Exports for Dec., 1921. The Humber Project.

(Complied by the Newfoundland Dear Sir.-One does not need to nestitate stating that your correspondent "Development" is a booster for the Reid West Coast scheme, To Europe 47,653 originally known as the Products Canada 3,232 Corporation, but now rechristened as the Humber Project. It's the same fox with a new skin. The new coat finer and more silkier than the first "Development," in trying to hoodwink the people, attempts to prove this Humber scheme a just one by citing Grand Falls as an example, and goes

"One cannot fall to remember the awful row that was raised when the Angle-Newfoundland Development Co. started their Grand Falls plant. The Government of the day were accused of giving away the inalienable rights of the people. They were charged West Indies 10,9221/2 with being false to the trust reposed in them, and that the day would come when their action in giving the concessions asked would be cursed and repudiated by an indignant and betraved people. Let me ask if that has happened? The Grand and Bishon's Falls industries have proved a most valuable asset to Newfoundland. Why not then the mooted Humber Valley proposition?"

"Development" well knows that NO GUARANTEE was given the Harmsworth corporation. They made Grand Falls out of a wilderness. A purely commercial venture. True they got concessions, but these were such as would be expected from any country encouraging capitalists to develop the country. Had the Bond government been generous enough to guarantee the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company's debentures, the people of this country would to-day be paying a nice little extra taxation to meet that charge because Grand Falls has not been paying dividends for years past. But, Sir Bobert Bond was too honest, too careful of the peoples interest to take the money collected from them in the shape of taxes to gladden the hearts and enrich the pockets of foreign speculators and bond buyers. (Precious little thanks he got for it too, from the same people he labored honestly for.)

"Davelopment" closes his Reid appeal with the following delightful piece of cleverly designed propaganda: "For years no person bothered about whether this country possessed any valuable natural resources, inland, or Mr. H. D. Because the Government of Newfoundland will have the privilege of seating a representative or the Beard of Directors. This one fact alone takes away from it the odinm, if it is polite to stigmatise it by the use of that word, of being privately controlled. We have learned this much information from the promoters agent, and we hasten to pass it along to the public."
