NEW SETTLERS IN CANADA

The Arrivals During August Totalled Over 25,000.

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—The August immigration returns issued today by Hon. J. A. Robb, the new Minister of Immigration, shows an increase of not less than 281 per cent. in Canada's total immigration for the month as compared with the August of last year. Arrivals for last month totalled 25,249 as compared with only 6,828 in August of last year. Of the total of 25,249 new citizens arriving at Canadian ports last month, 15,970 came from the British Isles, 2,692 from the United States and 6,587 from other countries.

It may be noted that the British arrivals include only those harvesters who on entry signified their intention of becoming permanent residents. There were 12,000 of these harvesters arrived, but several thousands are not counted in the month's total of new immigrants since on entry at Quebec they did not signify definitely that they intended to stay permanently.

For the first five months of the present fiscal year, the total immigration has been 80,161 as compared with 30,447 for the corresponding period of last year, an increase of 163 per cent. The total immigration from Great Britain so far this year is 45,563; an increase of 142 per cent. over last year. Immigration from the United States has totalled 10,913 as compared with 13,008 last year a decrease of 16 per cent. Immigration from other countries has totalled 23,665 as compared with 7,436 last year, an increase of 210 per cent.

SPREADING GOSPEL OF CO-OPERATION

The success of the co-operative movement among farmers has been rightly recognized by the Department of Agriculture as one of the most important developments in American agricultural life. Already there are a million or more farmers who have joined co-operative organizations, and although this number forms but a small proportion of the farming population, it is significant of the spread of the co-operative movement. The dairy farmers lead the way, as is natural in view of their occupation, having a membership of over 112,000. One milk producers' association alone, the Dairyman's Co-operative Sales Company of Ohio, has a membership of 11,000, and during the year ending April, 1923, sold 311,700,000 pounds of milk. The tobacco growers have also formed large associations, two of which have in the neighborhood of 90,000 members each, and annually market millions of tons of tobacco.

But perhaps the most interesting thing about the co-operative movement is the extent to which agricultural co-operation is being taught in the colleges. Eleven agricultural colleges and eight State universities are now giving one or more courses in co-operation, and there is every prospect of an increasing number in the near future. These are devoted primarily to the principles of co-operative organization and theory, together with instruction in management and marketing. Accounting, purchasing and credit also come in for their share of attention, so that the student may learn about all branches of co-operative work before taking part in the organization or direction of some group. Fifty-nine other colleges and universities give instruction in co-operation in other courses, devoted, as a rule, to farm economics or management.

In this type of instruction there is much hope for the future. Co-operative organizations can be of great help to the farmers, not only in the disposing of their products but in improving the methods of cultivation. One of the troubles of the past has been an ignorance on the part of the farmer of the produce most likely to be in demand. This has led to much overplanting, and to a form of specialization which in the fat years has been very profitable but in the lean years, has invited disaster. Experience has amply demonstrated the wastefulness, and futility of such a system. Only too often it has led to a demand by the farmers for wilder legislation by Congress to protect them, whereas, what they really needed was greater co-operation among themselves.

The plans of the newly organized Michigan Fruit Growers' Association indicate the type of service which co-operative

The importance of Vitamines in food is being recognized at the present time to a greater extent than ever before. It has been conclusively demonstrated that yeast is rich in this all important element. Many people have received great benefit physically simply by taking one, two or three Royal Yeast Cakes a day. organizations seek to render. This association lists seven major purposes: To develop an efficient system of selling and distributing fruit; to collect and disseminate information on crop and market conditions; to investigate the demand for fruit and adjust claims on shipments; to establish uniform grades and standards; to strive to increase consumption by advertising; to assist in establishing warehouses and packing plants, and to foster ways and means for the utilization through by-products of waste and surplus fruit.

It is obvious to the uninitiated that such a program, if carried out, would be very helpful to Michigan fruit growers. As a matter of fact, the co-operation principle, when properly applied ought to do much to clear up the "mystery" of the gap between the farmer's price and the consumer's price, which has so sorely puzzled not only the redoubtable Magnus Johnson, but many farmers and students of economics everywhere.

BRITISH TARS TOAST "KING" WITH WATER.

British officers are responsible for their navy's going dry and the transition cannot be attributed to religious or ethical propaganda, according to Rear Admiral Anstey, R. N., retired, for many years an attaché of the Admiralty in London, who is now in New York on a visit. "It was very different when I first became an officer," declared the retired admiral, "for in those days there was heavy drinking. Today the change would surprise one. At the last dinner I attended on one of His Majesty's ships which I had the honor to serve, of all the officers who drank the King's toast only two took port wine. The others voluntarily drank water."

