

one year. Dr Wright will continue canvassing for the "Century Fund" in the principal towns in that part of the country.

Very few fully appreciate the great work which our French graduates are doing in Montreal and surrounding towns. The evening service of the first Sabbath of the century, in St. John's French Presbyterian Church, would have been a revelation to many. Three of the French Presbyterian Churches united for a communion service there, and about 150 communicants sat down at the Lord's table. When we consider that the greater number of these were once Roman Catholics surely there is much to encourage our French ministers, and enough success to warrant our interest and help. The Rev. Dr. Amaron, the Rev. J. P. Bruneau and the Rev. R. P. Duclos conducted the service and the church was crowded to the doors.

The annual congregational meeting of the Presbyterian Church at Farnham Centre, Que., was held last month. The Rev. D. N. Coburn, B.A., pastor of that church, may well feel gratified with the reports from the different societies of his church. With the many demands upon his congregation during the past year, the church is in a better position financially than it has been for ten or twelve years. The Ladies' Aid Society has spent a good sum on repairs to the church building and have a balance on the right side. Mr. Coburn started a S. S. library which has been much appreciated. Nineteen new members were added to the communion roll; two adult and five infant baptisms. Mr. Coburn has paid attention to the memorizing of Scripture; two scholars have repeated 200 verses and five smaller ones the 25 verses prescribed by the Sunday School committee.
