MAKING $100,000 A DAY

S. R. Clarke Dilates Upon the Richness of the Ore in New Eldorado.

S. R. Clarke blew into the city from Cobalt yesterday and told The World some interesting things about the great mining camp. Mr. Clarke says the story of rioting in Cobalt is all nonsense. "I never saw a more orderly place in my life," he said: "there is nothing approaching lawlessness of any kind, and I have left my things in my tent with the door unlocked without the slightest risk."

Mr. Clarke says a pile of money is being made in Cobalt. Twelve big mines are in operation, and he thinks the output should soon be $100,000 a day. As yet no very deep shafts have been sunk, the deepest mine being about 100 feet The remarkable feature about the ore Mr. Clarke says, is its richness. Anyone who finds a vein one inch wide and 25 feet long can get $100 for his discovery, and every for instance, could convert his disce ery into a cash value of $500. Wi a great deal of money is being made in a great deal of money is being made in mining, Mr. Clarke says a good many are operating without knowledge of what they are doing. A few tenderfeet do not seem to know the difference between paying ore and muck, and they are to be seen bagging up worthless muck in the same way that paying ore is handled. These men, of course will not make anything out of their industry, and it all goes to show that the amateur has not much better chance in Cobalt than he has in any ther mining camp.

Mr. Clarke showed The World a sample of the surface ore from Cobalt. It is a magnificent specimen, about twice the size of a man's clinched fists and it is worth perhaps $25. Surface ore is quite common in the best parts of the camp. Mr. Clarke thinks it is no great wonder that the discovery was not made sooner. The district is secluded and there was a great deal of moss overgrowing the deposits that are now making Cobalt famous.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP WINS. Majority of Two Favor Purchase of Electric Light Plant.

Meaford, Aug. 18 .- (Special.) -The ratepayers of the town yesterday voted on two bylaws, one authorizing the expenditure of $7500 for the purchase of an electric light plant and to pay W. Moore & Sons $4400 per year for supplying electric power to operate the same in connection with the waterworks; the other to raise by way of loan $5000 for the purchase of an 80,000gallon storage tank for the waterworks. The voting on the first named bylaw was very close, being 183 for and 181 against, leaving a majority of two in favor of municipal ownership. The closeness of the vote was owing to misleading printed statements scattered broadcast on Monday. Many rate-payers were deceived by these printed rs were deceived by these printed ments and voted against the bylaw payers were deceived by these Had the voting taker place a day or so later the bylaw would have been carried by a majority of 35 or 40. There was very little opposition to the bylaw to purchase a new tank, 269 voting for and 87 against it.

My Dear Sir,—You ask me to tell you something of my experience in Cuba. To live in Cuba is to come nearer having a home in an earthly paradise than anywhere else in this world. Not only does Cuba offer an ideal home to those who, being in easy circumstances, do not have to work, but to the hardy farmer, whose stooped shoulders, calloused hands and care-worn face indicate only too plainly the continual struggle to keep the wolf from the door in a Northern climate, it offers a climate and soil whose combined labors take much of the hard work from his shoulders, produce greater results and permit him to produce greater results and permit him to enjoy the fruits of his labors without drudgery and slavery.

Your company is fortunate in having secured such a large and desirable tract of land, which you can offer unhesitatingly to intending colonists as a property which has not its superior in Cuba. I am well acquainted with land in general in Cuba and of that of other american colonies here, and am particularly well acquainted with the tract which you have purchased. On this account I can frankly say that, for location, quality of soil, accessibility to markets, water, etc., your property at Bartle is all that can be desired. I am pleased to see that you have already a saw mill, planing mill and shingle mill on the ground, and that work is rapidly progressing on the clearing of the land preparatory to commence building operations. Push and energy are what are needed and if you carry out your outlined programme of at once establishing a first-class hotel, a good general store and at the same time the erection of several cottages, which settlers can occupy until their own homes are built, I predict that your efforts will be crowned with success. Your outlook is certainly bright, and as soon as folks know how supremely happy they can be in this lovely Island, especially if settled in an English-speaking colony, Bartle will soon become one of the important cities on the Cuba Railway.

Believing that your efforts will result in securing for many happy and profitable homes and wishing you every success, I am,

Dear Sir,—In regard to the piece of land on which you have located your colony, "Bar-tle," I can say that it is as good as and maybe better than any of the other colonies in this part of the Island, and I have seen I am almost through the first five thousand acre survey and so have seen part of

Dear Sir,-Cuba needs no champion to defenu her claim for natural resourcefulness of her soil and her climatic conditions over all semi-tropical or tropical countries. Very tem things—exist which cannot be grown with a little push and energy.

The "Bartle" tract is one of the best for The "Bartle" tract is one of the best for agricultural and sugar purposes located on the Cuba Railway Company's line. I claim this, not after a cursory view, but after three years' experience in construction and supervision of roadway over a long district. This tract being in my district, I had enough occasion to study its soil, salubrity and water, and found none better the whole length of the line.

Yours very truly, P. J. ZEIMET, Proprietor.

Mr. L. A. Abbot, Cuba, July 2, 1905.

My Dear Sir,—As to why timbered lands should be preferred to any others for general use as pertains to the agriculture of this Island, I will answer as nearly as possible from my close observation of seven years' working experience in Cuba.

experience in Cuba.

Timber lands, as a rule, are the richest, and the timber taken from them must be considered, as it pertains to one of the first problems a settler has to solve. He must have lumber and posts for his buildings, fences, etc., which is quite an item in Cuba. This is why the large tract at Rompe is one of the best on the Island. Besides being heavily timbered it has good running water, is crossed by the Cuba Railway, is accessible from two of the best shipping ports on the Island, namely Nuevitas and Nipe, the latter port one of its great advantages, and, lastly, its soil, a deep, dark sandy loam without a rock or swamp, and well drained, is unexcelled in Cuba.

Moreover, this land can be put in sugar cane for less money than any open land, and cane for less money than any open land, and as you know, the natives and Spaniards prefer it to any other, because all that is needed is to fall and clear the timber, saving what is useful and burning the balance, after as it is not necessary. Plowing is for old lands, and not for the rich, virgin timber lands, such as you own. Cane thus planted on this class of land is good for ten years at the very least without re-planting.

For smaller fruits and vegetables you have
