

The Weekly Monitor

AND

Western Annapolis Sentinel.

VOL. 38

BRIDGETOWN, ANNAPOLIS COUNTY, NOVA SCOTIA, OCTOBER 5, 1910

NO. 25

LAI IN HIS LAST RESTING PLACE

All That Is Mortal of His Honor Lieut. Governor Fraser Laid Away without Pomp or Ceremonious Display in the Cemetery at New Glasgow, His Former Home.

Guysboro, Sept. 28.—At six o'clock this morning citizens of Guysboro, and others, began to gather about the summer home of the late governor, at Fort Point, and at seven o'clock, after religious services by the Rev. Dr. Morton, of the Methodist church, the casket, bearing the remains of the governor, was placed on the hearse. It was followed by a large procession, to the dock of the steamer, Malcolm Cann, three-quarters of a mile, Rev. Dr. Morton, Revs. Michael and Maurice Tompkins and Rev. A. F. Zentith walking at the head of the procession. The bells of the Methodist, the Catholic and Anglican churches tolled.

The casket was placed on the upper deck of the steamer and covered with the British ensign. The ship left at 7.30 for Mulgrave, the remains going by I. C. R. to New Glasgow.

Mrs. Fraser, the governor's widow, Mrs. Underwood, Miss Margaret Fraser, Miss Sadie Fraser, daughters of the deceased, Miss Graham and Miss Miller, Allister Fraser and Master Laurier Fraser, accompanied the remains to New Glasgow. J. H. Sinclair, M.P., B. H. Graham, of New Glasgow, William Graham, of Sydney Mines, also were of the party.

The body was met at the I.C.R. station in New Glasgow by Mayor Graham Fraser, Senator McGreor, R. M. MacGregor, M.L.A., A. C. Bell, Thomas Cantley and others, and was taken to the residence of the late Harvey Graham.

New Glasgow, September 30.—Yesterday afternoon the people of the province of Nova Scotia paid a last tribute of respect to its departed governor, when the body of Hon. Duncan Cameron Fraser was committed to mother earth in the beautiful Riverside cemetery on the east bank of the East River. The obsequies were of the very simplest character. Neither pomp nor display, no fanfare of trumpets, military bands, booming minute guns, nor tolling bells marked his passing.

Nothing of an outward show to indicate that he who was being borne through the streets of his home town this bright September day was other than the humblest citizen, save only the assemblage of many of Nova Scotia's leading men, and the presence of official representatives of the government of the Dominion of Canada, and the governors of the sister provinces, and a vast concourse of mourning friends and admirers. Groups of reverent townspeople lined the route of procession, all those bearing testimony to the fact that a man among men had fallen and was being accorded the last honors. The very simplicity of it all, the absence of anything imposing or grand, made it all the more impressive.

The men of Pictou county came in great numbers to place a last token of respect upon the grave of him, who had been for forty years one of the great figures of the community.

They were reinforced by public and private leaders from all sections of the province.

From Halifax there came a special train which arrived at noon with a representative company of citizens of the capital. Among them were General Drury, representing the governor-general; Col. Pages, representing the lieutenant-governor of Quebec; Major Allan Duffus, representing the lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick; G. S. Campbell, chairman of the board of governors of Dalhousie University, President Forrest and Prof. Howard Murray, representing Dalhousie; J. A. Chisholm, K. C., Mayor of Halifax, and representatives from societies and institutions of all kinds.

Hon. A. K. MacLean, acting premier Hon. G. P. Chisholm and Hon. B. F. Pearson were the representatives of the provincial government. The legislature of Nova Scotia was represented by Hon. M. H. Goudge, president of the legislative council; Hon. Geo. E. Faulkner, speaker of the house of assembly; N. J. Gillis, M.P.P., P. P. Pearson; William Whitman, M.P.P., Guysboro; Hon. J. E. Corbett, Harbor auBouche; J. H. Livingstone, M.P.P., Cumberland; R. M. McGreor, M.P.P., R. H. McKay, M.P.P., and J. M. Bailie, M.P.P., of Pictou. The federal parliament were represented by Senator McGreor, New Glasgow, Senator McSweeney, Moncton; Senator Ross, Halifax; J. H. Sinclair, J. P., Guysboro; D. D. McKenzie, M.P., North Cape Breton; Wm. Chisholm, M.P., Antigonish; G. W. Kytte, M. P., Richmond. Other former members of parliament in attendance were A. J. Logan, K. C., Amherst, and Alex. Johnson, Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

The bench was represented by Chief Justice Townshend, Justice Meagher, Justice Drysdale, and Justice Lawrence, of the Supreme Court, and Judges Geo. Patterson, A. McGillivray, and W. B. Wallace, of the County Court.

