

"O mother," said Gracie that night when she was going to bed, "I wish we could go and see Aunt Minnie every day. But I would like father with us, too."

"Perhaps if you are a very good girl," said father, "I will take you all to the country some day soon, for a holiday, and we will stay for a week."

