GEO. G. HUTCHESON & CO.
 We want to engage your attention about our Dress Goods Stock. If you have any thought of buying a dress you ought to see it. We are told repeatedly that there is nothing like them in Brockville for style and value. Ladies are good judges, and when they pass judgment it is generally correct. We have all the new makes and styles in Dress Goods, and some lovely new patterns in Challis. We will show the stock with pleasure.
 Our stock of Spring Carpets has all arrived. As usual it is the largest selection you will see in this section, probably twice as large as any other stock. It comprises all grades of Brussels, Tapestry, Wool, Union and Hemp Carpets, also Velvet Carpets, Matting, Carpet Squares with border all around, and Floor Oilcloths. Tapestry Carpets range from 30c. to $1.00 per yard. Brussels Carpets at 85c, 95c, $1.00, $1.10 to $1.25. Borders to match a Brussels Carpet at 85c, 95c, $1.00. Prices guaranteed as low or lower than any other establishment. Also Star Carpets. We guarantee them as represented or money refunded. We solicit the favor of a call of inspection. Carriage and making attended to when desired.

STORE NEWS
 We live in an age that is distinctly progressive. Business is competitive. It is aggressive; it is modern business.
 It used to be that merchants bought as much of anything as they could pay for and held it at a profit until sold. Sometimes it took years to sell what should have changed hands in a month or two. The seasons were ignored and advertising considered as expensive. Things are different to-day. Stocks are cleared at intervals and nothing allowed to grow old. Out they go, and we encourage quick buying by reducing prices for this month.
 To-day we will apply the pruning knife to all kinds of Prints, Sateens and Cotton Challis. This stock must be cut down and prices will be made to suit each and every buyer.

capable and obliging clerk, Mr. M. Leavitt.
 This season Mr. H. C. Phillips placed a handsome little steam yacht on the lake and it is frequently employed by tourists and picnic parties to explore the farther recesses of the lake.
 The lake itself must be seen to be appreciated. Though but seven miles long and only four wide, it has a shore line measuring eighty-six miles, from which no adequate idea may be formed of the great number of bays and inlets that in large part compose it. The metamorphic rock that bounds it on all sides and forms the picturesque shape, from bluff headlands, that echo back the slightest sound, to shelving beaches upon which the breeze of your boat greets as you approach the shore. The foliage that covers shore and islands is dense and varied, adding to the landscape a pleasing variety that satisfies the eye. From many points and islands good looks from the encircling green handsome cottages with grounds wherein Art has aided (if that be possible) Nature in producing a beautiful scene. Many residents of Athens leave some of their summer homes, and so have created these lodges in the wilderness where they may rest from their labors.
 The lake is very deep, and contains no marshes. There are, however, what the fishermen term "deep wood-beds," and it is while anchored on one of these that the majority of fish are taken with the rod and line. Many residents of Athens have given up the idea of angling and have turned to the more certain method of catching bass, and lure their finny favorites with a fly cast ahead of the boat while being rowed slowly along the shore. A good idea of the sport to be had may be formed from a consideration of the kinds of fish to be found in the lake, and here give a partial list: Salmon, trout bass, white fish, pike, Oswego bass, rock bass, moon fish, perch, etc. The fish are found in the lower part of the lake, and are most numerous in the lower part of the lake. They are found in the lower part of the lake, and are most numerous in the lower part of the lake.
Death of Henry Lee.
 Died at Lyn, July 27th, 1892, Henry Lee, in the sixty-fifth year of his age.
 The above cut will be recognized by almost any of our readers, as Mr. Lee was one of the most widely known and respected residents of these counties.
 One of a large family, consisting of thirteen sons and one daughter, on the death of his father, Gordon Lee, he started out at 18 years of age, in the battle of life with little but health, energy and integrity. Gradually he purchased piece by piece from other heirs until at his death he was owner of the homestead upon which he was born.
 In addition to carrying on his farm, he, in former years, did a large business in horses and other stock, principally for the American market. The writer has heard him remark that he had been over every road and visited nearly every farm house in the county. Being of a genial, social disposition, his companionship was highly prized, and a party on a hunting or fishing excursion was not quite complete unless he was one of the number.
 Being a successful farmer, he took great interest in the annual exhibition of the agricultural society, and had been a member of the board of directors almost continuously since the establishment of the fair at Unionville.
 When it became known on Monday last that he was dangerously ill, much anxiety was visible, and his death on Wednesday cast a gloom over the village.
 Owing to the nature of the disease, it was found impossible to delay the funeral, which took place on Thursday at 2:30 and was largely attended, although owing to shortness of time a large number of friends could not be notified.
 He leaves a widow, three sons and three daughters, besides three orphan grand children, to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father.
 His Funeral Address.
 Rev. George Burns, once pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Brockville, but lately residing in Toronto, has just resigned his charge of the Southside Presbyterian Church of that city.
 He preached his funeral sermon on Sunday and created quite a sensation by some of his remarks. There was a fair turnout and a number of Orangemen in regalia were sprinkled among the audience.
 His discourse was based on the words: "The Kingdom of God is within." He said the Kingdom of God was free as the atmosphere surrounding the globe and open to all creeds. "As far as I am concerned," added the preacher, "I shall never preach the doctrine that anyone is excluded from Heaven. I sometimes think that one of the greatest surprises to me will be to find myself there." Then, leaning over the desk there, and pointing his finger towards his congregation, he, in measured tones added, "but a still greater wonder to me when I get to Heaven will be to find some of you there" (Sensation.) "I believe that some people in this house are offended because I did not tell them where I was going. I am going to the Dominion Government, and a Scotchman is allowed to keep to himself three times as much as anybody else. (Laughter.) But let me say right here that it is nobody's business where I go. A congregation has no right to ask for details from its pastor. I tell you this not for my own sake, but for the advantage of him who may follow me, so that you may know what to expect from him when he leaves you." (Laughter.)
 Addressing himself to the Orangemen he earned loud and repeated applause when he thanked them for the kindness they had shown him, and pledged himself faithfully to the principles of the order. "Some of the members of this congregation don't like me because I am an Orangeman," delivered amid hand-clapping and foot-stamping.—Ex.
 Messrs. Tuckett & Son are often asked to sell their "Myrtle Navy" tobacco to retail dealers. They never do so, and for the best reasons. The wholesale trade of the country have a distributing machinery which handles the "Myrtle Navy" without any addition to its permanent expense. If the manufacturer were to sell by the retail trade, it would require an independent man to undertake that work, as they would be selling to the retail trade, which would have to be borne by the producer of the tobacco sales, and of course it would fall upon the consumer. Selling to the wholesale trade is, therefore, for the consumer's benefit, and is a convenience to the retail trade, because every traveller who calls in the grocery line—can take orders for "Myrtle Navy."

