw the accused run into a back room with a pitcher in his hand, and followed him after being obstructed by Friars. He said he saw him rinsing out the pitcher. A strong smell of liquor was noticeable around the pitcher, while two glasses were found on a table near.

These articles were produced in court and identified. Galbraith asked for a postponement to secure counsel, and this was granted until tomorrow at ten o'clock.

Joseph Astell pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a watch from James Woods, but not guilty to a charge of having escaped from the Boys' Industrial Home. Mr. Woods said he had been in his shop yesterday afternoon, and the accused entered to get warm. He left for a few minutes, and when he returned he found the accused had gone, and a gold watch, valued at $85, which was in a vest hanging on the wall, was missing. The prisoner asked for a jury trial.

The preliminary hearing of the case against John Perry and Matthew Friars, charged with the theft of a car, valued at $2,000, from J. A. Pugsley, was commenced this morning. K. J. MacRae appeared for the prosecution, and J. A. Barry for the defence. Mr. Barry said his client wished to change his plea from guilty to not guilty.

Mr. Pugsley said he had left the car in his garage about midnight on January 8. About five or ten minutes later, he said, he heard the car go out of the garage and he notified the police. In the morning it was returned in good condition. The door of the garage was not locked, as a repair man was expected in the morning. The case was postponed until tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock, so that Policeman Dykeman's evidence could be taken.

Pedro Meyteso was again before the magistrate, charged with vagrancy. He said he could get no work and had no place to sleep, so he had come to the station. The magistrate read entries from the police book where he had slept in the station three nights in one week during July and had him sent below.
