If You Are Hard of Hearing You Will Be Interested in the Acousticon, and the Advice and Help Which the Optical Department Affords

To suit the various stages of those with defective hearing are four different Acousticons in charge of an expert, who will help you select the one which will give best results. The instrument illustrated is the double transmitter portable Acousticon. It has the new small to the ear by earpiece, which can be held to the ear by a neat headband, leaving the hands free for any desired occupation. The transmitter has a sound regulator, allowing the user to make the sounds loud or soft as desired. This transmitter can be put out of sight, under the clothing, and the battery can also be concealed, making its use inconspicuous. This model has a mild, distinct tone, and gives great hearing distance. It is particularly desirable for those who have reached middle age or those who wish to hear across a room, attend church or lecture or listen to several people. Price, complete with carrying case, headband, handle and battery, $50.00.
