

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., SEPT. 6, 1918
Editorial Brevities.

Mr. Frank Veigh, organizing secretary for the Canada War Lectures Bureau, spent a short time in Wolfville on Wednesday evening at a meeting with the Council and citizens. Mr. Veigh came by motor from Windsor, where he had been in the furtherance of his duties, and went on the same evening to Kentville to have a similar meeting. He gave a short address before the Council meeting, describing the work that is being carried on throughout Canada and asked that a local organization be formed in Wolfville. The Bureau furnishes well-written material for addresses on the different phases of the war operation, and aims to secure in every community a number of speakers who will undertake to carry out its program when and where it is possible to get a company of people together. The object is to direct public attention along the best lines, to preserve and encourage the morale of the people during and after the war, and generally to carry on a propaganda of information and instruction. A number of these present made reference to the work, expressing their appreciation and a desire to assist. A committee composed of Mayor Hales, Dr. W. L. Archibald and B. O. Davidson was appointed as a nucleus for what is hoped will be an efficient and active organization in Wolfville for the carrying on of the most important work.

Canada Food Board Says.

For ignoring the regulation which calls for a reckoning for bad eggs purchased from producers or country dealers, over and above an allowance of one percent, the William Davies Company and the Mathews-Blackwell Company, both of Montreal, have been forbidden to buy, sell or otherwise deal in eggs for 30 days. According to the regulations in force since June 1st, every dealer placing eggs for sale is required to furnish to the operator of the warehouse, a statement in writing certifying that such eggs have been candied and that bad or unsound eggs have been removed. No licensee of the Canada Food Board is permitted to pay, or demand payment for bad eggs in excess of an allowed margin of one percent on total amount of the transaction. The object of the Canada Food Board was to make the handling of such eggs unprofitable for the dealer, who is now obliged to charge them back against those from whom they are originally purchased. In the case of the two companies under suspension, it was found that no attempt had been made to charge back for unsound eggs. The records showed percentages ranging as high as fourteen. A firm in Charlottetown has been disciplined in the same way for a similar offence. It was manifestly nothing but fair that the public should not be called upon to pay for bad eggs. If a dealer purchases bad eggs and pays for them the least trouble for him would be to say nothing about it after finding the fact out by candling, but pass the eggs on into the channels of trade where the consumer would eventually pay for the loss. Everybody else who handled the eggs from the producer to the retail storekeepers would thus have charged their profits and expenses just the same. By the order of the Canada Food Board it is provided that bad eggs be reported and charged to their source of origin so that the loss is borne by the parties responsible for their delay in reaching the market fresh. In these times of high prices for eggs and every other food commodity, the consumer is doubly entitled to fresh eggs bought in good faith in the regular way. Producers should be careful of the stock they sell and dealers should be watchful of the stock they buy.

Baby's Great Danger During Hot Weather.

More little ones die during the summer months than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera infantum and stomach disorders, come without warning and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the child may frequently pass beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home, where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. Mrs. Chas. Anderson, Miss A. A. says: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine for little ones who are suffering from stomach troubles. They cured my baby and have made her a fine healthy girl." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

R. B. BLAUVELT'S DESCRIPTION OF THE DAY HE WAS WOUNDED AT PASCHENDALE—OCTOBER 10th, 1917.

The men, who away back home, sit in their office chairs and write such wonderful words of wisdom regarding the glories of war and the rest of it, are away of the track. We read them and say 'some of them guys can take our places—they're welcome to the glory.'

When, just before going over the top, one looks around and sees men with white faces and staring eyes, muttering prayers, or others, their faces some the least white and drawn, trying to laugh and bluff it out, while another, perhaps beside the praying Roman with his rosary, is cursing horribly at the delay—and you yourself with a face like chalk, your heart in your boots and covered with a cold sweat, sit there with a thousand thoughts chasing each other through a brain that never was so alert before in your life—then you cannot really see much glory in it. But even you go just the same. Some will encourage, but I prefer to call it pride, that queer inward force that says, 'I know you're yellow old boy, but for the love of Mike don't let anyone else know it', and takes you over in spite of the instinct of self preservation.

Once over, the air is literally thick with every projectile known to the evil ingenuity of man—a shell stuns you with concussion and covers you with mud—a bullet, no a dozen of them rip holes in your equipment—even in your joints but on you go in a wild white hot rage, with the primal lust for blood in full possession but tempered by the mental cunning of a 20th century training—your one object to reach that grey line that is hurrying death your way. Comrades fall but you must go on—some lie so still, others writhe in horrible torment unable to die and on you go, the snarl of a beast on your face cursing like a fiend, or as I think I was till I reached the German line—too mad to say anything but content with your own whimpering and the dying figures—and have the satisfaction of getting a couple of more. Then suddenly the earth gets an awful jolt and you're lit again. Its time to quit and get back to a dressing station, unless you're unable to move.

If this descent to the savagery of your prehistoric ancestors, this orgy of death—the exultant joy in facing death and killing in the glory of war—then it is a disgrace to civilization and should never be spoken of, much less written of, in glowing words of adulation.

Then if you can't walk—you crawl back, perhaps for nine hours and a half, as I did, with that hell of machine gun bullets and big shells harassing a bit—wounded, helpless, weak, nervous, expecting any moment to be killed after all—and worst of all I had had both gas masks shot to pieces and was expecting gas over at any moment. It did come, but fortunately it had thinned out too much to choke much. If a day spent crawling through mud and water, in cold rain, all shot up and nearly done, is glory then bang the glory.

Strange that the one touch of civilization of that whole day of horror, was a German Red Cross man—a prisoner making his way back to our lines. I saw him coming and thought I was done—but I crawled for a rifle and had him covered when I noticed his Cross. He was as welcome as the flowers in May, though I'll admit that I kept that bayonet handy. But talk about skill—they're wasters. He had me bandaged and the blood stopped in a minute. Then I bandaged his arm up under his direction and on we went. That was a Pflz and the old fellow was pretty decent.

But the way Pflz shelled the Red Cross Play and Dressing Stations that day, even using gas shells on them, shows how much they respect the Red Cross sign.

Taken altogether it was a day of horror. Wounded about 6 a. m., I didn't get to the Clearing Station for my operation till 5 p. m., and all this time crawling half crazy with pain and fear across a stricken battlefield, strewn with bodies of comrades and enemy and swept with a merciless storm of bullets and high explosives. We were covered with mud and wet clothes. I got there though and that ether cone was one of the best things I ever saw—about two breathes and I was away, and I stayed away till nearly noon the next day, Wednesday, and I had the first food or drink since Monday night. After a couple of days went on down to the Base to No. 7 Gen. Hospital, was the only Canadian in the ward and had some time. As soon as I was fit to move (ten days) I got marked for England and over I came.

Announcing that to date more than 750,000 American soldiers have embarked for foreign shores. General March, chief of staff, reiterated today his firm belief that the presence of 4,000 troops of the United States in France next summer would enable us to adopt for the defeat of Germany at the end of the war. Such a situation, General March said, would be founded upon cold-blooded logic of the respective masspower of the allies and of the enemy in 1919, and are not based as would be expected on statistics.

Miss Florence and Isobel Davidson who have been spending the summer at their home here, left on Friday last for Middleton as route for New England. The latter will resume her position as English teacher in the Beverly, Mass. schools, and the former will go to New Hampshire to visit her brother, Rev. H. S. Davidson, at Lisbon.
