Not long since the Toronto Mail waxed very indignant because the Ontario government had permitted the provincial librarian and an editor of the Globe to exlibrarian and an editor of the Globe to exchange places in order to meet the exigencies of the party and of the newspaper. Now, another newspaper and party exigency has arisen, and we find the dominion government filling an Ottawa librarianship with an editor who has outlived his usefulness. Will the Mail calmly witness such an abuse of the appointing power? We are afraid it will. But if there is a distinction between the two cases, there certainly is no difference. cases, there certainly is no difference.

A Rattling Glove Fight,
From the New York News.
The glove contest between Tommy tracted several hundred sporting men to Mike Cleary's sporting resort last night. The pugilists had agreed to box six rounds, Queensberry rules, for a purse of $100. Both are veteran English pugilists, and have fought many a hard battle. At midnight Cleary amid loud cheers entered the ring and stated to his many admirers the conditions of the match. He deposited $100 with Wm. E. Harding, and said, "Give this to the winner." Barnes was the first in the arena. He was attended by Bob Smith, the veteran trainer and second, and Jack Keenan of Philadelphia. Mace's Stiff 'Un arrived a few minutes later, with Al Powers, Jack Dempsey's trainer, and George Taylor, the colored heavy weight champion. Jack Dempsey was referee and Mike Cleary was selected as time-keeper. The fight was quite interesting to those who admire boxing. Barnes was in the best condition, and had the best of the contest, and if the battle had been fought to a finish would have won.

To credit for conscientious devotion to public business the lords are no more entitled than to eredit for high minded and disinterested legislation; the attendance in their house, except when the special interests of the order were concerned has always been disgracefully small. Not by democratic theory or by social prejudice against rank, but by decisive experience, the house of lords stands condemned as useless and worse than useless to the nation and to humanity. Strange to say, in its last mements, some radies have risen up to defend it. But their reason is that the conservative principle could not be embodied in a more unpopular or a weaker form. For the same reason rational conservatives will desire a change, such as may at once substitute living for dead securities, and set free such conservative forces as the house of lords may contain to act effectively in a better sphere. Indications are not wanting that the same thought has begun to dawn upon some of the ablest and most thoughtful among the lords themselves.

who had all agreed to assess themselves liberally to assist in fighting the act. Mr. Dodds was the agent of the association, a committee of three of the leading members being an executive committee over him with wide powers. But besides the protective association the owners of taverns and licensed groceries in each county were formed into county associations, and whenever the temperance party agitated the Scott act in any county the local association got so much from the Dominion protective association or condition of raising a certain sum among its own members. This was the case in Halton.

The Dominion association, that is the wholesale men, have withdrawn from this position and have abandoned the fight. The local men will now have to bear the burden. In Simcoe, for instance, they, have collected among themselves $6000 or over. How they will fare on this line of action remains to be seen. The Affair a Success—Meeting of the Grand Ledge—Rights of Engineers and Firemen—Insurance Fund. At the forenoon meeting of the grand odge yesterday E. V. Debs, grand secretary, presented a report on the Firemen's Magazine, showing that that periodical has a circulation of 21,000. The committee on ways and means presented a report recommending the United States congress to take measures to secure to the firemen and engineers working on Mexican railways the right of speedy trial.

The committee on insurance showed that $66,000 had been paid out for benificiary purposes, and $81,000 for general purposes. The surplus ever all expenses and liabilities is $17,000.

The afternoon session was occupied in considering the constitution and by-laws, but no amendments were made.

The crowning feature of the celebration in honor of the grand lodge took place last night in the shape of a complimentary ball at Horticultural gardens. Upwards of As nearly all the delegates strangers in the city, the brethren and a committee of ronto ladies were unremitting in efforts to make them feel at home. ronto ladies were unremitting in their efforts to make them feel at home. That they were successful goes without saying; the visitors are no longer strangers. They enjoyed themselves immensely and will carry away with them pleasant recollections of the affair. The lieutenant-governor and Mrs. Robinson were present and left a favorable impression upon all with whom they came in contact. Mayor Boswell also made himself highly agree ble. A conspicuous figure on the floor was Col. Maynard of Indianapolis, who with his pen has fought many a hard battle for the brother-hood and is consequently held in high esteem by them. Dancing to the music of the Royal Grenadier's band was generally and heartily indulged in. At midnight supper was served by Harry Webb. Grand Master Arnold took Mrs. Robinson in, and Miss Debs, sister of the grand secretary, went in on his honor's arm. Supper over, the program of dances was resumed, and it was after 3 o'clock when the strains of the national anthem brought the ball to a close.

with Deck Passenger, I can sympathize with all he states in your paper of Sept.

mankind on the way home to a well-carned rest; a beyy of ladies will stop the car at corner of King and Church and rudely thrust their way inside and stare feeble men out of the seats, for which they have paid the full fare.

I am a hardened specimen of the menkind, and have long ago resolved to keep my seat regardless of all comers, but this often ends in my having to support partially on my knees a load of selfishness the whole journey. Pity for dumb animals and regard for men's feelings must be a scarce commodity on some streets.

atches of the Royal Grenadiers were preented to the lucky men last night at the rmory. The corps turned out 300 strong, and preliminary to the presentation were put through the firing exercise. The prizes which were very handsome were placed upon a raised dias on the north side of the shed. The presentations were gracefully made by Mrs. Major Dawson, who had associated with her Mrs. Barlow Cumberland and Mrs. Capt. Harrison. Col. Denison, D.A.G., Col. Grasett, Major Dawson and Capt. Bruce also occupied places on the platform. The ceremony was witnessed by a thronged gallery of ladies and gentlemen.

When the case of Charles Goodman, proprietor of the museum of anatomy, was called at the police court yesterday, Mr. murphy asked for an adjournment until Monday. Mr. Fenton objected to this and said it was a good advertisement for the show. The magistrate coincided with Mr. Fenton's opinion, but cularged the case until Saturday, when it must be proceeded

And are you going to leave us, you
Who kept the town so long in laughter
The terror of the Tory crew,
Who never knew what you'd be after? Who made us angry for a while. Excused you, whispering with a smile, "The fellow's mad—but not with lear Who murmured on his marrow-bones Before each knight of new creation; Who charged the grits, in trumpet tones With dullness and expectoration;

nd who, with snobbish instinct keen Discovered man's most damning sin in A reckless use of nicotine, Or too infrequent change of linen. As "Slugger," "Bull-pup," "Boston Ch Who aped at style and failed of senso, And vied with Billingsgate-bred mats In coarse abuse, nor varied thence, Except to puff and please his patrons, Believe at least, when all is said,
You are, although you may not suit men,
Lamented by each lady's maid,
And mourned by all imported footmen.
So, lightly lay the livery by,
Amid the tears of Jeames and Sally;
And we, although we cannot cry,
Say "Ave, frater atque vale!"
