

First Mary Pickford Film
by Own Company Adaptation of Greatest Human Story

"Daddy Long Legs," in which Mary Pickford has the most appealing role of her career, and which will be presented at the Opera House, April 16-17, is one of the most celebrated stories of the past decade. It first appeared in the Ladies' Home Journal, where it was hailed as the most humanly interesting serial in the history of that publication.

It soon followed in book form and was read in every city of the English speaking world. One million copies were sold, so that Jean Webster, a young woman not long out of college, made a fortune from this single work. Of course the stage claimed it, and under Klaw and Erlanger management it "cleaned up," making hundreds of thousands of dollars for the producers.

The part of Judy Abbott, the orphan girl, is one exactly suited to Mary Pickford. For a long time Miss Pickford has been anticipating the part, for it was inevitable that she should play it once the theatrical producers were willing to turn over film rights. These Miss Pickford purchased recently for $40,000.

Now on the screen, "Daddy Long Legs," will be seen by more people than ever. The millions who read the book, or saw the play will see it on the screen, too, for none of them ever have forgotten this appealing story which comes like a ray of sunshine into the troubles of everyday life.

Marshall Neilan, one of the new wonders of the motion picture world, who is known as "The Mark Twain of the Screen," not only directed the picture which foretells its humorous merits, but acts a part in it. Two score of kiddies aid Miss Pickford in the scenes at the John Grier Orphanage, which takes up the first half of the picture.
