

---

A person taken as hostage should not be worried unduly about the welfare or protection of the family residing in the country in question. As soon as the situation is reported, immediate measures will be taken to send family members to a secure location where a mission representative will look after them and keep them informed on the steps taken to obtain the release of the hostage at the earliest possible moment.