The funeral services were held at the home of the Misses Graham, on Forbes street, and were conducted by Rev. J. W. McMillan, D.D., pastor of St. Matthew's church, Halifax, who was specially requested by Governor Fraser to conduct the last rites. They were in accordance with the unwritten ritual of the Presbyterian church. The services opened with the singing "O God of Bethel." Then followed prayer by Rev. E. A. McCurdy of Halifax, his former pastor, and the reading of the scriptures by Rev. Ernest Forbes, present pastor of the former lieutenant-governor's New Glasgow church. Dr. McMillan delivered an impressive address on the tragedy of death, concluding with a fine eulogy of the departed and after singing the hymn, Rev. Dr. Pollock gave the closing prayer and benediction.

When all had had an opportunity of taking a last look at the face of the dead governor, the funeral cortege was formed and proceeded to the cemetery. The pall bearers were Hon. A. K. MacLean, Thos. Cantley, Mayor Chisholm of Halifax, J. H. Sinclair, A. C. Bell, H. J. Logan, W. Whitman, M.P.P., J. C. McGreor, Judge McGillivray and H. T. Sutherland.

In compliance with the request of the deceased, friends refrained from sending floral tributes, but the casket bore one handsome wreath, the offering of Lord and Lady Strathcona. Mayor Chisholm with a peculiar fitness, presented on behalf of the citizens of Halifax, a handsome wreath of heather.

The funeral procession was one of the longest ever seen in Pictou county, probably close upon half a mile in length, and representative of the best citizenship of the county and province. The services at the grave was short. As the body was lowered into the tomb Rev. Dr. McMillan read the burial service and the lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia was left to sleep his last sleep.

Mr. R. E. Feltus, of Digby, has purchased from Capt. L. D. Morton his fast stallion Kingbrogh. We understand that the price paid was $2,000 cash.

MINARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES DIPHTHERIA.

Centennial Service at Paradise

The Paradise and Clarence United Baptist Church celebrated its one hundredth anniversary, Sept. 10th, to 12th. The services were all held in the Paradise church, which had just been painted outside, and was decorated beautifully inside for the occasion. The pulpit was banked with flowers, and a large frame, containing portraits of the former pastors, was hung in front of the desk. Over the pulpit, was a large banner, with the motto, "One Hundred Years for God," with 1810 and 1910 on either side. The music for the series of meetings was furnished by the choir, conducted by Miss Lesley who has served as organist for thirty-three years.

The opening service was held on Saturday evening. Former pastor, Rev. H. H. Saunders, preached and his message was helpful and inspiring. Sunday morning a special Sunday school service was held, in which all the schools united. Miss Longley's choir from the primary class furnished the music and Rev. J. H. Balcomb taught the lesson. At eleven o'clock the church was crowded to its utmost capacity to hear the Centennial Sermon, delivered by a former, much beloved pastor, Rev. A. Cohoon D. D. The preacher took for his text Ps. 145 and 7th verse. "They shall abundantly utter the memory of Thy great goodness and shall sing of Thy righteousness."

At 2.30 o'clock a mass meeting of the Ladies Aid Societies was held. Mrs. E. J. Elliott read the Scripture, and Mrs. Isa Wallace offered prayer. The music for this meeting was furnished by the choir of young people, completely filling the gallery in the south end of the church. Historical sketches of the Paradise and Clarence societies were read by Mrs. Harry Longley and Mrs. Ward, which were followed by an excellent paper by Mrs. Pearson on "One Hundred Years of Women's Work." The Mission Band of Clarence furnished a Flower Drill and the Paradise Mission Band a beautiful selection of music. The closing speaker of the afternoon was Rev. J. Glendening, just returned from India, who spoke with great enthusiasm of his work out there.

The evening services opened at 7.30 o'clock. After the preliminary exercises, Rev. D. Price a former pastor spoke on Home Missions, Rev. J. Glendening on Foreign Missions and Rev. H. G. Mellie on Western Missions. These excellent addresses were interspersed with good music. This service brought to a close a helpful day in the life of this old church.

Monday at two p.m. the people gathered from far and near for the Historical Service. The writing of the History was by unanimous consent of the committee put in the hands of the clerk, S. N. Jackson, who has served with such pains-taking care, in that capacity for many years. Seated on the platform was Clerk Jackson, former pastors Eaton, Price, Saunders and Dimock, also Miss Vidito, daughter of the Pastor who served the church with untiring zeal for forty years, the late Rev. Nathaniel Vidito, and Mr. N. V. Harasgrudson. The music for the service was conducted by Prof. Morse of Boston and consisted of the old hymns and tunes sung by the fathers. When Clerk Jackson had finished reading the history of the church for the past one hundred years, Prof. Morse sang with great effect "One Hundred Years to Come." Then followed speeches from visitors and friends.

