

Press On!—This is a speech, brief, but full of inspiration, and opening the way to all victory. The mystery of Napoleon's career was this—under all difficulties and discouragements, 'press on!' It solves the problem of all heroes—it is the rule by which to weigh rightly all wonderful success and triumphal marches to fortune and genius. It should be the motto of all, old and young, high and low, fortunate and unfortunate, so called.

'Press on!' Never despair, never be discouraged, however stormy the heavens, how ever dark the way, how ever great the difficulties and repeated the failures, 'press on!'

If fortune has played false with thee to-day, do thou prove true to thyself to-morrow. If thy riches has taken wings and left thee, do not weep thy life away; but be up and doing, and retrieve the loss by new energies and action. If any unfortunate bargain has deranged thy business, do not fold thy arms, and give up all as lost; but stir thyself and work the more vigorously.

If those whom thou hast trusted have betrayed thee, do not be discouraged, do not idly weep, but 'press on!' find others; or what is better, learn to live within yourself. Let the foolishness of yesterday make you wise to-day. If thy affections have been poured out like water in the deserts, do not sit down and perish of thirst, but press on—a beautiful basis is before thee, do not thou increase the evil by being false to thyself. Do not say the world has lost poetry and beauty; 'tis not so; and even if it be so, make thine own poetry and beauty, by a brave, a true, and above all, a religious life.
