

bound, and, now for the first time displayed to advantage, are impressive evidence of Mr. Peter Redpath's liberality. The Rev. Geo. Coul, Valleyfield, M.A., Qae., the only member, we believe, of the Presbytery of Montreal who speaks Modern Greek, is appropriately the donor of our handsome copy of the Codex Alexandrinus first published under the royal patronage of George III.

But the most unique gift which has reached us is the fac-simile of the Codex Sinaiticus, in four volumes, from the late Emperor Alexander II of Russia. The manner in which it came into our possession is almost romantic. The Senate, the College Board, and its vigilant finance Committee had nothing to do with it. In 1877, our Principal visited Britain and Europe. When in Glasgow, passing through the Free Church College, he chanced to enter a room the floor of which was littered with books of all sorts. They were the library of the celebrated late Dr. Tischendorf, and among them his copy of the codex. He was assured by his cicerone, who styled himself "ye humble servant," that the College possessed "two copies o' they buikes." The Principal expressed his determination to have one of them for our College, but was authoritatively warned to beware of meddling "wi' sic treasures." The Rev. Dr. Douglass, the Principal of the College, being from home at the time, was at once appealed to by letter and an urgent plea made in favour of transferring the extra copy to Montreal. His prompt answer revealed the fact that the Free Church College, Glasgow, had no such remarkable duplicates in its library. It was fortunate enough to secure Dr. Tischendorf's copy by paying the proper price for it. Our readers can imagine the disappointment of our Principal, who does not believe in failure in anything he undertakes, on discovering that Glasgow could furnish no copy of the codex for our institution. He passed south to London and thence to Brighton, the famous watering-place of England. When sitting on the unrivalled Iron Pier and enjoying the sea breeze on a charming sunny afternoon he told the story of his Glasgow experiences to the Rev. A. B. MacKay, then Minister in Brighton and now of Crescent Street Church, Montreal. A few months after this three distinguished visitors, His Excellency Count Schouvaloff, Russian Abassador to the English Court, and the Countess, his wife, and her daughter the Countess Mary Orloff Denisoff, took up their residence at Brighton. They were all devout members of the Greek Church, but elected to be hearers of Mr. MacKay. In a short time the pastor and his distinguished parishioners became intimate friends, and in the course of conversation one day he mentioned to the amiable and accomplished young Countess Mary, the strong desire felt in Canada for a copy of the codex. She kindly volunteered to communicate the matter to His Excellency, and he in turn laid it before the Emperor, and, whatever representations he was pleased to make, the result was that the Emperor granted the copy in the possession of which we rejoice, and the Count also presented a copy to Mr. MacKay as a souvenir of happy days spent in Brighton and specially in connection with the Presbyterian Church there.

Such is the story of how the Codex Sinaiticus reached the shelves of the "David Morrice Library." Instrumentally we owe it to the blunder of the Glasgow Bedel, the eloquence of Mr. MacKay in drawing distinguished visitors to his Church, the kindness of the young Countess, the influence of the eminent Ambassador Schouvaloff and the perseverance of our Principal in behalf of the College whether at home or abroad.
