Kitchener and the Other Generals Pressing Him Hard.

His Force Said to Have Got Beyond Ventersdorp.

Krugersdorp, Aug. 15 .- Gen. Dewet has crossed the Krugersdorp-Potchefstreom Railway and is making to the north, in order to join Commandant Delarey, who is holding Rustenburg.

Kitchener and the other generals are pursuing him and pressing him hard. His force is reported to be beyond Ventersdorp.

AT ELAND'S RIVER.

London, Aug. 15 .- The war office has received a dispatch from Lord Roberts, announcing that Col. Hore was holding out at Eland's River last Friday. Lord Roberts considers that Gen. Hamilton's cavalry must now be within 40 miles of Eland's River.

Col. Hore had sustained 67 casualties. Gen. Hamilton, with a force of cavalry has been sent to relieve the gar-

BOERS MUSTER 8.000.

London, Wednesday, Aug. 15 .- A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph, dated Middleburg, describes a visit to the Boer headquarters, where, the correspondent says, he shook hands with Generals Botha and Viljoen. He adds that the main position of the Boers is at Bothasberg, north of Belfast, where there are probably 8,000 men, with a number of cannon. There are about 300 men in Belfast, mainly mounted police and Irishmen, with several guns. They declare they will make things lively when Gen. Dewet joins them. Their avowed intention is to make a stand a little to the east of Belfast, again at Machadodorp, and eventually to resist for a considerable time in the Lydenburg hills. The correspondent declares, however, that if they are defeated at Belfast and Machadodorp many will abandon the war.

DEMORALIZED.

He declares the Boers are demoral-Ized and bitter, and says that they are burning and looting by wholesale. Half the ammunition used by them is soft-nosed. This fact was pointed out to Gen. Viljoen, who made no reply. THE CHASE.

The exciting chase of Gen. Dewet by the British continues, but it cannot be said whether his chances of escape are improving. Generals Hamilton Mahon are moving west with a strong force to assist Generals Kitchener and Methuen in the pursuit.

If the Pretoria correspondent of the Morning Post is well informed, the recent abandonment of certain British positions is part of a new strategic policy aiming to checkmate the strategy of the Boers. The correspondent does not give the grounds for his belief, but expresses the opinion that Gen. Dewet, who is apparently trying to reach the bush veldt, will meet his match very soon. He adds that the Boers have been diverting men from Gen. Botha and raiding pacific districts, mainly near the railway, in order to create a diversion in Gen. Dewet's favor, and that the British have been making a new distribution troops to cope with these tactics.

Two British officers who were cap-

TOWN NO WORSE THAN COUNTRY

Though Vice Seems Contagious to the City

Evils Intensified in Villages. Says Dr. Talmage.

From St. Petersburg, the Russian capital, where he was cordially received by the emperor, the empress and the empress dowager, Dr. Talmage sends this discourse, in which he shows the mighty good that may be done by the cities, and also the vast evil they may do by their allurements to the unsuspecting and the unguarded. The text is Zech., 1:17: "My cities through prosperity shall yet be spread

The city is no worse than the country. The vices of the metropolis are evident than the vices of the rural districts, because there are more people to be bad if they wish to be. The merchant is as good as the farmer. There is no more cheating in town than out of town-no worse cheating; it is only on a larger scale. The countryman sometimes prevaria-cates about the age of the horse that he sells, about the size of the bushel with which he measures the grain, about the peaches at the bottom of the baskets as being as large as those at the top, about the quarter of beef as being tender when it is tough; and to as bad an extent as the citizen; the merchant prevaricates about calicoes or silks, or hardware.

And as to the villages, I think that in some respects they are worse than the cities, because they copy the vices the principles of Christ's religion domof the cities in the meanest shape; the principles of Christ's religion domond as to gossip, it's heaven in a In half of them? No. In one-tenth country village! Everybody knows of them? No. Decide for yourself. the blacksmith shop by day and night gains, and that if a man give to God is the grand depot for masculine tittle a portion of an unrighteous bargain tattle; and there are always in the village a half dozen women who have their sun-bonnets hanging near, so that at the first item of derogates. that at the first item of derogatory news they can fly out and cackle it all over the town. Countrymen must not be too hard in their criticism of the citizen, nor must the plow run too sharply against the yardstick.

CAIN FOUNDER OF THE CITY. Cain was the founder of the first city, and I suppose it took after him in morals. It takes a city a long while to escape from the character of a founder. Where the founders of a city are criminal exiles, the filth, the vice, the prisons, are the shadows of those founders. It will take centuries for New York to get over the good influence of the pious founders of that city in the streets where now banks discount and brokers bargain, and coma quarter of a century.

"Beginning in 1874 with subordinate lodges paying sick benefits and funeral panies declare dividends, and smugglers swear Custom House lies; and above the roar of the wheels and the above the roar of the wheels and the crack of the auctioneer's mallet ascends the ascription, "We worship thee, o thou almighty dollar!" The old church to some of the best of families of the community; and boys read them while that used to stand on Wall street is to this day throwing its blessing on the scene of traffic, and on all the ships folding their white wings in the harbon. In other days people gathered in In other days people gathered in cities for defense-none but the poor who had nothing to be stolen, lived in the country; but in these times, when through civilization and Christianity it is safe to live anywhere, people gather in the cities for purposes of rapid gain.

Cities are not evil necessarily, as some have argued. They have been the birthplace of civilization. In them popular liberty has lifted its voice. Witness Genoa and Pisa and Venice. After the death of Alexander the Great among his papers were found extensive plans of cities, some to be built in Europe, some to be built in Asia. The cities in Europe were to be occupied by Asiatics; the cities in Asia were to be occupied, according to his plans, by Europeans, and so there should be a commingling and a fraternity and there always ought to be. The strangest thing in my comprehension is that there should be bickerings and rivalries among our American cities. York must stop caricaturing Philadelphia, and Philadelphia must stop picking at New York; and certainly the continent is large enough for St Paul and Minneapolis. What is good for one city is good for all the cities. Here is the great highway of our national prosperity. On that highway of national prosperity walk the cities.

