TORONTO'S EXHIBITION.

Confusion reigned supreme at the exhibition grounds yesterday. It was the first day of the show, and there was a great deal of confusion.

The main building was the scene of the greatest stir. Men were at work on all sides, arranging goods in their most attractive form.

The space was allotted with a view to have the different classes together as far as possible, which makes the display harmonious and effective.

The exhibits are as varied as they are numerous, while the exhibitors had from all parts of the Dominion.

The carriage building was well filled up, and it will not contain all the entries in this department, and many have been and will be located in the machinery hall.

The agricultural implement building is as forward as any, but little work was done in the afternoon, as the goods of exhibitors have been delayed on the railways and will not arrive until today.

The same remark will apply to machinery hall. The entries in the dairy department are very numerous, and will fill the building to its utmost capacity.

The stove building will be an attractive feature of the show. Many of the stoves are of the latest design, and will attract the attention of the public.

It cannot be denied that the exhibition on the whole is a backward step, and strenuous efforts will have to be made by the exhibitors and exhibitors to have it ready for visitors by tomorrow.

There are numerous tents on the grounds, many in fact, that they meet the general view.

The art gallery is the only department that may be said to be ready. There are no prizes in the professional class, but liberal prizes are offered for amateur work.

The judges of the competition have commenced their duties yesterday afternoon. The show is regarded as the best ever seen in Toronto.

DEATH BY LAUDANUM.

Supposed Suicide of Margaret Cardinal, a Streetsville Woman.

About six months ago a woman named Margaret Cardinal, who appears to have at some time assumed the name of Marshall, came to the house of one Green, a Jew living at 125 Bay street, as a domestic.

She did her employment for three weeks ago and went to live with some friends in the city. On Sunday night she came to Mrs. Green and asked permission to sleep at the house all night, which was granted.

In the morning Mr. Green, having occasion to visit one of the suburbs, left the house very early, and did not return until noon, when he was informed that Margaret had not got up yet.

Going up stairs, he found the door locked for some hours, and immediately looked the door and notified the police. When found the woman was lying on a sofa, and the door was locked.

When found the woman was lying on a sofa, and the door was locked. The police were called, and the woman was found dead. The cause of death was laudanum.
