A PEOPLE WITHOUT A GRIEVANCE.

The text of the civic address read yesterday by Mayor Ritchie must have favorably impressed the Marquis of Lansdowne. His excellency has passed through the province by a new and hitherto untraveled route, and reached the end of his journey without having met a man with a grievance! What a wonderful thing to see planted on the shores of the Pacific a people so contented, happy and prosperous that they have no complaint to make of wrong that they want redressed. Lord Lansdowne's visit has covered under happier auspices and a brighter political sky than those that distinguished his previous visits to the province. Lord Lansdowne's visit to the province was not a mere courtesy call, but a visit of great importance. He was accompanied by his wife, Lady Lansdowne, and a large party of guests. The Marquis of Lansdowne is a man of high standing in the British aristocracy. He has been a member of the House of Commons for many years, and has held several important offices in the government. His visit to the province is a mark of the high regard in which the British government holds the Dominion of British Columbia.

Chamberlain's declaration that he would not sit in a cabinet unless his three proposals should be supported, has caused some alarm in the Dominion. It is not clear what his proposals are, but they are believed to be of a radical nature. Chamberlain is a man of high standing in the British aristocracy. He has been a member of the House of Commons for many years, and has held several important offices in the government. His visit to the province is a mark of the high regard in which the British government holds the Dominion of British Columbia.

ENGLAND'S FOREIGN POLICY.
The present policy of the English government as foreshadowed by its conservative leader, the Marquis of Lansdowne, is a policy of peace and stability. It is a policy that is based on the principle of non-interference in the affairs of other nations. It is a policy that is based on the principle of self-determination for all peoples. It is a policy that is based on the principle of justice and equity for all nations.

Mr. Gladstone's Yields.
London, Sept. 29.—Mr. Gladstone in his manifesto made some concessions to the Dominion of British Columbia. He yielded to the Dominion's demand for a railway to the coast. He yielded to the Dominion's demand for a port of call for British ships. He yielded to the Dominion's demand for a share in the management of the public lands. These concessions were a mark of the high regard in which the British government holds the Dominion of British Columbia.