There is much less drinking in the navy among the sailors because of temperance pledges and educational work along those lines. We are coming to regard the drink evil in Scotland as something that can best be met by cutting down the hours in which public houses shall operate. It is generally recognized that liquor consumption is deleterious to health. Henry reached the North Pole and Amundsen discovered the South Pole using the same beverage. Abstinence is invoked by participants in sports. Why not in the every day battle in life?

WHY I AM A CHURCH MEMBER

Because if nobody belonged to the Church, there would be no Church; and if the Church left town, I would have to leave on the next train.

Because I share the blessings and privileges of the Church, I want to be square enough to have a part in its work.

Because, as the greatest organized force for righteousness in the world, it offers me a better chance for the real service of humanity than the world over than any other institution.

Because, while I may not agree with all its ideals of theology, I do believe in its ideals of life.

Because, while it may be abstractly possible to live a Christian life outside the Church, I know that about ninety-nine out of every hundred Christians are members of the Church. I'll take my chances with the ninety-nine rather than with the lone one.

CANADA'S POPULATION OVER NINE MILLION.

OTTAWA, Sept. 28.—Canada's population at the end of June this year was 9,146,457, as compared with 8,966,834 at the same time in 1922, or an increase of 179,623. The rate of increase remains also as constant as the increase last year over the previous year was 178,351 and the increase in June 1921, the decennial census year was 156,905 over that of 1920.

At the present rate of growth the population of the Dominion will in 1925 be far past the 10,000,000 mark, and in 1930 will be near 12,000,000.

The total apple crop in the United States for the current year, as forecast by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, is estimated at 33,068,000 barrels as compared with 30,955,000 barrels in 1922.

If you are going to err either way it is better to err by being too cautious.

LOOKING OUT FOR TO-MORROW'S INCOME

It gives us a feeling of comfort to point to our forest resources stretching in an almost unbroken chain of wealth from Atlantic to Pacific and to say: "This is where Canada is top dog. Here we lead the world. These trees are the basis of our greatest industry. Here is unlimited wealth for generations to come."

Probably there was a time when people in the United States thought the same thing about the forests of that country. To-day the forests are almost gone; saw mills and pulp mills are idle with their machinery scrapped and towns built on the edge of once virgin forests are deserted villages. It is the duty of every Canadian who is a business man, investor, a home-owner or a tax-payer—and this includes nearly everybody in one way or another—to see that nothing of the kind happens in this country.

Two great industries in Canada are in danger of losing their supplies or raw materials—the lumbering industry and the pulp and paper industry. Forest fires and insects are wasting away our forest assets and little is done by the provincial governments to save the situation. Trees are being slashed down to be turned into boards or paper, and no practical steps are being taken to replace them. The public protest against such conditions is becoming articulate. Public officials are beginning to grope for a solution. During the next few years much may be accomplished; is almost certain to be accomplished to the end of perpetuating the great forest industries of Canada.

It is not too late to save our forests. Thought and money given to conservation to-day will make our future income from the forests secure.—Financial Post.

WORSER AND WORST

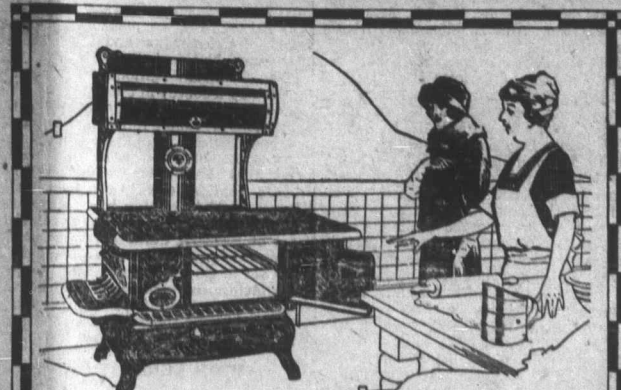

A Scotchman and an Australian were discussing the conditions in Scotland and the Commonwealth.

The Scot said he understood there were many Scotchmen in Australia.

"Yes," replied the Australian, "but the worst feature is the rabbits."

Experience Recommends the Pandora

The Pandora won its reputation as a sure baker by years and years of service in thousands of kitchens.

It has been well made on McClary's exacting standards. And improvements have brought it closer to perfection. The oven is now white-nickeled, a feature which makes for cleanliness, the surface being easily washable without rusting.

Buying the Pandora will prove profitable in the food and fuel saved. Ask McClary's dealer to tell you about the Pandora's thorough reliability.
