

In accordance with its usual procedure, the Commission on Human Rights will report to the Economic and Social Council, which will meet in the summer in Geneva. The Council in turn will report on these human rights matters to the General Assembly, which provides general guidance for the Council and the Commission in this important field of United Nations activity.