The first speaker was Mr. Nathaniel Vidito Bars, Superintendent of the Vermont State Industrial School who is having phenomenal success in handling wayward boys. All who listened to his eloquent address were reminded of the speaker's noble grandfather. At the conclusion of his speech he very generously offered to print gratuitously five hundred copies of the Centennial proceedings in pamphlet form on the press at the Industrial School.

Clerk Jackson then called the roll of former pastors and Revs. J. T. Eaton, D. Price, A. V. Dimock and H. H. Saunders responded in an interesting manner. A resolution of appreciation of Rev. E. L. Steeves and Rev. Kinley was presented and ordered to be sent to them.

Rev. Alfred Chipman of Brunswick was present during the meetings and was called upon for a brief address. Among the interested listeners at each service, was Robert Marshall of Clarence, who has been a member of the church for seventy-one years and his friend Isaiah Clute of Boston. Both of these brethren testified to the goodness of God whom they had served for three quarters of a century.

Following this service so full of interest to all, was the social hour and tea in the vestry when an opportunity was offered for friends who had not met for years, to meet and exchange greetings. At 7.30 Prof. Morse led a praise service, which was greatly enjoyed. The speakers for the evening were Rev. Calvin Goodspeed D. D. and Rev. G. B. Cullen Ph. D. These speakers drew an audience crowding the church. Dr. Goodspeed had a big subject "One Hundred Years of Baptist History," and handled it in his usual able style. The new president of Acadia, Rev. Dr. Cullen, was the last speaker. He won his audience at the start, and the conclusion all present reached as they listened to him with so much interest, was that the future success and growth of Acadia is assured.

Votes of thanks were passed in favor of the speakers during the Centennial, the choir that so ably carried out the musical part of the program, Prof. Morse who so ably assisted by his beautiful solos, the ladies who had served such beautiful hospitality and the committee that furnished the decorations for the church.

This brought to a close a series of services which worthily celebrated the notable event for which they were planned. The audience joined with the choir in singing the closing hymn "Blest be the Tie that Binds" trusting that God will enable each member of this historic church to serve their own generation by God's will faithfully.

The House of L. W. Elliott

The residence of L. W. Elliott, of Clarence, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon, the fire starting in the attic about half past one. The inmates were unharmed. The catastrophe occurring until a neighbor rushed in telling them their roof was in a blaze and the flames were coming out of the attic windows. Finding the house past saving they gave their attention to getting out the furniture and clothing, most of which was saved. With the greatest difficulty the barn and wagon-house were saved from the flames by the energetic work of the neighbors. There was an insurance of $1000 on the house, but the loss is heavy. The family comprising Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, a son and two daughters and Miss Freeman, a sister of Mrs. Elliott, have found a temporary home in a house in the neighborhood, belonging to Mr. Joseph Elliott.

ST. JAMES CHURCH ORGANIZED ADULT BIBLE CLASS, SEASON 1910-11.

The inaugural meeting of the above for the ensuing season was held in St. James' church school room last Friday evening, taking the form of an "At home," and was in every way a success. Dainty refreshments had been provided by various members of last year's class and these were served early in the evening, promoting conversation and good fellowship. Later those assembled gave themselves to business with Mr. A. Hiltz presiding, in the absence of Mr. J. B. Whitman, the retiring president. The report of last year's work was both interesting and encouraging. Election of officers then took place for the season now beginning, and resulted as follows:—President Mr. A. Hiltz, Vice-Pres. Mr. A. Morse; Secretary, Mr. B. Messenger; Teacher, The Rector; Assistant teacher, Hon. O. T. Daniels. Besides this several committees were appointed to see after various departments of the work. The Class will meet on Friday evenings during the winter, in St. James' school-room, from 7.30 to 8.30, and study the gospel of St. Matthew, commencing next Friday with chapter XI. A hearty welcome will be extended to any who may feel interested in Bible study, whether as members of the class or as visitors.

BRITISH COLUMBIA THE LAST WEST

Land of Big Mountains, Big Trees, and Big Possibilities, but Hampered by the Lack of Natural Moisture.—Apple Trees Cannot Grow Old, but Die from Lack of Deep Sub-soil.

