Polling Day.

To-day the electors of the District of Bay-de-Verde will decide their acceptance or rejection of the policy inaugurated by the present Government: whether they approve or disapprove the now notorious Fish Export Regulations: whether they favor or condemn the action of the Minister of Finance in increasing his estimates of expenditure by nearly two million dollars, most of which will be in the nature of sops to friends and supporters of the Government. It will also be decided by the electors whether they agree or not with the conduct of the department of shipping by the Minister who is seeking re-election at their hands: and their pronouncement to-day will be as a complete expression of public sentiment upon the wisdom or unwisdom of the policy pursued by Mr. Cave in his handling of the salt situation. Bay-de-Verde has been given the first opportunity to make a decision on the manner in which the affairs of the dominion have been managed by the Squires Government. In the bye-election for St. John's West last January, it was only possible to issue warnings, which, however, went unheeded. But Bay-de-Verde voters have witnessed the working out of a policy which is sadly at variance with their best interests, and one which has wrought much injury to the staple industry—the codfishery. The forcing down of the price of fish, the forcing up of the prices of the necessities of life may very well be chargeable on the Squires Government. The facts are plain to all. The shibboleth of the Government organs and men is "Elect Cave and be on the side of the Government." They make no defence of their iniquitous legislation: offer no excuse or reason for increasing expenditure under such gloomy circumstances: give no information as to how they propose to set extra taxation to level up to the vast sums which they propose to spend on largely increased salaries and unnecessary departments with their correspondingly unnecessary staffs of specialists. There is nothing of this explained to the electors. Like parrots they repeat the cry "Vote for Cave and be on the Government side." Well the men of Bay-de-Verde will show them just what they think of all this to-day, and if the Government does not receive a set back, then the country will have to face a long period of anguish and distress.

Utterly Incorrect.

On Friday last, we published a communicated item under the caption "City Firemen in Rags," which alleged that the fire fighting forces of the city had suffered from neglect of those in authority. The standing of our contributor left no doubt in our mind at the time that his statement bore the stamp of truth, which was sufficient warrant for its publication. Since then, however, we have been informed by the Inspector General of Constabulary that there is absolutely no foundation for the accusations of negligence contained in the item referred to, and no basis whatever for such allegations. The men have been looked after in the matter of clothing and other service rations and no distinction or discrimination has been made in the serving out. Upon bringing the declaration of the Inspector General to the notice of our contributor, he gave us permission to acquaint Mr. Hutchings of his identity, and this has been done. We regret exceedingly that the publication of the article, "City Firemen in Rags," has reflected upon the Inspector General's treatment of the Fire Department men, as it is well known that Mr. Hutchings has been most unrelenting in his attention to the needs of the firemen of the city, and has done all in his power—with marked success—to improve the conditions under which they serve.

The Native Society.

On the 24th day of June, 1840 (Notable Events in Newfoundland History), the Native Society was formed and officers elected. Its first President was Richard Barnes, whose monument stood in the old cemetery near the Church of England Cathedral. Amongst its first members were Sir Ambrose Shea, Hon. J. J. Rogerson and Hon. Edward Shea—all deceased. The Society was formed as a protest against the alleged favoritism shown to foreign-born residents, to whom it was said, all the "soft snaps" were given. Very few people can remember the motto or flag distinctly, but the most reliable authorities state that the flag was all pink, with two clasped hands, and a spruce tree in the centre. The tree rose from the joined palms and underneath, running parallel to the arms made by the hands was the word "Philanthropy." The arms and the tree were green, the lettering being in white. A good deal of ill-feeling was engendered by the Society and bad language and rows were frequently occurring. But the culminating point was reached in February, 1845, during a big "haul of wood" for Bishop Fleming. There was considerable rivalry for the biggest load, and each side bore distinctive colors. The "Bush-born" and "Old Country" people had a difference of opinion as to which had the bigger load, and a row—in which a good many heads were broken—ensued. When Bishop Fleming heard of the circumstances, he called the ringleaders together, gave them a bit of advice, and caused them to unite the pink and green. This they did by sticking a bit of neutral white between, and thus was born the "native" flag as it is to-day. A few of the founders stuck to the plain pink for two or three years, but after the death of Mr. Barnes, and the blowing down of the Native Hall in September, 1846, the pink, white and green became the native flag.

Hauled Up Traps.

