

ABSTRACT

This report on the Sea Fare International 1990 seafood show provides an overview of the United States and California seafood markets. It provides general information on the annual show, including a description of special events, exhibits and product forms. Annexes to the report provide data on fish products of interest in California, grocery stores in southern California, seafood dealers of the states of Arizona and California, a list of exhibitors at the show, a breakdown of the type of visitors at the show, a diagram showing the layout of booths, a partial list of new products displayed at the show, a list of participating Canadian exhibitors and their products, and tariffs on seafood products entering the USA. In addition, the report provides information on the next show, Sea Fare International 1991, which will be held on February 12-14, 1991. Contact information for further details is provided.