THE AKOUND OF SWAT

HE CALLED FOR THE MOON, BUT IT DID NOT COME DOWN.

An Experiment Which Opened His Eyes to the Difference Between the Theory and the Practice of Things and Incidentally Shortened His Grand Secretary.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

One day, as the akound of Swat had returned from a trip around town, during which thousands of his subjects had knelt to do him homage, he called for his grand secretary and said:

"Remshen, I'm a good deal of a feller, ain't I?"

"You are, O heaven-born!" was the reply.

"Would you call me the biggest thing on earth?"

"Truly, but you are."

"While I'm around on this earth there can be no other boss, eh, Remshen?"

"All other things are but a fly on a bull wheel compared to your extra highness."

"But how about the heavens, Remshen?" continued the akound after chuckling his satisfaction. "I am satisfied that I boss the earth, even to the mountains and rivers thereof, but I'm not exactly clear as to the sun, moon and stars. Don't they come under my rule as well?"

"Do not remember, O mighty ruler, that your title is Akound the Mighty."

CRIED OUT FOR THE MOON TO TAKE A DROP, boss of the earth and owner of all the planets above. Your humble slave assures you that the sun, moon and every star will hustle to do your bidding."

"Thanks, Remshen. I must be a daisy for sure. Not being clear on the subject, I haven't given much attention to celestial matters, but now I think I'll give them a whirl. If a feller is going to be boss at all, he might as well be a boss on wheels."

"Can a slave forget his master's words?" asked Remshen as he lifted his hands in protest.

"I've been thinking. I'm a heap of a feller, and you know it, and I know it, but there may be a man or two on the outside who differs with us. I want to do something big to knock 'em all out."

"Will it please thee to behold a thousand men?"

"Well, yes, it would, but as it is just about tax time we'd better leave their heads on their shoulders until they have paid in the sugar. I think I'll go for the moon, Remshen. She'll be full tonight, and I'll order her to come down to earth."

"But, O ruler, she might be damaged in the fall," protested Remshen, beginning to quake with fear.

"I'll look out for that. We'll spread a feather bed for her to light on. Just issue a proclamation for the people to gather on the east side of my palace at 10 o'clock tonight."

"The moon, O ruler, is sometimes obstinate," suggested Remshen as he felt a pain. "She has even been known to disobey mighty potentates."

"But she'll tumble for me, or I'll know the reason why. Is it not in my title that I am owner of all the planets above? Get along, old boy, and issue that proclamation. When my subjects discover that I can wallop old Luna around at will, there'll be no more kicking about high taxes."

Old Remshen was boxed up and couldn't say another word. He went away and issued his proclamation and then beseeched the grave of his father, the bones of his mother and his lucky stars to send a dark night to knock the experiment on the head. He was looking bilious when night came and the old York state cheese arose in all her glory. Everybody in town was out, and the odds were five to one that the akound would win. At the hour named he appeared on the steps of his palace and lifted his hands and cried out for the moon to take a drop. It was a dead failure. He cried out again and again, but the moon continued her gait.

"Remshen," said the boss of earth when he realized that he was knocked out, "dismiss the populace and come with me."

The populace went away with their tongues in their cheeks, and when the akound had reached his library he said:

"How is this, Remshen? Why didn't the moon come down?"

"O ruler," replied the old sycophant as his heart tunked his ribs, "there is a difference between theory and fact."

"I see. Theoretically I am owner of the planets. Practically I am an ass. I ought to have got on to this, but being so busy I never occurred to me. Remshen, old boy, come out in the back yard with me."

"O mighty ruler, but what would you?"

"I'm going to give another illustration of theory versus fact. Theoretically you are my grand secretary and one of the most eminent men in the kingdom. As a matter of fact you are a head shorter, and your bones will go to enrich my gooseberry bushes!"

DOG AND PUPPY CRATES.

Made For the Convenient Transportation of These Animals.

The dog that is shipped by express is likely to travel in these days not only in safety, but also in comfort. There are various kinds of dog crates made especially for such use, some of them flat topped and some of those of later design gable topped and some oval topped, so that nothing can be placed on top of them. Dog crates are made in various sizes as well as styles, some with open, slatted sides and ends, some closed all around, except for the open spaces left for ventilation. Crates for bulldogs and dogs that gnaw are made with slats that, whether separated or set close together, are iron bound, so that the dogs can't set their teeth in the edges.

The dog crate is provided with a cup for water which is so constructed that the water can't spill out of it, and this cup is secured in the crate under the end of a pipe to which there is an opening in the top of the crate through which the dog can be kept supplied without opening the crate at all. Attached to the front of the crate is the dog's buffet, like a long canvas wallet or envelope, in which the dog's food is carried. The dog crate has at the ends handles by which it can be picked up and carried as a trunk would be.

Besides these various sizes and styles of dog crates there are also made in various sizes smaller, lighter crates for puppies, and crates of one sort and another of special sizes are made to order.

First and last there are sold a good many dog and puppy crates, and they are regular articles of stock where dog supplies are sold.

THE ETHICS OF GAMBLING.

She Knew It Was Not Right to Bet on a Certainty.

"Woman," remarked Mr. Gosnell of Georgetown, "is heaven's best gift to man, but whether it means a married woman or not I am not certain. Now, there's my wife. I've known a good many women in my time, and I don't think I'd be willing to change her for any woman I ever met, saw or heard of. We've been married 20 years, and in all that time we've never had a cross word that we didn't get disposed of somehow before we had many more."

