Parliamentary Notes

Here is another week of sameness. The budget debate has dragged its length along, with the understanding that it would come to an end on Tuesday. Here and there a bright flash illumined the monotony of statistics and of counter-statistics. On Friday an especially able and certainly new in form and matter speech was delivered by Mr. Demers, member for St. John and Iberville. There was a ring of genuine patriotism in the address, and as a piece of carefully set logic it sufficed to stir the young member as one whose future career may be of the most brilliant. I may add that Mr. Demers possesses a rare purity of diction that lifts his public utterance into the realm of letters. It is always encouraging for the serious observer to note such tendencies in the representatives of the people; they indicate an optimistic spirit, a hopeful nature, and an ambition to give to the country the very best of which they are capable.

The announcement by the Premier that henceforth Thursdays would be taken as Government days, is another sign of the approaching end of the session. Still it is not at all probable that the House can be prorogued before the 8th or 15th of May. One member passed a very curious remark the other day. He said that the increased sessional indemnity was granted because of the exceedingly long sessions. Members only received $1,000 each for sessions that lasted four months and often longer. Now that an indemnity of $1,500 has been accorded it would seem very strange that the very first session under the new regulation should be one of the shortest on record. There may be something in the remark; but the coronation of the King and not the increase of pay for members has to do with the shortness of this session. But if that member has any qualms of conscience regarding the acceptance of the extra $500 he is at perfect liberty to decline drawing his allowance. Moreover he may rest perfectly assured that next year he will have no cause for complaint on that score. If the signs of the times are to be trusted, we may anticipate a genuine old-fashioned session in 1903—one like the old-time winters, that will be both continuous and stormy. But it is no province of mine to anticipate the future; I am merely expected to dot down whatever of interest takes place during the present session, and the task is no easy one, for so little has occurred to excite the curiosity of the reader that the writer is at a loss. A session of this class is a fearful temptation, it makes one inclined to let loose the reins of imagination and to dash into the realm of political invention. Nothing to write about: a public that expects something fresh; circumstances that will supply no new facts—the situation is miserable.

nouncing upon the merits or demerits of the drama, either from a theological or an historic standpoint. His Grace found it necessary to forbid the continuation of the representations, and to ordain that the faithful should not attend. Moreover, this action of the Archbishop is simply a carrying out of a like decision on the part of his illustrious predecessor, the late Mgr. Fabre. To his great credit, he said, Mr. Beaulieu, author of the drama, despite whatever loss he sustains, submitted at once and heartily to the desires of the Archbishop. In a very clear and characteristically able article in La Semaine Religieuse, Mgr. Bruchot gave the strong reasons and motives which impelled him to take this course. It was only after careful investigation into all the details, and the allowing of sufficient time for all interested parties to avoid financial loss, that His Grace gave public expression to his judgment in the matter.

It seems to me that no Catholic should have any secondary thought, or even a moment's hesitation in regard to this subject. Even the Anglican Bishop Potter of New York, protested with Mgr. Corrigan against the production of the "Passion Play" in that city. Apart from the Catholic, whose ritual and the very walls of whose temple are a standing protest against such that savors of secularizing the sacred tragedy of Redemption, no Christian, with a ray of faith in his bosom, could see, without feelings of distrust, the reproduction on the common stage, of those events that marked, from the Garden of Olives to the summit of Golgotha, the terrific passage of the Son of God. The Church is the place and the only place wherein such events can be fittingly commemorated. And it seems to me, that the more realistic the representation the more dangerous its character. Still this does not argue either bad faith or a wrongful aim on the part of the composer, the manager, the actors, or others who may be called the promoters of the play. Quite possibly their idea is to elevate the stage, to purify it, to remodel it, and to bring the great truths of religion home to the minds of hundreds who might otherwise remain forever ignorant of them. Still there is the ever-present danger of blasphemy in more than one form, and even of sacrilege, in at least one acceptance of that term. Hence the wisdom of the gifted Archbishop's judgment and the general approval of the course he has seen proper and timely to take. It is another illustration of the importance of giving to Caesar what belongs to Caesar, and to God what belongs to God.

THE CORONATION AND THE OATH.
Rome, April 8.—In spite of the opposition of Cardinal Rampolla, the Papal Secretary of State, the Pope has decided to send important special missions both to the coronation of King Edward and to the festivities in Spain, attendant upon the coronation of King Alfonso. The Cardinal's opposition to the sending of the mission to England was based on the fact that the British Parliament did not change the anti-Catholic formula of the accession oath, and Mgr. Merry Del Val, whom the Pontiff designed to be chief of the mission, openly refused to go while the present wording of the oath is maintained. Nevertheless, the mission will be sent, and will probably arrive in London a few hours after the religious ceremony. This will be a repetition of the diplomatic manoeuvre carried out at the coronation of Czar Nicholas II. at Moscow.