(Continued from last issue)

British Columbia is a very mountainous country. It can boast of being the largest province in Canada, and also as having the most mountains. We entered it at Field, near the top of the Rockies with mountain peaks on all sides of us and throughout the whole five hundred miles of its territory crossed by the C.P.R., we never lost sight of mountains and peaks with their snow caps; they followed us or we followed them to the coast. We had been expecting to see in their fruit sections areas similar to our own valley, we watched in vain all the way to Vancouver. Everywhere the valleys are narrow and broken and over-shaded by great wooded peaks with head dresses of snow.

After coming down the western slopes of the Selkirk we continue our course by way of canyons and narrow valleys until we reach Revelstoke, population 3,500. This inland mountain town is nicely laid out and considering its position in this new and wild country and so far from other towns is quite a wonder.

It is a divisional point of the railroad therefore has quite a large population of railroad men. From here the Crows Nest branch of the C.P.R. makes off to the south to Nelson. This lake lies wholly among irregular mountain ridges and its extent like an octopus in many directions occupying the whole of the intervening valleys. We follow or cross the arms and wind in and out our engine heading to every one of the thirty-two points of the compass in skirting around its shores for fifty miles.

It is always narrow and surrounded by high hills reminding one of our own Bras d'Or waters in Cape Breton, except that the latter has more hard wood, while here the forests are of soft wood largely. The settlements are small, an occasional saw-mill surrounded by a number of small shacks, where Chinese and Japs are seen in good numbers. Agricultural pursuits are still in the early stages. Toward evening, in this section we pass the first orchards we have seen since near Toronto. They are small areas and the trees all young of thirty and healthy growth, and on some of them the fruit is being picked (Aug. 13th.) Some dwarf species are also seen. There are no large orchards. The trees grow so rank that it seems they are quite at home here in these small protected spots, but the whole country seems so new and so heavily forested. Near the lakes are a number of large saw-mills and in this region we see our first great stumps and large trees. Spruce, cedar, hemlock and Douglas firs are noticeable and all very large. The Pass must have been very heavily timbered at one time but is now partially cleared. Near the end of the Valley, at a place called Craigellachie, we pass a granite pillar near the track that has been erected to mark the spot where the last spike was driven in the C. P. R. in November 1885; the contractors from the east and west meeting here. Fifteen miles more and we reach Sicamous Junction, a small village with a good sized C. P. R. hotel. From here a branch of the railroad runs south to Okanagan Lake, a distance of fifty miles. This district is well known on account of being largely exploited and advertised as a fruit raising section. It is near this lake that Lord Aberdeen has his great fruit farm and other holdings comprising 13,000 acres and employing a small army of men to operate. It is provided with irrigation to take the place of rain. Peachland and Summerland are also located in this direction further down Lake Okanagan. We regretted very much that our limited time did not admit of a trip to this location. Continuing our journey, our track now runs along the southern shore of Shuswap Lake.

This lake lies wholly among irregular mountain ridges and its extent like an octopus in many directions occupying the whole of the intervening valleys. We follow or cross the arms and wind in and out our engine heading to every one of the thirty-two points of the compass in skirting around its shores for fifty miles.

It is always narrow and surrounded by high hills reminding one of our own Bras d'Or waters in Cape Breton, except that the latter has more hard wood, while here the forests are of soft wood largely. The settlements are small, an occasional saw-mill surrounded by a number of small shacks, where Chinese and Japs are seen in good numbers. Agricultural pursuits are still in the early stages. Toward evening, in this section we pass the first orchards we have seen since near Toronto. They are small areas and the trees all young of thirty and healthy growth, and on some of them the fruit is being picked (Aug. 13th.) Some dwarf species are also seen. There are no large orchards. The trees grow so rank that it seems they are quite at home here in these small protected spots, but the whole country seems so new and so heavily forested. Near the lakes are a num-

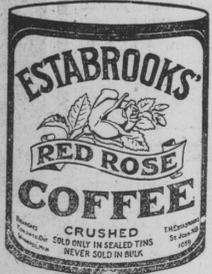

(Continued on page 4.)

EVERY statement, every claim, every guarantee concerning Red Rose Tea from the time it was first put on the market until to-day has been lived up to the fullest degree. Its remarkable success and enormous sale are the result of this method of doing business, coupled with the all-important fact that Red Rose Tea has always been good tea.

Every guarantee made on behalf of Red Rose Tea applies to Estabrooks' Red Rose Coffee.

It is of a very fine quality and is prepared by an improved process of manufacture: crushing instead of grinding. Described on the label. Will you try them? Both will please you.

Estabrooks' Coffee for Breakfast and Red Rose Tea for other meals.