The Undefinable Something

In Art—that which holds one—is a charm as subtle as the soul of the Artist himself. Here in the small but distinctive section of our China Department one may see piece after piece which claims admiration, and that holds us as only the artistic can hold and charm.

Nothing, however, but personal possession lends the full enjoyment to these things of beauty.

Ordinarily these things cost exactly double. The list below for Saturday is a mere daily portion of the many good things.