Acting under instructions from the Marine and Fisheries Department, two policemen and a Sergeant were yesterday dispatched to Pouch Cove by the tug John Green. The purpose of the visit was to confiscate two traps which were set in berths supposed to be owned by other fishermen. With the assistance of ten fishermen of Pouch Cove the traps were taken from the water. Later they were brought in and landed at the King's wharf. Proceedings in the matter will come before the Supreme Court.

"Manana."

Owing to extra pressure on space, several important articles on local happenings are necessarily held over until to-morrow. Our apologies are offered contributors, who, we trust, will appreciate that the difficulty arises from circumstances over which we have no control.

McMurdo's Store News.

THURSDAY, June 24, 1920. Our display of Gillette Safety Razors is really quite fetching and we should be delighted to have you see them. There is the ordinary standard style the "Bulldog," the "Big Fellow," the compact styles, in nickel and gold plating suitable for presentation, being complete with soap, badger hair shaving brush and metal mirror; some of these sets are gold plated. If you are on for anything of this sort, come in and see us. Next, the new treatment for superfluous hair, is the thing you have been looking for. Certain, safe, odorless. Two sizes 75c. and $1.50.

It sweetens your mouth, because it destroys all mouth acids. Pebeon Tooth Paste at all Druggists.—jue24,ad,tf

Anniversary of Discovery of Nfld.

To-day, June 24th, St. John the Evangelist's Day, is the anniversary of the discovery of Newfoundland by John Cabot, in a ship called the "Matthew," which sailed from Bristol on May 2nd, 1497. Cabot's reward for his discovery of Newfoundland was the sum of ten pounds out of the Priory Purse of King Henry VII.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES RHEUMATISM.

To-day's Messages.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

LONDON, June 24. Irish rumors of a most alarming character are current here and Nationalist forces are said to be gathering to the northwest of the city preparatory to an attack, while Unionist adherents are entering the town and are being collected for a firm defence of the place. Several companies of British soldiers are on their way here from Belfast, but are making part of the trip on foot, it being feared that trains carrying them would be wrecked by lawless elements. Some troops arrived here yesterday and a British destroyer is lying in Lough Foyle, north of the city. The men engaged in actual fighting are the extremists of both contingent factions, and probably number only a few hundred. They absolutely terrorized the city yesterday, however, as they fired volleys down the streets from barricades they had erected, or posted on roofs or in windows, shot at almost everyone who dared to appear. Bishops Street along the thoroughfare running southwestward from the town has been the principal battleground during the past twenty-four hours. Down Bishop's Street and along the River Foyle to the east there are a number of narrow crooked streets, in which there have been fierce encounters. Londonderry is facing starvation if fighting continues. It is impossible to deliver supplies to houses, and no one dares venture out of doors in the business section of the town.

A DESPICABLE THREAT.

DUBLIN, June 24. Cardinal Logue, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of Ireland, declared, while speaking at Maynooth College yesterday, that he had "received a warning that his time was set." The Cardinal declared he was grateful for this warning because it gave him time to prepare, adding "I have always tried to do what I could for my country, and have never consciously said a word to offend anybody, no matter what his religion or politics. If I come to a sudden end, there will be no justification for those responsible." No indication of the source of the warning was given the aged Cardinal.

ELEVEN DEAD.

BELFAST, June 24. Two more deaths have occurred as a result of the fighting at Londonderry, bringing the total number of known dead up to eleven. A woman named Mills was killed last night while standing in her door, and William Rankin succumbed to wounds inflicted by Sinn Féin snipers, who fired upon him while he was on his way to feed his horses.

MORE TROOPS.

LONDON, June 24. More British troops have arrived in this city and their greater activity in efforts to protect life and property has had a quieting effect. Only occasional shots were heard after midnight this morning. Two snipers have been arrested by the soldiers. Besides actually attacking Sinn Féiners with armoured cars and machine guns, the troops have done much rescue work. When it was reported last night that Sinn Féiners were about to attack a cluster of houses, armoured cars were rushed to the scene and the troops removed terrified women and children to another section of the town. The Gas Works have also been protected by armed men.

VANITIE HAD CLOSE WIN.

NEWPORT, R.I., June 23. The Vanitie led the Resolute from the start of the tenth of the trial races, to select a defender of America's cup, to-day, but her margin at the finish was so slight that shore observers believed that the Resolute had won her seventh victory on time allowance. It was a twenty mile race, with windward and leeward legs, in which the Vanitie conceded one minute and eight seconds.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. James Harris, Mrs. M. F. Smythe and Master Thos. Harris, who had been in Canada, returned by to-day's Rosalind.
