AN EVENTFUL TRIP OF THE R. & W.

Now Certain Individuals Note Parties Who They Released, as Reported by our Traveling Service.

Now that regular trains are being run on the R. & W., everybody is just trying to try the privilege of carrying their baggage on the train.

On Saturday, when two Farmersville couples started out on a little trip on their own account. The party consisted of a certain young man, assisted by the conductor, the ex-conductor, the porter, the baggage checker, the ticket collector, the baggage jumper who decks himself in purple with blue bows, a curly-headed ex-school master and her petite friend from western Down east.

In this predicament, they were still further embarrassed to find that the entire party had left their "portmanteaux" at home, and that the available combined "spondulix" amounted to but the price of a chew of gum.