The Papal Jubilee

Baltimore, Md., April 7.—The silver jubilee of Pope Leo XIII. was observed with solemn and unusually elaborate services at the Cathedral yesterday. The ceremony was marked by the presence of two Cardinals. Cardinal Martinielli, the Apostolic Delegate, who came over from Washington Saturday night to take part in the services, officiated, and Cardinal Gibbons preached the sermon. At the conclusion of the Pontifical Mass, Rev. Father O'Donovan, of Cardinal Gibbons' household, read a Papal brief extending special plenary indulgence to all Catholics of the archdiocese who attended the Triduum.

At 7 o'clock this morning, Cardinal Gibbons celebrated Mass at a special service for the Cathedral sodality, at which 1,000 persons received communion and the Papal blessing. His Eminence said, in part: "For nearly two thousand years the Pope of Rome has been the most conspicuous figure in the theatre of public life. The same of the Sovereign Pontiff is indelibly marked on the pages of ecclesiastical history. It is intimately and inseparably associated with the progress and enlightenment, and the Christian civilization of the world. The Pope ever stands before us as the commander-in-chief of the army of Lord of Hosts. You might as well shut out the light of day or the air of Heaven from your daily walks as exclude the Roman Pontiff from his legitimate and permanent sphere in the hierarchy of the Church. The history of the United States with the President left out would be more intelligible than the history of the Christian religion with the omission of the name of the vicar of Christ."

His Eminence then briefly outlined the personal and ecclesiastical history of Leo XIII., dwelling especially on his encyclicals. Speaking of the encyclical on the condition of the workmen, Cardinal Gibbons said: "A conflict between labor and capital is as unreasonable as would be a contention between the head and the hands. The interests of capital and labor are correlative. Capital without labor would be unproductive. Labor without capital would be unprofitable." The Cardinal related a number of incidents which had come under his personal observation in the course of his association with the Pope, tending to show his striking personality, his courtly manner and marked ability as a younger man, and the wonderful clearness of his intellect and excellence of his memory at the present time, in spite of his 83 years.

He concluded as follows: "I know not whether Providence will spare me to pay homage to other supreme Pontiffs, but whether my life is short or long, or whatever may be the future line of Popes sitting on the chair of Peter, I shall always cherish special filial affection and the tenderest memories of Leo XIII."

Pope Leo and The Beer War

London, April 7.—The testimony of some French-Canadians who have just been received in private audience by the Pope, says the Rome correspondent of The Morning Post, throws some interesting light on his present condition. The Canadians had not been to Rome for fourteen years, and were naturally very anxious to compare the condition of Leo XIII.'s mind in 1888 with its present state. They report that the Pope has, as they expected, aged greatly, and that his body seems to have shrunk to an incredible extent, but his mind is perfectly lucid, his memory as keen as ever, and his rapidity of understanding surprising. The father of the family received, who holds an important position in one of the chief Canadian cities, had no sooner mentioned his name, than the Pope, after resting an instant, said: "I remember you perfectly well; you were here fourteen years ago, and Monsieur — has frequently spoken to me of you in high terms. You were here with your little girls. Are they married?" On receiving an affirmative reply, and being told that one of the daughters (who was present at the audience) had lost her husband at the beginning of the South African war, in which he took part with the first Canadian contingent, the Pope ejaculated: "Ah, cette guerre! C'est mon dernier grand chagrin!" Then turning to the widowed daughter, the Pope took her hand between his hands and said: "Ma pauvre petite, je te bénis!"

(The reference is evidently to Judge Routhier, of Quebec, and to his widowed daughter, Mrs. Sutton.)

Western Bishop Consecrated

Edmonton, N. W. T., April 7.—The episcopal consecration of Bishop Breynt took place in the Cathedral at St. Albert, Saturday. The consecrating bishop was Mgr. Girouard, of Athabasca, assisted by Bishop Clut and Bishop Pascal. The consecrating and assisting bishops have all been missionaries in the Athabasca-Mackenzie diocese. Archbishop Langevin occupied the throne, attended by Bishop Doutherville, of New Westminster. Venerable Bishop Grandin was unable to take active part in the proceedings. He was obliged to perform his portion of the service in his bed. His health has not improved during the last few days, and his condition is very precarious, causing great anxiety to those around him.

