KEEP THE BALANCE UP. It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. No-body can be too careful to keep the balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sick-ness, weakness, or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it en-joys as a cure. RESIDENTS OF MAPLE CIT

Right Royally was the Day Observed in Town and out -Splendid Sports -Tre Popular Summer Resort at Rondeau.

Maple City residents celebrated the | vice president and Dr. J. L. Bray, pre oliday yesterday in many different ways. Amusements were plentiful in the city, there being lacrosse baseball, cricket and bowling games on the park but sti,ll Windsor too ka goodly crowd from here. Many went down on the boat and spent a very rough 13. day, the lake being very wild and weather cold. Some visited the Eau to try their luck at fishing and fix up

Two baseball teams from the city visited outside points, the C. M. C.'s team going to Wallaceburg and meeting defeat by a score of 7 to 6, and the C. C. I. team going to Ridgetown, where it met defeat at the hands of a crack pitcher, Depew, of Walkerville, by a score of 10-8.

The boys say that they had the game won up to the seventh when some loose fielding was done by the outfield. Joe Roberts, for Chatham, pitched an elegant game, and deserved to win.

LACROSSE.

The first lacrosse game of the season was played on Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon, between Thamesville and Chatham, the result being a complete victory for the home team. There is no doubt that lacrosse is the favorite game in Chatham, judging from the large crowd waich was in attendance at yesterday's game. One interesting feature of the game was the fact that a large number of ladies were present and joined enthusiastically in the applause which was given to a 54 runs. number of the players.

The game as a whole, was a good one, and the Thamesville boys have no reason whatever to feel discouraged at their defeat, They played good clean lacross but were a little unfortunate at times. One drawback, which was in. vidence on both sides was the difficulty experienced by the players in picking up the ball. A number of good chances of scoring were lost through this defect. The game was fairly free from slugging and foul playing, and any injury received by any of the players were purely through accident. It was a friendly game all through. noticeable defect in the Thames ville team was their utter lack of ombination work. They seemed to still have the old idea of throwing the ball from one end of the field to the other. The Chatham team were a little better in this respect, but here is much room for improvement. This, however, is only the first 'game and teams will no doubt be in better shape before the season is over. At the end of the game the score stood 5-1 for Chatham. The home team scored twoother goals which were protested by the Thamesville players. The protest

SOURCES OF KNOWLEDGE.

One of the most useful success habits one can form is that of learning some thing from everybody with whom he comes in contact. No information which can be acquired is too trivial to be ig-

Constantly measure yourself with the men you meet. You will find that every one can teach you something which you did not know before and which, perhaps, you would never have a chance to learn again if you did not acquire it

Daniel Webster once made a great hit in arguing a case before a jury by repeating a story which he afterward said he had not thought of since he beard it fourteen years before. But Webster was always picking up something for future use. His famous reply to Hayne, the greatest speech ever delivered on the American continent, was largely made up of little reserves which he had picked up here and there in his reading, from studying men and from

Many a prominent novelist has collected material for his stories by making notes of his conversations with those he has met and by observation. Charles Dickens got a great deal of the matter for some of his novels in this

One young man will go to a lecture and after spending an hour listening to the helpful, inspiring words of some prominent man will leave the hall or lecture room without having derived any benefit from the address. Another young man will attend the same lecture with an ambition to learn something. He will drink in the speaker's sentences as if he were never to hear such words of encouragement and inspiration again. At the conclusion of the address he will determine that he will make more of his opportunities in the future; that he will read more, think more, study more, be more than he ever was before. Such a young man has a purpose and is determined to learn something from everything he comes in contact with and from everybody he talks to. The other has no ambition, does not throw himself into what he does, lets his mind wander hither and thither, so that be never wholly understands what people are saying and therefore never derives any benefit or information from those with whom he converses.

Theology as He Understood It, Passengers in an uptown car one afternoon last week were very much entertained and amused by a discussion of things spiritual by two colored passengers. As the debate waxed warmer the voices of the debaters grew louder until what was said was plainly audible to all in the car. After each had made a confession of faith and given his views of the means whereby mortal men could gain salvation one of the pair blurted out in a tone that implied that all his hope for the next world was embodied in the words:

"Well, sah, I b'Heve dat what's gwine to be is sho'ly gwine to be." "Huh." grunted his companion con-temptuously, "den yo' b'lleves in pre-meditashun."

The Officer and the Sentry.

In one of our largest garrisons week or two ago a young officer was showing the sights to some of his admiring friends. They came across a sentry, and the youngster saw a capital opportunity of displaying his knowledge. "A sentry," explained he, must on no account surrender his arms, but I'll bet I get this one do it, and you see what a funk he will be in when I tell him what he has den." Stepping up to the man, he asked him to let him have a look at his bayonet for a moment, and unsuspectingly the soldier handed over the weapon. "Now, do you know what you have done?" exclaimed the "You are completely in my hands, and I can give you over to a court-martial at once for having given up your arms." "Oh, I'm in your hands, am I?" said the soldier, letting fly with his fist he sent the young man sprawling. "Now you're in mine," said he, as he picked up his bayonet. And so the officer was. He is now his humble servant,
