DEATH AT OTTAWA

Moncton, N. B., Feb. 28.—Mrs. A. H. Jones, of this city, received word this morning of the death of her sister, Mrs. H. A. May, of Ottawa, following an operation. Deceased was formerly a Miss Snow, of Moncton, and was a daughter of the late T. Ambrose Snow. She was formerly a nurse, having trained in the Lady Stanley Institute at Ottawa, and several years ago married Mr. May, who is a Government official at the federal capital. Interment will take place at Ottawa.

A Daring Rescue at Sea

William Dictures of the sinking of a Lunenburg, N.S. schooner. 1—Capt. Gillies of the "Scotland" and Chief Officer McMurray Alefti, who commanded the lifeboat that made the rescue. 2—The "Empress of Scotland." 3—A glimpse of the lounge aboard the "Scotland." 4—The return of the lifeboat. 5—The last few moments of the "Clintonia" after her crew had been rescued by the "Empress of Scotland."

THE tale of an heroic rescue at several partied was a and of a desperate battle with the elements to keep a sinking vessel affoat until help arrived was told when the Canadian Pacific steamship "Empress of Scotland" arrived at New York recently with Captain Aaron Kearley and his crew of five of the tiny schooner "Clintonia" of Luneaburg, N.S.

arrived at New York recently with Captain Aaron Kearley and his crew of five of the tiny schooner "Climtonia" of Luneaburg, N.S.

It was an epic of courage on the part of the sturdy Nova Scotians and of the coolness and heroism of British seamanship in which Chief Officer E. W. McMurray, and Captain Kearley of the lost schooner played the leading roles.

Totally helpless in a terrific storm, the "Clintonia" bound for Halifax from Portune Bay, Newfoundland, was in a sinking condition when it was sighted by the "Empress," Captain James Gillies, the liner's commander, was compelled to abandon the lifeboat in which the schooner's crew was rescued because of the heavy seas.

"For three days and nights we had manned the pumps, Captain Kearley said," we had given up hope and were completely exhausted when we sighted the steamer. We hoisted the distress signal, but even after we were smiling and eager to the "Scotland."

A volunteer crew manned the lifeboat, and several oars were broken by the invested such as an epic of courage on the part of the coloners when Officer McMurray in the Schooner was sinking rapid. "The crew were clinging to rope, and every wave broke over the liner also have been decorated for bravery, both in war and peace. First Officer Ronald Stewart received the Victoria Cross for sinking effort and peace of the we could not go alongside, and the men were compelled to jump in the China Sea several years ago. Other officers of the life boat the victoria Cross for sinking effort and peace of the well was sighted by the "Empress," Captain for lables in picking them up, and all dead from cold when we got them in the lifeboat the victoria Cross for sinking effort and up the peace of the Schooner's crew was rescued because of the lifeboat in which the schooner's crew was rescued because of the lifeboat in which the schooner's crew was a testing the victoria Cross for sinking effort and up the lifeboat the victoria Cross for sin

CANADIAN RATINGS IN BRITISH NAVY

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—Twenty-six young Canadian naval ratings who were sent to England in October last to qualify for the rating of seamen gunner and seaman torpedomen, have now returned to Canada. The showing made by the Canadian ratings is very creditable? 25 out of 26 having qualified. This is considered a very high average and an indication that the training given them in the Canadian naval service prior to entry upon the specialist course has been of a high standard.
