

Fans installed in wake of Tory wind gust tragedy

Police announced today that two University of Alberta professors were seriously injured in a freak accident last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Clavey, professors of Geography and Economics respectively, were walking through the courtyard below the Tory Tower last Friday when a freak gust of wind picked them up and blew them across the river. Mr. Clavey landed on the roof of the Valhalla Apartments, 11307 - 99 Ave., Mrs. Clavey ended up wedged between a 1976 Cutlass Supreme and a 1968 Ford Galaxie on the lot of Edmonton Motors at 11445-Jasper Avenue.

Both are reported in good condition at Misericordia Hospital, although their Scottish accents seem to be thickening at an alarming rate.

The problem of wind gusts around Tory are of great concern to many people, and students too. When asked about it, one student replied, "The problem of wind gusts around Tory is of great concern to many people, and even myself."

Just last week, an associate professor of Entomology was picked up by a wind gust beside Tory, and carried through the roof of the Agriculture greenhouse. He credits his survival with the split-leaf rhododendron he landed on.

A study carried out by the University's Office of Planning and Management has shown that over the past five years almost 300 people have been injured by winds around tall buildings here at the University.

They feel the figure would have been much higher if HUB had not fallen over on its side in the early stages of construction.

"If HUB had been completed in its original vertical position, high winds at the base would most certainly have killed many," said the O.P.M. head, Joe Pencilpusher.

What then is the solution to this growing problem? Physical Plant announced yesterday that a $3,500,000 capital works program will be launched in the new year, designed to cut down winds around Tory. Money for other buildings may also be raised.

The plan for Tory calls for the construction of giant fans on top of the Arts, Agriculture, and Housing Union Buildings. These fans will suck in all that excess air blowing around Tory and funnel it into Student Council chambers, where it will be heated and put to good use.

Until such time as this plan can be put into effect, students are advised to exercise caution when approaching the Tory building.

As a final note, the 'Kathleen Clavey Relief Fund', which will attempt to raise funds to send the Claveys to Inverness for recuperation, will be showing "Gone With the Wind" tomorrow in TL-11.

Library student victim of engineering rampage

Joe Mundane, prominent student and a member of the Boring Arts faculty, was pronounced DOA at Misericordia Hospital, after having been found in a hallway at Residence on Saturday morning.

His clothes were soaked with beer, three ounces of hashish had been shoved down his throat, and the words 'Bang on Lulu' had been carved into his chest.

As far as police can determine, Joe left home last Friday night and told his parents he was off to Rutherford Library for a seminar on the Dewey Decimal System. His father's Hillman Helix, Joe's favourite car, was in a service station, so he borrowed his brother's Valiant and set off.

The instructor at the seminar was John Walton, who told police - "I really don't know if he was here or not - in Library Science they all tend to look the same."

As far as they can determine, Joe then met some Engineer friends while heading back to his car. Joe never really liked engineers, feeling that "all that beer must do something to their heads, you know?", and so we can assume he was feeling very nervous.

He had good reason to feel that way - in recent weeks he had been writing numerous letters to the student newspaper, complaining about various rowdys on campus. Prominent in his criticism was his belief that engineers were a bad influence on other students. He felt that "all that beer must do something to their heads, eh?"

Police believe Joe was dragged off to Residence and tortured with excitement. They have determined that 183 separate parties were going on in Res that night, and Joe was forced to attend them all. Numerous Penthouse magazines were spread open near the body, and a blood alcohol count showed his blood to be 85% alcohol.

Cause of death was "one hell of a good time" according to the attending physician, who added "what a way to go".

Further investigation into the case is being hampered by boredom of police officials, who agree that Joe was, without a doubt, the most mundane murder victim ever.

Joe is survived by his father Joe, his mother Bernice, his sister Bernice and his brother Axle.

Joe's parents are married and have three children.

A Tail of Woe

by Pete Feest

A proficient young passer named Reese
Prayed nightly for marital peace
The stadium cheers
And bedroom tears
Were because of his famed quick release

What Kind of Man Reads Archie?

Mike Cranston

From 5:30 to 9 A.M.

The GANDELIER
card & gift

Carved Wood Beer Mugs $3.99

Twin Size India Bedspreads $6.99

Holly Hobbie Salt & Pepper $2.99
Pair

Come in and Browse

9005 - 112 st. ph.433-7615

BRITISH BOOT (EDMONTON 1972) LTD.
FAMOUS ENGLISH BRANDS
McHALE HARTT
"we fit the hard to fit"
NARROW FITTINGS
AND OVER SIZES
WIDTHS AAA TO EEEE
424-9165
10311 Jasper Avenue
Clark's Wallabies and Casuals

UNIVERSITY HOUSE

JOHN

SUE

ROSE

TOM

MARY

50

50. By Labatt's.