of the lake, though somewhat out of the beaten track for tourist traveling, quite easy of access. A traveler leaving Brockville would take the afternoon train on the P. & W. and reach Athens about 5 o'clock after a ride of an hour and a quarter through a fine scenic landscape. Here he would be met by a comfortable bus and driven rapidly to the lake, four miles distant. Approaching the lake, there is nothing to suggest its presence until the traveler gets quite near his destination, when from the top of a high elevation the lake comes full in view, stretching away to left and right, so many islands dotting its surface that the lake appears to consist only of narrow water-ways between them. A dash down the long, steep hill and the shore of the lake is reached.
 If you have a choice of "two excellent hotels." The first, "Harbor View" (Edward Duffield, proprietor) was the sole and only anglers' inn of other days. About three years ago increasing trade necessitated an enlargement of the premises and Mr. Duffield modernized the old building and added to it until now Harbor View has accommodations for thirty guests and was well filled on the occasion of our visit last week. The best evidence of the popularity of the house is found in the fact that guests are found returning to it with each recurring season.
 The protection of the fish from pirates is looked after by Wm. Hicks, for the Dominion Government, and by Justus Smith for the Ontario. In addition, an efficient Anglers' Association of which Mr. W. G. Parish, Parish, Athens, is president and Mr. M. A. Everett, Athens, secretary, maintains a general superintendency of the lake and attends (with the inspectors) to re-stocking it from the government hatchery.
 A meeting of the board of directors of Unionville was held at Fort-Hicks on Wednesday last week. Present: Messrs. Beecher, Saunders, Nelson, Fort, Loverin and treasurer and secretary. Judges were appointed for the various classes, and Messrs. D. J. Fort, Thos. Barney and Frank Clow were appointed a committee on sports. All preliminaries for the fair on the 13th, 14th and 15th of next month are now completed. Hangers and posters will make more particular announcements in about two weeks.

"Cedar Park" hotel (a cut of which illustrates this paper) is very appropriately named, as it is situated in the midst of a beautiful grove of cedars, which stand separate or in groups, with grassy lawn extending between, their dense foliage of darkest green ever pleasing to the eye, while the ozone added to the breeze by their evergreen branches is at all times refreshing. The house was erected by Mr. Adam Armstrong, president of the accommodation of summer visitors, and it fills the bill most admirably. All the rooms on the second and third floors are large and well furnished, and the spacious dining, sitting and reading rooms meet with favorable appreciation from the wealthy and retired visitors who for a few weeks each season make Cedar Park their home. The house is under the popular management of Mr. Harry Johnson, who has a very
