

Canada Fair Employment Practices Act

so far as those of the Jewish faith are concerned. We have it so far as displaced persons are concerned. We have it so far as new Canadians are concerned. We have it in all aspects and in all areas of this country.

I should like to say once more that I am very sorry I was not able to hear the remarks of the hon. member for Skeena. All we have to do is look at a map of Canada to realize that this nation is a miracle. Everything was against it; economic laws, geographic laws, religion and anything else you want to mention. This nation has survived and has flourished. I look forward to the day when racial discrimination will not exist in this country. I feel that is a challenge which we have to meet. We cannot sit back and say it does not exist because, in my opinion, it does. I am hoping that all members in this house will strive toward the day when it does not exist.

May I call it six o'clock?

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Bourget: May I ask the house leader if there is any change contemplated in the program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, as announced by the acting house leader?

Mr. Churchill: The program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week will be the same as announced last night, a supply motion on Monday and Tuesday and government business on Wednesday.

At six o'clock the house adjourned, without question put, pursuant to standing order.