On Monday the newly consecrated bishop will celebrate Pontifical Mass in the Cathedral of St. Albert. On Tuesday, Rev. Father Vegreville of Stony Plain, will celebrate his golden jubilee of priesthood. This venerable priest came to the Northwest Territories in 1852 with the late Father Remas, who died a few months ago.

Late Father Ryan

At the last monthly meeting of the Men's League of the Sacred Heart, held in St. John's Chapel, a resolution was unanimously adopted expressive of the deep regret of the members on the death of their beloved Spiritual Director, Father Ryan, who was the founder of the Men's Branch of the League in Toronto, and who labored zealously for the last ten years for the promotion of the League and the welfare of its members in this city.

At a meeting of Sacred Heart Court No. 201 of the Catholic Order of Foresters, held April 1st, the following resolution was passed:
Moved by Past Provincial Chief Ranger Lee, seconded by Provincial Trustee Malloy.

That, whereas, this Court has learned with deep regret of the sad demise of the Rev. Father Ryan, rector of St. Michael's Cathedral, Toronto, who for many years took a very deep interest in the welfare of our order; and, whereas, in the death of Father Ryan this order has lost a valued counsellor and spiritual adviser and this diocese has lost a priest beloved by all for his noble, brilliant and kindly qualities of heart and mind;

Be it therefore resolved that this Court in meeting assembled desires to convey to the Archbishop of Toronto and the clergy of the diocese its deep sympathy in the loss of such a devoted son and brother, and be it further resolved that the De Profundis be said at each meeting of this Court for a period of three months for the repose of his soul and in remembrance of the last wishes of the deceased.

Catholic Order of Foresters Insurance

Editor Catholic Register—My attention has been called to the article in your issue of April 3rd on the C. M. B. A., in which it is stated the C. M. B. A. is the only Catholic Assessment Society included in the official report of the Dominion Government Insurance Inspector. While this is true in the main, yet because there are no other Catholic societies mentioned by the inspector, it might be inferred that all other Catholic insurance societies are not recognized by the Insurance Department of the Dominion Government. In so far as the C. M. B. A. and the Catholic Order of Foresters are concerned (both of which are doing practically the same work), permit me to state that the C. M. B. A. being purely a Canadian organization, and holding a charter under the Dominion Government, necessarily comes within the scope of the Department, while the Catholic Foresters, being an international organization, and having its charter granted under the laws of the United States, does not come within the province of the Dominion Inspector, hence cannot be included in the report.

In the report of the Inspector of friendly societies for the Province of Ontario, and also the Province of Quebec, it will be found that the Catholic Order of Foresters is included as a practically sound and safe organization and fully up to the standard as required by the Department of Insurance. Both the C. M. B. A. and the C. O. F. are doing splendid work in the interest of the Catholic people and are deserving of their strongest support.

The Catholic Order of Foresters now numbers 100,000 members, 24,000 of which are in the Dominion of Canada. During the sixteen years of its existence it has paid out to the widows and orphans the magnificent sum of $4,212,525. During the year 1901 alone it has paid out the sum of $708,450. Its manner of assessments are the same as the foremost fraternal orders of the day, being known as the graded assessment, rated according to age, and these are practically the same every month during the life of the members. Two years ago the C. O. F. inaugurated a "Reserve Fund," and since that time has accumulated for this purpose nearly $400,000, which has been invested in Government securities, both in the U. S. and Canada pro rata according to membership.

The Catholic population of the Dominion is increasing rapidly, and if the Catholic people would give the proper support to the two greatest Catholic insurance organizations of the Dominion their influence would not only be felt in the homes, but in the Councils of the municipalities and the nation.

If a branch of the C. M. B. A. or a court of the Catholic Foresters were established in every parish in the Dominion and all the able-bodied members of our church were attached to it, and as a result the widows and orphans and aged dependents were, on the death of a member to receive $1,000, how much of the suffering that the St. Vincent de Paul Society is now constantly taxed to aid would be avoided? How much of the time, patience and purse of our clergy would be turned to other charitable objects? How many orphans would be saved to the church, who now on account of poverty fall into the hands of other denominations? These are facts which the father of every family should take into his serious consideration and become at once an active member of either of these organizations.

Any information concerning rates for membership in an established court or for organization of new courts of the Catholic Order of Foresters will be cheerfully given by the undersigned. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, in advance.
Sincerely yours, M. F. Mogan, Provincial Organizer C. O. F., 25 Sackville street, Toronto.
