Consult with the "Yorkshire"

Our Investment Department is especially valuable to men and women who desire independent advice concerning investment securities.

What Will be the Result

—if the street railway's revenue is not allowed to increase in proportion to its increased costs?

Its expenses must be reduced in proportion and—

1. There would be less service; more crowded cars; less painting, cleaning and varnishing of cars.
2. There would be no more extensions; no more new cars; old cars and old track would give less satisfactory service.
3. There would be more delays because the company could not afford to make necessary repairs.
4. There would be fewer conveniences added to the service, fewer donations for charity and band concerts.

Capital would refuse to invest in street railways until conditions were made right.