CHARACTERS OF CHIES. A city with large forehead and great the general funds for sick benefits is brain-that is Boston; a city with deliberate step and calm manner-that is Philadelphia; a city with its pocket full of change-that is New York: two of members initiated during the year cities going with a rush that astounds was 1,700, as follows: Two lodges in the continent—they are St. Louis and Newfoundland, 100; 6 lodges in Nova Chicago; a city that takes its wife and Scotia, 54; 4 lodges in New Brunswick, children along with it—that is Brooklyn, in Prince Edward Island, 44: 10 lodges in Manitoba, 178; 3 lodges in Assimbola, 25; 2 lodges in Alberta, 32; 8 lodges in British Columbia, 86; 143 fessional ability, another for affluence, another for fashion, but not one to be What advantages one advant-Cincinnati, Louisville, Pittsburg, all ages all.

But while there are great difference in some respects I have to tell you that all cities impress upon me, and ought to impress upon you, three or four very important lessons, all of them agreeing in the same thing. It does not make any difference in what part of the country we walk the streets of a city, there is one lesson I think which ought to strike every intelligent Christian man, and that is that the world is a scene of toil and struggle. Here and there you find a man in the street who has his arms folded and who seems to have no particular errand; but if you will stand at the corner of the street and watch the countenances of those 11,500,000 acres of vacant government Lodge took the delegates to Stag Island who go by you will see in most instances there is an intimation that they are on an errand which must be executed at the earliest moment possible; so you are jostled hither and thither by business men, up this ladder with a hod of bricks, out of this bank with a roll of bills, digging a cellar, shingling a roof, binding a book, mending a watch. Work, with its thousand eyes and thousand feet and thousand arms goes on singing its song: 'Work! work! work!" while the drums of the mill beat it and the steam whistles fife it. In the carpeted aisles of the forest, in the woods from which the eternal shadow is never lifted, on the shore of the sea over whose iron coast tosses the tangled foam, sprinkling the cracked cliffs with a baptism of whirlstudy God; but in the rushing, swarming, raving street is the best place to study man.

THE REPORT OF THE PROPERTY OF commercial life in all cities today is in the fact that many professional Christian men are not square in their bargains. Such men are in Baptist Methodist and Congregational churches, and our own denomination is as largely represented as any of them. Our good merchants are foremost in Christian enterprises; they are patriotic. God will attend to them in the day of his coronation. I am not speaking of them, but of those the in commercial life who are setting a ruinous example to our young mer-chants. Go through all the stores and offices in our cities, and tell me in how many of those stores and offices are the principles of Christ's religion domcountry village! Everybody knows of them? Bad books, unknown to father and mother, vile Satan finds them a smooth plank on which he can slide down into perdition some of your sons and daughters. Reading bad books-one never gets over it. The books may be burned, but there is not enough power in all the apothecary's preparations to wash out the stain from the soul. Fathers' hands, mothers' hands, sisters' hands will not wash it out; none but the hand of the Lord can wash it out. Young men, while you have time to reflect upon these things, and before the duties of the office and the store and the shop come upon you again. look over this whole subject, and after the day has passed, and you hear in the nightfall the voices and footsteps of the city dying from your ear, and it gets so silent that you can hear diskindness and a good-will between the tinctly your watch under your pillow continents and between the cities. So going "tick, tick," then open your eyes and look out upon the darkness and see two pillars of light, one horizontal, the other perpendicular, but changing their direction until they come together, and your enraptured vision beholds it-the Cross.

Mr. Driscoll Addresses the Interna tional Typographical Union.

Frederick Driscoll, commissioner of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, addressed the International Typographical Union convention, in session at Milwaukee, as a representative of the special standing committee of the American Newspaper Publishing Association, making several suggestions in the interests of harmony between the publishers and the International Typographical Union. He read the resolutions which were passed at a meeting of the publishers in New York in February last, setting forth the views of the publishers in relation to various subjects of interest to employ-ers and employes. The committee, he people were to be taken to ascertain said, was not appointed to provoke controversies, nor to antagonize labor, but, on the contrary to promote a better understanding between members and their employes, and the services of the committee and its commissioners will be at the disposal of any member of the association, and the good offices of the committee will gladly be extended to any member on request.

Those numbers as to alarm the people, who who have used it say it acts promptly, called on the Dominion authorities to and thoroughly subdues the pain and take steps, by the imposing of a head tax or in some other way, to stop this inflow. This could not be done without the assent of the British government, which neither wished to disoblige the Canadians nor to agree to a violation of the treaties with Japan. The arrival of so many Japanese in the Pacific coast states was beginning to work on the feelings of their people. There was danger of a demand on congress for a Japanese exclusion law. Naturally the enactment of such a measure would make it hard to keep on friendly terms with Japan, whose government would not relish the putting of Japanese on the same level with Chinese. That government has been considerate in its action. It has shown a desire that the present friendly relations with the United States and Canada shall suffer no change. It is possible, also, that at this uncertain moment, when it is impossible to tell what fighting Japan may have to do with China with Russia, it is deemed best not to let too many able-bodied Japanese go so far away from home that they will be unavailable for military duty. But when there is no such special demand for men some outlet will have to be found for the surplus population of Japan. That is one reason why the Japanese government is so anxious to get Corea. The island empire is over-crowded with people. If they cannot come to America they must settle in Asia or the islands of the Pacific.
