N.B.—Up to 1854, the "Trade and Navigation Returns" give the value on books entered at every port in Canada separately; after that year, the Report gives the names of the principal ports only, and the rest as "Other Ports." In 1854, the proportion entered in Lower Canada was within a fraction of the third part of the whole, and, accordingly, in compiling this table for the years 1855—1862, the value entered in "Other Ports" is divided between Upper and Lower Canada, in the proportion of two-thirds to the former and one-third to the latter.

country, at school, is an extensive trade in itself, not only with stationery but with school books, ranging from the primer to the classics. It will thus be seen that this is no unimportant trade; and Toronto is fortunate in possessing a number of establishments exclusively devoted to the business, which in point of energy and ability, are not surpassed by any other branch. . . . The importation of books and stationery into Toronto, for three years past, are as follows:

"Devotional books.....	$.....	$28,773	$100,350
"Books, periodicals, and pamphlets.....	99,575	55,384	19,180
"Stationery.....	33,097	83,428	27,519."

We also insert the following from the Annual Review of Trade in Toronto, for 1861: "WHOLESALE STATIONERY AND BOOKS.—No change of material importance has taken place in this trade during the year. Sales have not been so large as anticipated, yet they do not fall short of the preceding year. The depressed condition of the trade in the United States has caused a number of bankrupt stocks to be thrown into the market, at this and at other points, composed for the most part of a great deal of trash,* leavened with a very little of really sound literature. American houses, hitherto reported as rich, have likewise held auctions, and sold at very low rates. Notwithstanding this, however, the regular legitimate trade has not languished, and on the whole has resulted satisfactorily. Of the standard works of English literature, there has been a fair amount imported; but the new publications, especially those from the American press, have been brought in very sparingly. The retail trade is in a generally healthy condition, and its character, especially in the country, is yearly improving. . . . Other indications of quite as favourable a character are noted, and the trade must prosper with the progress of the country."

The importations for the year of books are $155,842, against $119,419 last year; an increase of $36,423. Of stationery, the imports amount to $28,765, against $27,519 last year; a difference only of $1,146 in favour of 1861."

* Dr. Russell, the admirable correspondent of the London Times, in a letter dated Toronto, February 1st, thus refers to this class of literature, which is silently circulated in numerous channels throughout Canada. He says (referring to Hamilton): "A pretty custom-house, in cut stone, from which floated the Union Jack—the first I have set eyes on for many a long month—flanks the entrance from the railway station to the long straggling town, which but for that token might be taken to be in the United States. Indeed, the influence of the Republic extends some way into the dominions of Her Majesty. The people in the carriages were reading the paltry pictorial papers which do so much to deprave the taste of the Americans, and to unsettle their notions in perspective and in material forms, or were deep in the pirated editions of English works, which constitute the staple trade of the mass of 'enterprising publishers.' The New York papers were the only journals hawked about for sale in the train. The sides of the train were covered with New York and Boston advertisements. Not a smudge of Canada, in book, or print, or journal, or trade, could be detected."

4. BOOK AND STATIONERY TRADE IN CANADA.

We extract the following from the "Annual Report of the Board of Trade of Toronto, Canada West," compiled by Mr. E. Wyman. "The year's business in this branch of trade has been quite satisfactory. Though perhaps less in extent, in common with other departments, it has been quite as profitable if not more so than in former years, while not a few features have developed themselves which are not only advantageous to the legitimate trade, but are gratifying to every well wisher of sound literature in the province. The improvement in the circumstances, capacity, and general business ability of those in the trade, which we have noted from year to year, has continued to manifest itself, and we see now, in almost every town, a bookseller or two conducting business on a sound basis, with more capital than ever before, and a better knowledge of the trade, and of business principles generally. This is evinced most in the improved credit in which the retail trade stands, in the promptitude with which engagements are met, and in the judicious care with which stocks are selected and curtailed. As a distinct branch, the trade is but young. The progress made in the last three years, however, shows that it is not only well established, but that it is rapidly assuming a healthy and prosperous condition. An equally gratifying fact is found in the improved character of the works introduced into general circulation. For years the country has been flooded with the lowest and most trashy class of literature from the American press. Books whose only merit was their bulk and binding, have been hawked into every nook of the province by a migratory tribe of itinerant pedlars. Sometimes a stray work of utility has been found among the stock, but for the most part the special efforts of these book hawkers have been directed to the disposing of some very superficial and uninteresting volumes, which, if even read, would leave the reader a trifle less wise than when he commenced them. We are happy to say that this style of business is rapidly on the decline, and that works from the best publishing houses, and sold through the legitimate trade, are finding their way into many sections of the country, and meeting a largely increased sale. We are not by any means, however depreciating the efforts of the book pedlars to enlighten the world; they are very useful people, and, if their efforts are only properly directed, they may do great good. They are improving in the books which they present to the public, and our dealers will lose nothing by encouraging them, so long as their wares are of a good class. In periodical literature, however, the greatest change is observable—not only in the largely increased demand, but in the improved character of the issues sold. We are happy to say that neither the New York Ledger nor the Mercury is increasing its circulation in Canada. Even Harper's Magazine is not gaining ground. On the other hand, there is a large and growing sale for such periodicals as Good Words, a London publication of the best class, the Family Treasury, the Churchman's Magazine, the Cornhill, All the Year Round, &c., &c., and we are glad to know that the reduction in the price of the London Illustrated News is likely to increase largely its circulation in Canada. These facts present some indications of a change for the better in the literary taste of Canada. This improvement is in no small degree attributable to the persistent and unwearied exertions of our wholesale importers, and the advantages which they enjoy in close connection with first class British publishing houses. We hope, and indeed are certain, that they will be well compensated for their efforts. In this connection we are glad to notice that we are likely to have established amongst us a branch of an extensive and highly respectable Scotch firm, for the purpose not only of re-issuing in much approved style our leading text and school books, but for the publication of other works of merit than that may offer. We have long needed an establishment of this character, and through its operations we may hope to see Canadian Literature take a higher place in the world of letters. With long experience, ample means and the best facilities are commanded by the house in question, and we are sure their advent here will be hailed with pleasure.

"The business in stationery has been fairly remunerative during the year. The advance in materials for paper, as well as a heavy war tax on the manufacture itself, has largely enhanced the value of all descriptions in the United States, independently of the apparent increase in price due to the depreciation of the currency. The consequence is that, as compared with former rates, American stationery is fully 30 per cent. dearer. We have imported much less than the usual amount, substituting English goods, which are of a much better class. It so happens that the prices of the latter are favouring the buyer, as the abolition of the duty on paper has at length begun to cheapen it. It is only recently that there has been any decline in the article, notwithstanding an universal expectation that when the tax was removed the price would fall. Speculation and a largely enhanced demand for cheap periodicals, only a few of which comparatively have lived beyond the year, kept the rates up to nearly the old level, until within the past three months.