"It's the only way to get along with a woman. I'd rather yield a dozen times a day than eat the kind of meal my wife can have brought on the table when she's a mind to. I'm willing to make as many concessions as the next man, but I really think there is a limit that any reasonable woman ought to observe. Not that my wife is not as reasonable as any other married woman, mind you, for she is. But for the time when she makes me doubt the strict accuracy of the time honored maxim I have quoted. Now, for instance, the other day I was doing something or other around the house, like a man has a right to do on his own premises, and, just as men sometimes do, I put my finger where I had no business to put it and hit it a lick with the hammer."

"Well," said I to myself, though my wife was sewing by the window on the other side of the room, "I'll bet I'm the biggest darn fool in ten states."

"All of which I had a perfect right to say, but my wife looks up from her work, and says she—"

"William, don't you know enough about the ethics of gambling to bet on a certainty?"

"That's what she said, and under the circumstances what on earth could I say but nothing, and that's what I said. But I hit that nail a lick with the hammer that drove it clear in over its head and broke a pane of glass that cost a dollar to replace."

Tea and Lunacy.

A curious side light on the question of lunacy is contained in the report of the Scotch local government board. On the north side of the Tweed, as on the south, lunacy is increasing in a rather alarming degree, especially among women, and several of the inspectors attribute it to intemperance in the evening.

"Too frequently young children are fed on 'tea and bread' to avoid the trouble of preparing porridge for them, with the result that they grow up anemic and nervous, with intellectual faculties easily thrown off their balance. I have in a previous report stated my firm conviction that excessive tea drinking by women accounts largely for the number of puerile lunatics. Further inquiries into this subject tend to confirm this theory. Several inspectors have assured me that they attribute several cases of lunacy in their parishes entirely to this cause."

Dr. Goodfellow, in a lecture on tea and tea drinking, spoke as follows: "Tea drinking when carried to excess may also produce (in addition to dyspepsia) in those who are predisposed to nervous complaints palpitation of the heart, hyperexcitability, sleeplessness and nervousness. When these stages are reached by a poorly nourished, confirmed tea drinker, the boundary line of insanity is easily crossed."—London Telegraph.

THE FOUR D'S.

Charles Spurgeon once said that there were 3 great enemies to man —"dirt, debt and the devil." He might have added one more and included dyspepsia. The evil results of this disease are too many to be enumerated. It affects the life in mind and body, and as far reaching as the effects of the curse that was laid on the serpent in Eden. It is the cause of "eating and drinking and sleeping, in standing and sitting and lying." The good effects of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are most pronounced in dyspepsia, the chronic cases of dyspepsia. It enables the stomach glands to secrete the necessary quantity of digestive fluids, and to form a sensation so common to certain forms of indigestion. It tones and regulates the stomach, invigorates the liver, and makes the blood-making glands keen assimilative power. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures ninety-eight per cent. of those who are afflicted by the disease. It is superior to all other laxative medicines when the bowels are obstructed.

Until by Heaven's sweetest influences. Slowly and slowly spreads a speck of green. Into a pleasant island in the seas. Where, mid all palms, the canebranded home is seen. And wearied men still sit at sunset hour. Hearing the leaves and loving God's dear power." —James Russell Lowell.

WILL ERECT STATUE.

Winnipeg, Jan. 31.—At a public meeting held last night in the City Hall it was decided to erect a statue to the memory of Queen Victoria. The Premier and the Attorney-General were present, and promised to aid the memorial both personally and with Government help. It is probable that the Government will contribute the major portion of the cost. The city will also liberally assist, and the rural municipalities, some ninety in number, will be asked, and will no doubt cheerfully subscribe largely to the fund. Many private subscriptions of generous proportions have also been secured.

THE ROOT OF THE MATTER.

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomach Trouble Down to First Principles.

A man of large affairs in one of our prominent eastern cities by too close attention to business, too little exercise and too many club dinners, finally began to pay nature's tax, levied in the form of stomach trouble; the failure of his digestion brought about a nervous irritability, making it impossible to apply himself to his daily business and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "I consulted one physician after another and each one seemed to understand my case, but all the same they each failed to bring about the return of my former digestion, appetite and vigor. For two years I went from pillar to post from one sanitarium to another, I gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass or two of beer, but without any marked improvement."

"Friends had often advised me to try a well-known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I had often perused the newspaper advertisements of the same, but never took any stock in advertised medicines nor could believe a fifty-cent patent medicine would touch my case."

"To make a long story short, I finally bought a couple of packages at the nearest drug store and took two or three tablets after each meal and occasionally a tablet between meals, when I felt any feeling of nausea or discomfort."

"I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improvement in my appetite and general health and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets were going to cure completely and they did not disappoint me. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and cigar, and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors of dyspepsia."

"Out of friendly curiosity, I wrote to the proprietors of the remedy asking for information as to what the tablets contained, and they replied that the principal ingredients were aseptic pepsin (government test) malt diastase and other natural digestives which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach."

"The root of the matter is this: The digestive elements contained in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the nervous and whole system recovers the normal condition which can only come from food; stimulants and nerve tonics never give real strength, they give a fictitious strength, invariably followed by reaction. Every drop of blood, every nerve and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good and wholesome a remedy as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums."

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years, yet probably every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them and considers them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach troubles."
